Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—(AP)—An American ambassador and other high government officials were said today by senate munitions probers to have helped the Electric Boat company, this country's biggest submarine builder, to sell its death-dealing wares in South America.

CAPT. A. G. HOWE.

The senate munitions committee heard testimony that Frederick Morgan, ambassador to Brazil in 1922, had aided that concern in that year.

Calls Next War Fatal.

A letter from Morgan to Frederick E. Chapin, Electric Boat's representative, was put in the record. In that letter Morgan wrote he had consulted Luis Aubry, the Electric Boat company's South American submarine salesman. The letter added that the American naval mission to Brazil would be consulted before further orders were given.

L. Y. Spear, vice president of Electric Boat, declared to the committee, in his opinion, "In the event of another world war, I do not believe a nation in the world will be able to survive." He said that in agreeing with the president of his company that submarines are a defensive weapon.

The Electric Boat company, as holder of the original Holland patents, according to a London dispatch today, is allied with the giant British armament firm, Vickers, Ltd., to dominate world submarine building. Electric Boat was shown, according to evidence introduced today, to have been aided in South America not only by Morgan but also by American naval missions to Brazil and Peru.

Favor to Officer's Family?

It developed further that the Electric Boat company paid in 1928 for a passage to Europe for the wife of "Admiral" Howe, former head of the American naval mission to Peru, and her son. The "admiral" was regarded as a Peruvian courtesy title to give him a suitable status with the navy there.

Navy records show that Capt. Alfred G. Howe was head of the Peruvian naval mission from 1926 to 1928. It was explained today at the operations office of the navy that Capt. Howe is away for a few days and no one there knew of the trip described. Secretary Swanson said the navy would coöperate in the senate inquiry as far as possible.

Cites More Coöperation.

It had been testified earlier that Rear Admiral Clark H. Woodward, also former head of the naval mission to Peru, was favorable to the Electric Boat company. Woodward agreed, letters showed, that he would ask the navy to send any inspector to Peru that Electric Boat might recommend. The inspector's duty would be to approve for the Peruvian government the submarines sold by Electric Boat.

"Yes," Spear agreed, "we wanted a competent man."

Spear insisted it was the policy not only of his company but of the U. S. navy to have the South American countries' fleets similar to the U. S. types in view of some possible great emergency.

Protest Bids by Germans.

Both Spear and Carse told the committee frankly they protested to the American state department that Germany was violating the treaty of Versailles by attempting to sell submarines in South America. Spear and Carse protested to Vickers, Ltd., that Japanese builders might be violating contracts with Vickers through plans to acquire South American business. The Electric Boat officials said it was understood the Japanese had agreed to stay out of other markets.

Further testimony included efforts by Carse and other company officials to persuade United States bankers to help finance South American loans that were to be used for munitions purchases.

Attempts were described—successful in Peru—to make national animosities the lever to cause munitions purchases from the Electric Boat company, Peru buying from that source

LAWYER CALLED PAYOFF MAN OF DILLINGER GANG

Evidence that Attorney Louis Piquett served as treasurer and "payoff" man for the gang of bank robbers and murderers led by John Dillinger was said yesterday to be in the hands of the government. This disclosure was made by federal agents as government prosecutors went before the grand jury to seek indictment of Piquett and six others on charges of harboring Dillinger before he was trapped and slain in Chicago.

LOUIS PIQUETT.

In the office of Piquett in the Builders' building at La Salle street and Wacker drive, agents said, women of the Dillinger gang received money and messages from their outlaw sweethearts. Piquett also is said to have been the paymaster for two plastic surgeons who rearranged the features and finger prints of Dillinger and his lieutenant, Homer Van Meter, recently slain in St. Paul.

$10,000 Paid for Surgery.

The accused physicians, Wilhelm Loeser and Harold Bernard Cassidy, who are among the seven against whom indictments are sought, are alleged to have been promised $5,000 each for the operations.

Federal agents intimated that Piquett had short-changed the two physicians in the deal for the plastic surgery and said this fact caused Loeser and Cassidy to confess freely and implicate the attorney.

It also was reported yesterday that Piquett offered to surrender the hunted Dillinger several months before the desperado was shot to death by federal agents last July 22 in front of the Biograph theater at 2433 Lincoln avenue. The offer, refused by government officials, according to rumor, is said to have caused a watch to be placed on Piquett, which resulted in his arrest on the present charges.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green denied last night, however, that Piquett had made any overtures to the government to surrender Dillinger.

Grand Jury Hears Evidence.

As agents continued the investigation of Piquett's affairs, Mr. Green and his assistants, Leo J. Hassenauer and Harry N. Connaughton, presented evidence before the federal grand jury in the United States courthouse.

The jury heard evidence for six hours, which is reported to have been the longest session of a federal grand jury since evidence of income tax evasion was presented against Terry Druggan, the former beer baron.

The jury is expected to act today in the case. The defendants, besides Piquett, Loeser, and Cassidy, are Arthur O'Leary, investigator for Piquett; William Finerty and his wife, Ella, in whose Calumet City home Dillinger is said to have been harbored, and Marie Conforti, sweetheart of Van Meter.

All Seven Held in Jail.

All seven are held in the county jail because of their inability to put up bonds. The bond for Piquett was set at $50,000; Loeser, Cassidy, and O'Leary are held in bond of $25,000 each. Finerty's bond is $10,000, and the bonds of Mrs. Finerty and the Conforti woman are $5,000 each.

Prosecutor Green said last night that six witnesses had been heard by the grand jury. O'Leary was first in the procession of witnesses. He had made a confession to federal agents implicating Piquett. In this confession O'Leary is reported to have said that bank robberies were planned by members of the Dillinger gang in Piquett's office.

Following O'Leary, Anna Patske, secretary to Dr. Loeser, appeared before the jurors. Then a federal agent gave evidence and was followed by Dr. Loeser and Dr. Cassidy.

Silent on Conforti Woman.

The sixth witness, it was rumored, was the Conforti woman. It was learned that she had been taken from the county jail for several hours yesterday, but Mr. Green refused to admit or deny that she was before the grand jury.

"I don't want to commit myself about that woman," he said.

He said that Loeser, Cassidy, and O'Leary waived immunity when they appeared before the grand jury. The

MORE PROOF THAT A HOUSE CLEANING IS NEEDED

ROME, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Benito Mussolini tonight was reported planning to take all women workers out of Italy's industry.

Two reasons, it was reliably learned, influenced Il Duce in his decision:

Jobs, he holds, interfere with what he believes to be woman's primary duty, the building up of families and the increase of Italy's population.

Becomes Independent.

An editorial in Mussolini's newspaper, Popolo d'Italia of Milan, tended to confirm the report that he will move to eliminate woman workers.

"The working woman," the newspaper asserted, "creates the problem of population [decrease] as well as that of unemployment.

"No Victory Without Dead."

"Oftentimes the working woman saves a family otherwise abandoned, but her work is generally a source of political and moral bitterness. The salvation of a few individuals is paid for by the blood of the multitude. There is no victory without dead.

"The exodus of women from the field of labor doubtless would have economic repercussions in many families, but a legion of men would lift humiliated heads and a hundred times more new families would enter the national life.

"It is necessary to convince ourselves that the same work which causes in woman the loss of her generative attributes brings to man the strongest physical and moral virility."

FIND DINOSAUR OF 15 TON BODY, 1 OUNCE BRAIN

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—The discovery of bones of a dinosaur with a brain that weighed only one ounce in a fifteen ton body about fifty feet long is revealed in a report by Dr. Barnum Brown, leader of the American museum-Sinclair dinosaur expedition. The expedition is excavating skeletons of prehistoric beasts in the Big Horn mountains in Wyoming.

The report, made to Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, acting director of the American Museum of Natural History, and released by that institution today, describes the dinosaur as the first monster of its kind to be discovered.

PACIFIC OCEAN GOES ON RAMPAGE; PIER AT LONG BEACH CRASHES

Long Beach, Cal., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Pacific ocean, on one of its wildest rampages in years, with huge rollers breaking 1,000 feet off shore, late today caused the collapse of the Pine avenue pier, with a loss estimated by city officials at $100,000.

Roy Miller, life guard captain, and three members of his crew, stationed near the end of the pier, rushed to safety by a narrow margin as the pier collapsed.

Thousands of tons of débris were thrown into the water and pounded against the piling beneath the adjacent Rainbow pier, on which a number of concessions are located. City officials feared the Rainbow pier also might collapse. The government weather bureau and meteorologists were unable to explain the reason for the heavy surf. There have been no reports of a storm at sea.

Sophie Tucker Takes Role of Pacifier; Gets Black Eye

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Sophie Tucker, American stage star, became mixed up in a free for all fight tonight and retired from the fray with a black eye. As she left the theater where she is appearing, she was mobbed by women autograph hunters. She signed several books, and as she handed one back to its owner another woman tried to snatch it. The fight started. Miss Tucker tried to separate the two women and was hit in the eye.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 5.—Black rain fell in Buenos Aires at noon today, making the city as dark as night. The weather bureau's analysis showed that the rain water was filled with microscopic particles of burned carbon and unburned petroleum, presumably from the smoke of the recent oil fire at Campana, where oil tanks burned for a week following an explosion.

Penalties Cut to Speed 1932 Tax Payments

County Treasurer Nash announced last night that beginning today only half of the one per cent monthly penalty would be collected on delinquent 1932 property tax bills. The treasurer made the announcement following a conference with Mayor Kelly and other officials.

The accrued penalty, Mr. Nash explained, now amounts to 5 per cent on the first instalment of the 1932 taxes and 3 per cent on the second instalment. Therefore taxpayers who pay now will be assessed penalties of only 2½ per cent and 1½ per cent on the two instalments.

Legislature Must Approve.

The penalty savings will be allowed to taxpayers, Mr. Nash said, on condition that they agree to pay the full penalties in the event the legislature fails to validate the treasurer's action.

Mr. Nash explained that legislation will be necessary because the present penalty tax law gives the County court the right to cut penalties in half for 1929, 1930, and 1931 taxes, but fails to include the 1932 taxes.

"Apparently the legislature in enacting the law believed we would be clear of the tax muddle by 1932," Mr. Nash said. Mayor Kelly said he would use his influence to obtain the necessary legislation.

Expect to Speed Payments.

Both Mayor Kelly and Mr. Nash were confident that the reduced penalties would speed the payment of delinquent 1932 taxes.

"The reduction will cause many large taxpayers, such as the railroads, banks, insurance companies and mortgage houses, to come in and pay at once," Mr. Nash predicted. "They have delayed paying their 1932 taxes pending action on the waiver of half the penalties in conformity with the previous years.

"We also believe that the thousands of school teachers who only recently received their back pay in full should not be assessed full penalties because they did not have the money at the time to pay their tax bills."

Three Railroads Pay $1,121,044.

Attending the conference in Mayor Kelly's office were also County Judge Jarecki, Assistant State's Attorneys Hayden Bell and Louis Gelman, and George Hagenauer, chief auditor for the treasurer's office.

Assistant State's Attorney Bell was instructed to prepare a bill validating the action of the treasurer, which will be submitted to the legislature.

Officials of three railroads appeared yesterday at the treasurer's office and paid $1,121,044 in 1932 taxes on the proviso that half of the penalties be remitted. The payments made were: Baltimore and Ohio, $802,851; Chicago and Alton, $156,170, and Rock Island, $162,023. The payments will be recorded today, the treasurer said.

Post Tries Out Equipment at 40,000 Feet

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

With equipment and engine tested by a flight to the 40,000 foot level yesterday, Wiley Post, round the world race pilot, today was awaiting the arrival of a high pressure area and clear weather now moving toward Chicago to make an attempt to set a new altitude record.

Post indicated last evening that he would be ready at an early hour this morning to have the official observers for the flight put the sealed barographs aboard his plane. From the records of these barographs officials in the bureau of standards at Washington will determine after his descent the exact height to which he flew. The present altitude record is 47,352 feet.

Flyer Lifted Into Plane.

With great secrecy yesterday Post donned his rubber suit, was laced into the heavy canvas covering, and had his duraluminum helmet bolted to his shoulders inside the hangar at Curtiss-Reynolds airport. He then was assisted into the cockpit of his ship, the Winnie Mae, a standard type of Lockheed Vega high wing cabin monoplane. Post was so distended by his suit that he could not get through the narrow doors into the cabin, so he was hoisted up and let down through a hatch in the roof.

Post then taxied the ship to the starting line, where he remained for some time warming up the engine. He took off at exactly 1 p. m. and began a rapid climb, disappearing eventually when well to the east. He reappeared at 3 p. m., circled and landed.

When pried out of his suit he announced with a wide grin that his suit, motor and plane "had functioned perfectly." He said he wanted a few minor adjustments which Mel Mollenkopf, his chief mechanic, would be able to make within a short time. These involved changing the position of the liquid oxygen tank from which he will draw both pressure for his suit and breath for his lungs, so that he could more easily reach an adjustment cock from his seat at the controls.

Applies Pressure to Suit.

Asked how high he went, Post asserted that he had not noticed his maximum altitude. He said he had looked down on clouds which were floating in front at a 30,000 foot level, and this statement was taken to indicate he had climbed well above that height. He said he had no way to tell exactly how fast he traveled, but "guessed" it was in the neighborhood of 350 miles an hour.

Post said he had applied five pounds pressure to his suit beginning at 22,500 feet. "I was never once uncomfortable, but it was so cold, according to the thermometer fixed under one wing, that any one who had been with me would have been very uncomfortable," he said.

Post wears the suit to enable him to breathe naturally in the rarefied air he will encounter at 50,000 feet. His suit also will maintain the ground level pressure of 14.7 pounds per square inch on his body when he reaches the heights where the pressure has been reduced to less than two pounds per square inch.

Cat Dives Five Floors; Scurries Away Unhurt

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The United States weather bureau here claimed the mythical title for high diving alley cats. When a stray invaded the office on the fifth floor of a downtown building today the janitor tried to corner it. The cat leaped from the window, dropped to the sidewalk, and scurried away.

340,000 UNION MEN NOW OUT; PRESIDENT ACTS

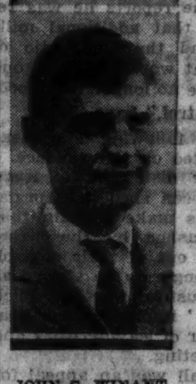
Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—After a day of riots, gunfights, death, and bloodshed, textile strike leaders tonight rejected arbitration of their grievances by President Roosevelt's new board. They insisted that agreement to arbitrate implies acceptance in advance of the board's findings.



JOHN G. WINANT. [Conciliator.]

The unions are ready to coöperate in any study of the situation the board may wish to make, according to Francis J. Gorman, chief of the strike staff. He added that he hoped the board's study might lead to peace, but said the strike certainly would continue until the board had some plan to offer.

"Messages from our locals today say clearly they want to stay out until the board makes its report," Gorman said. "They've trusted boards too many times before and their confidence has been shaken."

Death on Southern Front.

Meanwhile, with 340,000 workers out and the strike rapidly spreading, there was death on one strike front and bloodshed and fighting in two others. From New England, the south, and the northwest came report after report of disturbances. Gov. Ehringhaus of North Carolina tonight ordered Adj. Gen. Metts to take charge of the situation and to "use such troops as are necessary to aid local authorities in policing duties."

Three companies of guardsmen were ordered to Marion and two were sent to Concord.

Probably the most disastrous riot of the day occurred at Trion, Ga., where two men were killed and fifteen others shot, some of whom probably will die. A Trion policeman was one of those killed. Some were shot by guards at the mill and others by strikers. All city and county officers were hastily mobilized at the scene. The mill, employing 2,600, closed at noon and the rioting began immediately.

At Augusta, Ga., at least three men were shot, one of whom may die, when the Enterprise mill began to change shifts. The trouble was believed to have started when strikers surrounded a policeman attempting to disperse the crowd. The policeman was knocked down and trampled, then he opened fire. One was shot in the abdomen, one in the back, and the third in a hip.

Fighting Closes Three Mills.

The three mills of the Bibb Manufacturing company at Macon, Ga., were closed today following a new outbreak of fighting at the gates. Police could not move the dense throng of pickets as the mill attempted to open this morning. Shots were heard, but no one was reported wounded.

Textile workers in Portland, Ore., stoned and damaged an automobile driven by an official of the Oregon Worsted company. Twelve were arrested.

Rioting broke out in Lowell, Mass., when a crowd of about 2,000 surrounded the Lowell silk mill as employés were going home. Police used 30 inch nightsticks to disperse the mob. Two were arrested. Police from all parts of the city were called.

Women Workers Beaten.

Five were injured, four of them women workers, at the Judson mill in Greenville, S. C., today when a flying squadron of about a thousand strikers forced the Dunean mill to close.

Tear gas was brought into play in Fall River, Mass., when a crowd of about 1,500 strikers and sympathizers gathered at the Sagamore mills and hurled rocks and broke windows.

ROOSEVELT INTERVENES

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today intervened for the first time in the great textile strike, which has already involved a quarter of a million workers and may affect a million, by the appointment of a special board of mediation.

The President explained at a press conference that the national labor relations board, of which Lloyd K. Garrison is chairman, had expressed its unwillingness to assume original jurisdiction in the case and recommended the appointment of a special board, as was done in the matter of the San Francisco longshoremen's strike.

Inasmuch as there is already a cotton textile national industrial relations board, empowered with full authority to act in a mediatory capacity, the new special board appointed by the President seemed somewhat redundant, but he explained that the national labor relations board was designed to act as a court of last resort in controversies arising under section 7A of the NRA, and that it was considered desirable to have a special board, as provided by the law, to act in the capacity of a court of first instance.

Nevertheless, it was made clear that the special board would have no sanction and could act only in a mediatory capacity, with the right of either party to appeal to the quasi-judicial jurisdiction of the national labor relations board.

Members are John G. Winant, governor of New Hampshire, chairman; Marian Smith, Atlanta, Ga., and Raymond V. Ingersoll, Brooklyn, N. Y. who was Al Smith's manager for the gubernatorial election in 1924.

STRIKE GAINING FAST

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Spokesmen for the cotton, woolen, and silk textile manufacturers conceded today that the nation-wide textile strike was making rapid gains. They charged that willing workers were being intimidated and mills closed by "flying squadrons" of strikers numbering from 2,000 to 3,000 touring the countryside in trucks and motor cars.

George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton-Textile Institute, Inc., before commenting on the reports constantly coming in from the strike centers said:

Mr. Sloan could give no figures on the number of additional workers called out during the day, but he disclosed that the reports he was receiving showed that additional mills were closing and that his ratio of three employés at work for every one employé on strike no longer held good.

"Out of Control," Says Sloan.

Sloan in the following statement tonight commented on the violence.

"I am deeply distressed to learn that blood has been shed in Georgia. These sad events make it plain that the forces unleashed by the strike leaders are now out of their control.

"This is no longer to be viewed as the ordinary industrial warfare which the term 'strike' implies in America. It is not a matter of leaving work and of peaceful picketing.

"The strike call was an appeal for confidence. The appeal was denied by a vast majority of our workers.

"Now, lawless bands of misled people, thousands in number, move across wide areas, against whole communities, smash mill doors, drag men and women from work they wish to perform and threaten with violence all who do not yield. This is an assault on fundamental American rights."

Tells Workers to Aid.

Frank Schweitzer, general secretary of the American Federation of Silk Workers, announced that with the walkout of 17,000 silk workers in the Paterson, N. J., district and with mills closing in other sections, the silk industry was approximately 80 per cent shut down. Schweitzer disclosed that many unions in other industries, notably the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, were offering material aid to the strikers and supplying organizers.

For the first time since the strike the three heads of the cotton, woolen, and silk industries went into a strike conference at a luncheon at the Merchants' club.

Mr. Sloan received a telegram from the Southern Combed Yard association, Gastonia, N. C., advising him that in Gaston county, the largest combed yarn center in the country, the 1,250,500 spindles were all stopped by armed marauders who broke into some plants, smashed windows, threw switches and intimidated workers.

"Any board appointed by President Roosevelt will receive our utmost respect," said Sloan. "We will gladly make available to it all of the acts in our possession."

Plan to Order Dyers Out.

In the Paterson area in New Jersey a strike of 20,000 silk and rayon workers became effective despite the failure of the industrial relations board of Paterson to authorize the walkout. The Paterson workers were not called out, when the general strike orders were issued, because of individual employer-union contracts.

At 9 a. m. today, however, the union leaders issued a strike call. Within an hour throngs of workmen had gathered about union headquarters. Before noon the jam became so great that special details of policemen were assigned to keep the streets open to trafic.

Union leaders said that the 13,000 silk dyers employed in the Paterson area "probably will be ordered out within forty-eight hours" to join the silk workers. They based this prediction on telegraphed advices from general strike headquarters in Washington.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

At least 340,000 textile workers were idle today because of the general strike in the industry, an independent survey showed. This is an increase of almost 140,000 over yesterday.

The strike by states is shown by the following table:

| State. | Normally employed. | Est. idle. |

Estimates of the idle are based upon advices from staf correspondents and member newspapers. In some instances they are higher than employers' figures and lower than union estimates.

NEW ENGLAND IDLE

Boston, Mass., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The tide of the general textile strike rolled steadily over New England tonight engulfing, in Massachusetts, two of the largest textile centers in the country, and, in Rhode Island, seriously menacing a third.

In the New Bedford and Fall River area, where ordinarily nearly 44,000 workers are employed, every plant was closed.

In the populous Blackstone valley district of Rhode Island four mills employing an aggregate of 8,500 workers closed today, although, as an offset, the great thread manufacturing plant of J. & P. Coats continued to give work to its 3,000 employés and three other firms employing as many more defied the United Textile Workers of America to silence their machines.

In Massachusetts a survey of the situation showed approximately 73,959 idle and 31,230 at work, but these admittedly did not include many small mills; in Rhode Island a newspaper survey showed 18,000 idle, against 34,000 at work, although the union claimed a higher idleness figure, while in New Hampshire more than 12,000 were out, including the employés of the gigantic Amoskeag plant, which ordinarily gives work to 8,500, and two big mills at Nashua employing 3,200 more.

4,000 Out in Maine.

In Maine estimates of the idle ran as high as 4,000 out of 22,000 possible workers, while in Connecticut 13,065 employés were idle in 29 out of the state's 66 cotton, silk, and rayon plants.

At Nashua, where only yesterday it had seemed likely that the strike would not seriously affect the two big plants which are the city's largest industries, the two mills announced that intimidation of workers had made it undesirable to continue to operate.

Shortly afterward the Manville-Jenckes plant at Manville, R. I., another Blackstone valley industry, closed, throwing 2,200 out of work, while at the nearby Berkshire Fine Spinning Associates plant at Albion 300 strikers walked out, leaving only 300 in the plant.

At the same time came word from North Grosvenordale, Conn., that the Grosvenordale mills, employing 1,450, had shut down and the Farr Alpaca company of Holyoke closed, throwing 2,000 out.

TWO HELD AFTER STONE ATTACK ON THREE BUSES

Two men were held by the Fillmore police last night on charges of malicious mischief after three incidents of violence occurred in the strike of a group of bus drivers against the Chicago Motor Coach company. The men are John Martin, 25 years old, 120 South Spaulding avenue, and Daniel King, 34 years old, 3252 5th avenue.

They were arrested by Policemen Charles Fuller and John Alesia, who said they had seen the men throw a stone through the window of a bus at Jackson boulevard and Kedzie avenue. The men were seized as they started to drive away in an automobile.

Shortly before, Policeman Jack Fayer of the Fillmore station was cut in the face by flying glass as two men riding in an automobile sent a stone from a slingshot through the window of a bus on Austin boulevard near South boulevard. Policeman Fayer, who was detailed in plain clothes to prevent violence by the strikers, was seated near the bus driver. Earlier the same two men had slung a stone through the window of another bus at Austin and Hirsch boulevards and fled in an automobile while Detective Charles Trilling fired at them. Fayer and Trilling were unable to identify Martin and King as those who attacked the other buses.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—A heart attack last night caused the death of Richard A. Madill, 72, South Haven, Mich. Mr. Madill for 22 years was cashier and bookkeeper of the Citizens' State bank at South Haven. His widow and two sons survive.

DYERS LOCK OUT 2,500 WORKERS; 70 PLANTS IDLE

Owners Blame Failure to Enforce NRA Code.

The lockout in Chicago cleaning and dyeing plants, announced Tuesday evening, spread yesterday to 70 of the 104 plants in the city, affecting some 2,500 employés, it was announced yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Chicago Cleaners and Dyers association in the Palmer house.

Walter F. Crowley, president of the association, which called the lockout as a protest against what its members term "impossible" operating conditions, said that the association expects to extend the lockout to all of its members, between 8. and 90.

Other Plants Are Nonunion.

The remaining plants in the city, nonmembers of the association, employ nonunion labor principally. The association has contracts with local 712 of the Laundry and Dyehouse Drivers' union, and with the Inside Cleaning and Dying Workers' union.

The situation which led to the lockout is essentially the same which has prevailed in the Chicago cleaning and dyeing industry for the last decade. It has led to price wars, price fixing combinations which were successful for limited periods only, waves of racketeering and violence, and to the indictment last year of leaders of the unions and the cleaners' association on charges of conspiracy, of which they were acquitted after a long trial before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court.

The present situation results from the refusal of NRA authorities, several months ago, to continue further enforcement of the price-fixing provisions in the cleaning and dyeing code. NRA officials said that th volume of violations of the price schedule was too great to permit successful enforcement.

Claim Competition Too Great.

The code set a minimum price of 75 cents for cleaning a dress or suit. Association members still charge this. At present non-members of the cleaning and dyeing association are cleaning suits and dresses at a price of three or even four for a dollar. The association members claim that they cannot meet this competition and continue to pay union wage scales which are two to three times the wage minimums set in the NRA code.

The union scale, for drivers, is a minimum of $30 a week plus commissions for all business in excess of $100 a week. Jean Franks, business agent of the drivers' union, said yesterday that 60 per cent of drivers on retail routes are making only the minimum, because of their empoyers' loss of business to cut-rate cleaners, and that drivers on wholesale routes average $40 or less.

Under the union scale wages of inside workers range from a top of $45 for a 40-hour week to skilled workers down to presser girls who at piecework rates make from $20 to $32 a week.

Charges Code Wages Violated.

The NRA code sets a minimum wage of $15 a week for drivers and inside workers, and $13.20 a week for presser girls, at an hourly rate. Members of the association said that to their knowledge the cut price independents were living up to the NRA minimum in all but a few cases, but Mr. Franks' charges that there have been wholesale violations of the code wage minimum in the independent plants.

He added that the drivers' union has a contract with the employers' association which does not expire until Aug 1, 1935. The contract, the union has been advised, is enforceable in a court of equity, and union officials will go into court rather than abandon it, he added.

No formal action was taken at the employers' meeting yesterday. Frank Harscher, secretary of the association, said the members are hopeful that city officials or the state NRA authorities will step into the association and attempt some solution of their difficulties.

MT. HOREB HOMECOMING.

Mount Horeb, Wis., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—A three day homecoming, sponsored by the Mount Horeb Chamber of Commerce, will begin here Thursday in connection with the 12th annual fall frolic, also sponsored by the chamber.

POLICE USE TEAR GAS TO QUELL RIOTERS IN SHOE PLANT STRIKE

Lancaster, O., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Tear gas was released by police today to quell minor skirmishes between strike pickets and workers at the H. C. Godman Shoe company plant here. The skirmishes occurred during the noon hour as pickets attempted to prevent workers from leaving or returning to the plant.

Several women engaged in hair pulling tussles and a number of men suffered slight cuts. One woman, whose name could not be learned, lost her dress in a struggle to enter the plant. She succeeded in entering however, clothed only in her underwear.

Shortly afterward, police chief Gail Sesler ordered tear gas released to disperse the crowd, and the nonstriking workers took advantage of the resultant lull to reënter the plant.

VIOLENCE MARKS RENEWED WORK ON WHITING PLANT

Construction work was resumed yesterday on the $10,000,000 Carbide and Carbon Chemical corporation plant in Whiting, Ind., with 100 special police standing guard. Work had been halted by a strike a month ago, in which building trade workers demanded $1.25 an hour, as compared to the 88 cents offered by the company.

Harry E. Scheck, conciliator for the United States department of labor, was ordered to Whiting from Chicago yesterday to try his hand at settling the dispute.

A bus driver taking workers to the plant was stoned during the day and two union workers were taken into custody. Earlier two bus drivers carrying strike breakers from Chicago were taken from their buses as they returned and were beaten. One of the buses was overturned.

Morris Wilson, 2444 South Michigan avenue, was dragged from a bus and beaten at 110 street and Indianapolis boulevard. The name of his assailant was not obtained.

Two hundred and fifty workers were employed yesterday, and company officials said that the number would be increased daily until 1,000 men are employed.

WOMAN SLUGGED AND ROBBED.

Miss Emily Rowe, 27 years old, 2419 Sunnyside avenue, cashier for the Flues Carpet and Rug company, 330 East Ohio street, was struck on the head yesterday by a man who robbed her of $143 as she was entering the office after returning from a bank.

DISPUTED BALLOT HEARINGS OPEN IN TRUCK STRIKE

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Hearings on 103 disputed truck driver election ballots, involving employés of 39 firms, opened before the Minneapolis-St. Paul regional labor board today. It was expected it would be several days before testimony is concluded.

Decisions will be made on all cases before any announcement is made, officials said. The disputed votes were cast in the election following settlement of the recent truck strike. Employés of 56 firms chose general Truck Drivers' Union, No. 574, as their representative in collective bargaining and 58 decided on other representatives.

No. 574 sponsored two strikes which tied up motor transportation here for 11 days in May and five weeks in July and August.

Hear Many Witnesses in Radio Quiz.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Like thunderclaps on a darkening horizon, stories of New Orleans underworld, the wholesale fixing of cases in the "Night court" for prostitutes, a reckoning of $250,000 a year in protection payment for lotteries, and other minor scandals broke over the tense political atmosphere of this city today as Senator Huey Long's legislative investigating committee continued its radio warfare upon the hard pressed old regulars of the city administration.

An impending clash between the police and the militia guarded committee was seen in the summoning and examination of three police officials for contempt in the case of Marie Menendez, alias Adams, who testified last Saturday to the payment of graft to the police for her girl "waitresses," and who was arrested that same evening on the charge of accosting, after which she denied the story.

Police Rent Nearby Room.

It developed that the police have rented a room on the same floor of the Canal Bank building in which the committee is holding its hearings, and that four detectives are watching the witnesses come and go. The arrest of the Menendez woman was carried out by two captains of detectives and a third "spotter" for the force, but these all testified that it was a pure coincidence. They are in the building, they said, "to preserve law and order," not to help the committee, and they did not see or know the woman.

The most sensational witness of the day in this closed hearing, where none has benefit of counsel or defense, was a man whose voice came over the air as "Allaine." He said he was formerly connected with the Democratic Mirror, an old guard organ.

Tells of Night Court.

He was asked about his connection with the Night court or Recorders' court.

"I had connections in the underworld," he said. "When there were arrests I was given the names. I called on them and arranged that they did not have to appear in court. It was for a consideration."

Q.—You understood that money went to higherups? A.—I took that for granted. I took in the names, held a little confab, and these cases were dropped. I would hand in the names on a piece of paper. The clerk who calls the cases would get up and whisper to the judge, or something of that sort.

Q.—Did the judge have a list? A.—He had a list of people not supposed to appear. Others were names of those supposed to appear and be dismissed. I had no money transaction with the judge—just the general run of favors for those that have political affiliations.

Here the witness delivered himself of this philosophy: "If you are in right, you are in right; if you are not in you are out."

Q.—Were you ever in the lottery business? A.—Yes. I was interested in the Jai-Alai lottery and arranged for protection.

Q.—Whom did you pay? A.—Detectives and collectors.

Details of Payment.

The answer in detail brought out that he had paid from $10 to $45 a precinct in six precincts, according to the number of shops or whether there were street vendors. His complete regular payments were $213. In addition there was about $50 a week extra "gravy," he said, for detectives who dropped in about drawing time. He said the bets were $9 against 5 cents that the patron could not guess three numbers to come up in the wheel. The chance, he said, was 420 to 1 against the customer.

Police Captains Henry Asset and Joseph Cassard and Detective Joe Tierney, who were called later in connection with the Menendez investigation, said they knew nothing of lotteries or handbooks. They admitted they had heard of a "red light" district. Their examination by the committee was interesting to the country members, including Uncle Dick Wilds of Wildsville, Concordia parish.

Long in Background.

Senator Long kept out of the limelight today and other members took a hand in the questioning. They were particularly interested in the story that the police did not know the Menendez woman had testified against them, that they picked her up by accident. She runs a soft drink parlor. Tierney said he went in there and asked for beer.

After he was served, he said, "the woman propositioned me" and he called to the two captains waiting in a car across the street and arrested her. A former public prosecutor on the committee wanted to know if it was the custom in New Orleans to convict a woman on the unsupported word of a police spotter. It appeared that it was.

Zoning Board Troubles.

A Mrs. Lavare told of her troubles with the zoning board. She keeps a small rooming house and a big store blocks up her entrance by service wagons. She said she had turned gray in trying to get this stopped, as it was against the ordinance. She said she was told by one official:

"You are old enough to know that influence and money are running everything and you won't have a look in."

She heard the district attorney talking over the radio and it sounded so nice she thought she might get some help there, but when she went there, she said, he told her the ordinance meant something else and he could not protect her property.

NRA DROPS EFFORT TO LIMIT SALARIES OF MOVIE PLAYERS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Provisions of the motion picture industtry code designed to control payment of excessive salaries to stars and executives and to eliminate alleged unfair competitive methods in bidding for stars under contract with another company were indefinitly and probably finally suspended today by Gen. Johnson, NRA administrator.

The action followed an extensive investigation into salaries and practices of the motion picture industry by Sol. A. Rosenblatt, division administrator. President Roosevelt had suspended these provisions temporarily pending Mr. Rosenblatt's investigation.

"A star or executive is worth as much as the public can be led to think he is worth by paying to see his offerings," said the report. "If individual producers find it difficult to gauge in advance the possible value of these services, it is patently impossible for a code authority to exercise any more effective judgment in the matter."

VIEW PRESIDENT AS UNEASY OVER NATION'S CREDIT

Interview Bares Hint of Concern.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—In addition to his action in the textile strike, President Roosevelt today engaged in an informal conversation with Lord Iliffe, prominent British publisher, on the subject of strikes in general, and exhibited for the first time, in the opinion of White House interviewers, a state of irritation and uneasiness with respect to the credit of the United States.

A question relative to the fact that the obligations of the United States treasury recently fell below par brought forth a sardonic effusion on the subject of sabotaging the government's credit, much of which was made off the record.

Hits at Newspapers.

The President indicated in no uncertain terms his impatience with newspapers unfriendly to the New Deal, which he accused of deliberate efforts to instill fear in the minds of prospective government creditors, rather than being content with an intelligent questioning of the extent to which the present rate of spending could go.

Lord Iliffe and the President agreed that the general strikes, such as England experienced in 1926 and San Francisco had recently, were beneficial in the sense that they tend to increase the responsibility of organized labor. It was the joint opinion that general strikes can never succeed because they alienate public opinion, and that this inevitable realization on the part of organized labor must enhance its responsibility to the public.

Confers with La Guardia.

President Roosevelt conferred with Mayor Fiorella H. La Guardia of New York and Frank H. Walsh, chairman of the New York power authority, during the day. His guest at luncheon was Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago, an old friend, who made a social call before sailing for Europe.

Mayor La Guardia said he discussed the relief situation of large cities generally with the President, coming away with "a much better frame of mind" and confident that some formula for meeting the problem of destitution would be found. La Guardia said the present method of meeting the problem of idleness could not go on, and indicated a belief that his New York policy of direct taxation for relief, supplemented by an increased public works program, would be adopted on a national scale.

Predict St. Lawrence Victory.

Mr. Walsh, after his conference with the President, declared emphatically that the administration would put over the St. Lawrence treaty, rejected by the senate of the last congress, at the next session.

"The project will be resubmitted at the January session, and I am confident that construction work will get under way in the spring," Walsh said.

He also expressed the opinion that the Roosevelt administration would develop the St. Lawrence waterway as a navigation and power project to "provide a fourth yardstick on electric rates, with Muscle Shoals, Boulder dam, and the Columbia river, and to open up a great ocean highway into the heart of the continent."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Socialist Comrade Upton Sinclair, Democratic candidate for the governorship of California, was supremely confident after his Washington debut today that the New Dealers will soon adopt throughout the whole nation his socialistic plans for giving work to the unemployed.

His assurance that millions of dollars of federal easy money may soon be turned into financing Socialist relief projects was based on his conference late today with Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator.

Youthful Mr. Hopkins, first of the New Dealers to hail the nomination of Socialist Sinclair, apparently promised the west coast radical that federal funds will be available to finance Sinclair's famous EPIC [End Poverty in California] plan. And in addition the whole country may be given a dose of EPIC.

Huge Government Expenses.

Candidate Sinclair's plans involve huge government expenditures to buy and operate idle factories and workshops. The state will man them with idle workers who, under a nonprofit, communal system, will produce supplies for the needy. This plan, Mr. Sinclair said, is fast becoming the future federal relief plan.

"They are coming more and more to it here," Sinclair said after the interview with Hopkins.

The plan, if Sinclair is elected, probably will get its first major test in California when federal funds are turned over to him.

Sinclair's triumph with Hopkins came toward the end of the first day in his campaign to round up federal support and federal promises of cash sufficient to put over his election in California. Tomorrow he will continue his drive, calling on Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, guardian of the public works millions; Jesse H. Jones, head of the rich and liberal Reconstruction Finance corporation; and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr.

Reaffirms Socialist Faith.

Despite his ardent search for federal cash, Sinclair today reaffirmed his Socialist faith. Tearing away all attempts to blanket him into the Democratic party as a reformed radical, he reiterated today that he believes in the Socialistic state.

"I am a Socialist who has changed his technique; I am not a Democrat," Sinclair told newspaper men at the National Press club, adding when pressed to explain his plan, "I have made a compact with the people of California for the next four years, and I will carry it out."

This compact he conceives to be his EPIC plan for which he claimed today to have won federal support.

"Mr. Hopkins showed me the law," Sinclair said after his conference with the relief administrator. He then quoted the section of the relief act which says, "The administrator may certify out of the funds made available by this subsection additional grants to states to assist coöperatives and self-help associations formed for the barter of goods and services."

"Under that section," Sinclair continued, "he can grant funds for the purpose of putting men to work in productive labor. As the result of our conference I have every reason to believe that he will do so."

No definite sum which Hopkins would be willing to give for the Socialistic undertaking was mentioned, he said. Hundreds of millions of dollars are contemplated for California alone, however, under Sinclair's plans.

three men were manacled to deputy marshals when they were taken into the grand jury room and throughout the session armed guards were stationed at the door.

"We will have several more witnesses before the grand jury today," Mr. Green said. "If the jury votes true bills in the case we will probably return the bills before Judge John P. Barnes. However, we have until Friday to present indictments when the seven are arraigned before United States Commissioner Walker."

Dillinger Prison Mate Caught.

Another development yesterday in the Dillinger investigation was the arrest of Arthur McGinnis, who escaped from the cellroom of the Marquette police station last July 18 while he was held for questioning by Capt. John Stege's "Dillinger squad."

McGinnis, who served a term with Dillinger in Michigan City penitentiary, is said to have been the man who informed federal authorities that Dillinger would visit the office of Dr. Charles Eye at 4175 Irving Park boulevard on the night of Oct. 15, 1933. A trap was laid for the desperado at that time, but he escaped.

McGinnis, who was wanted by the police for questioning in robbery cases, got away from the Marquette station last July in a manner never explained. He was captured yesterday by Sergt. William Smith and his squad after a chase. McGinnis was found to be carrying between $800 and $900.

Chase Begins in Restaurant.

The chase began in Manny Goodman's restaurant at 725 Roosevelt road. Sergt. Smith and his squad entered the restaurant to eat and saw McGinnis. He ran to a parked car at Taylor and Halsted streets, ordered the owner, Sam Reno, 7123 South Green street, to get out and was starting the motor when he was surrounded by the police squad and captured.

When questioned by Capt. Stege, McGinnis denied that he had put Dillinger "on the spot" either in the office of Dr. Eye or at the Biograph theater. He said that since his escape from the Marquette station he had been living at the Buena Park hotel, 4145 Broadway. McGinnis, according to the police, is wanted for two robberies in Indianapolis and has been identified as a participant in a robbery here in July.

Capt. Stege ordered special precautions last night to guard against McGinnis escaping again. The prisoner was handcuffed while being taken from the detective bureau to the Marquette station and the manacles were not removed until he was in a cell and his clothing had been searched.

PRISONER FREED AFTER 4 MONTHS; "DOUBLE" IS HELD

Witnesses Testify They Made a Mistake.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

John Long, 26 years old, an innocent man who served four months of a one year to life sentence in Stateville penitentiary for robbery with a gun, was freed yesterday by Judge Donald S. McKinlay in Criminal court.

Long was liberated after an unusual hearing in which witnesses who identified him at his trial last April as one of two bandits who held up a drug store were again placed on the witness stand. The witnesses were told to look at Long and his "double," Edwin Brethauer, 27 years old, seated beside him. The witnesses then testified that they were mistaken in their identification of Long. Brethauer has confessed that he was the robber.

Guilty Verdict Set Aside.

The hearing was on a petition for a writ of error based on a showing of newly discovered evidence. The defense attorneys, Daniel Wolf and Harold Lowenthal, and the state's attorney's office, represented by Assistant State's Attorney Richard Devine, joined in the petition, all being agreed that Long was innocent.

Judge McKinlay, after hearing the evidence, allowed the writ, set aside a jury verdict convicting Long, and granted the defendant a new trial. Attorneys then stipulated that the testimony at that hearing and the original trial would stand as the record for the new trial, and Judge McKinlay found Long not guilty.

"Don't you want to make a speech?" attorneys asked Long.

"No, but I'm glad to be out," he murmured apologetically, and quickly disappeared through a side door.

Holds No Grudge.

"I'm not bitter against any one—not now," said Long later. "Of course, I didn't like being in prison. Now I've got the problem of looking for a job."

He said he probably would visit his father, James C. Long, a carpenter of Peru, Ill., and his mother over the week-end. His last job was as a cook. Asked if he thought he resembled Brethauer, he smiled and said, "Really, I couldn't say."

Long's mother when interviewed in Peru said the liberation of her son made it the happiest day of her life.

In ordering Long freed Judge McKinlay advised him to stay away from companions such as George Wilch, with whom he was standing at a bar in the "Ball of Fire" tavern at Broadway and Argyle street when he was arrested. Wilch is serving a sentence for the drug store holdup.

"If you're wise," said the judge, "you'll go out of here feeling that you were unjustly imprisoned perhaps, and that it's unfortunate, but that it was an honest mistake, and that no animus was shown against you by any witnesses or officials."

During most of the proceedings Long and Brethauer, both small and slight and of identical height, sat chatting together at the counsel table.

Brethauer testified that he went with Wilch to hold up a Walgreen drug store, 1976 Lawrence avenue, on the night of March 24, after which they held up and robbed another Walgreen store at 1101 Granville avenue. Brethauer said he received $400 as his share of the loot.

CARRIES GUN IN HIS CORK LEG; PLANNED TO 'KILL CERTAIN PARTY'

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—"Step on his left foot and see what happens," Detective Pickett of East 126th street station was instructed today by an informant who said that Eugene Gatto was contemplating the murder of a member of his family. Pickett went to Gatto's home, and while engaging him in conversation stepped heavily on his left foot.

Nothing happened. It was a cork leg. In obedience to instructions Gatto took off his leg, and concealed in the joint that answered for a knee the detective found a loaded pistol. Gatto admitted that the pistol was intended for use on a certain party.

He was arraigned in the lineup at headquarters and was later held in Harlem court on a charge of violation of the Sullivan law.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Sept. 5.—Space and time and the physical world of substances have no objective reality apart from the mental concepts of them that man creates with his mind.

This is "the new world picture of modern physics" as painted before a gathering of the most distinguished British scientists by Sir James Jeans in his presidential address, at the opening here tonight of the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

Sounding the swan song of the old Newtonian physics with its fixed universe and its unchangeable laws, Sir James declared that nothing was real in the new world of modern physics except what is in our consciousness and our perceptions.

Clew in Photons.

Yet, standing on the ruins of the old time scientific laws, Sir James boldly suggested the solution to the mystery that baffled Plato in ancient Greece and Berkeley in 18th century England. If all nature exists only in our consciousness, he asked, why do we all see the same sun, moon, and stars?

A clew, he suggested, might be found in the present day theory that photons do not have individual existence, but are members of a single beam of light. The same was true of electrons in a continuous electric current, he said, and the same might also be true of millions of cells in the human body.

Continuous Stream of Life.

"Is it not conceivable," he asked the 2,500 scientists in his audience, "that what is true of objects perceived may be true also of the perceiving minds? When we view ourselves in space and time we are quite obviously distinct individuals; when we pass beyond space and time we may, perhaps, form ingredients of a continuous stream of life."

Sir James' address, which was hailed tonight as one of the most brilliant that the association had heard in many years, was a prelude to a whole week of discussion in almost every field of science.

● As a rule we refer to our shoe-making experience in terms of 40 years . . . but 80 is closer to the truth. We started making shoes in 1856, but we didn't put our name on them until 1892 . . . figuring those first years as a sort of dress rehearsal in the school of experience. So, you see, there are 40 years of shoe making that we never mentioned . . . and there is more service in Florsheim Shoes than we ever talk about, too. We've learned that the odds are still heavily in favor of quality. That's why we still safeguard our customer's interest, sticking to fine leathers, fine lasts and fine labor, knowing that a fine shoe at a fair price is always better than a cheap shoe that offers only a superficial saving in money.

NAZI REVOLUTION IS ENDED, HITLER TELLS GERMANY

'Woe' to Those Who Forget Who Is Leader.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

NUREMBERG, Germany, Sept. 5.—"The National Socialist revolution is completed," Chancellor Adolf Hitler declared to the party congress here today.

"As a revolution it has accomplished what was hoped for it. This is of vital importance because crazy hotheads often overlook the limits of what is possible. We all know to whom the nation intrusted its leadership [in the plebiscite Aug. 19—woe unto whoever forgets it. Any attempts at violence against the leadership of the Nazi movement will be crushed out."

Der Fuehrer sharply assailed "Jewish intellectualism."

Describing the period since the middle ages as "a general fury of anarchism," he said:

"Jewish intellectualism, penetrating Europe, resulted in a completely inconsistent attitude toward cultural problems. The spiritual confusion began in the middle ages when classic art was plundered and mechanically copied instead of an autonomous conception of art being developed."

Nazis to Monopolize Art.

Hitler lauded the genius of a pure race imbued with Nazi ideals to develop high art and added, "The culture of the third reich will be determined only by those who create it."

Nuremberg bristled with soldiers, police, Storm Troopers, and members of the Schutzstaffel [Hitler guard] as Nazis flocked to the huge congress hall this morning.

This afternoon Germany listened to the pronunciamento on what art should be, and tonight hundreds of thousands paid tribute to Hitler en masse at an open air concert in the historical Market square.

A new feature was introduced to the party congress when it started this morning with a religious hymn to stress "the Nazi state is the Christian state." None of the thousands of party subleaders joined in the hymn, although usually the Nazis enthusiastically join in singing.

Substitute Reads Address.

The old machine hall was turned into an almost romantic setting for the congress, its huge steel girders bedecked with bright flowers, contrasting with the energetic words of Hitler's proclamation warning friends and enemies against any attempt at interference.

Never did the voice of Robert Wagner, Nazi district leader for Baden, who read the speech for Hitler, sound louder than when he read the words:

"Who dares to doubt that the Nazi movement is the absolute, unrestricted master of the German reich? It is unimportant if the Nazi movement fails to please this or that person. It is of no importance if we make this or that mistake. Whatever is done is the best there is in intellectual, creative powers, and the best in efficiency of organization and leadership."

Will Break Opposition.

Nazi duty for the coming year will be to fortify the organization of the party, which will break whoever dares "to touch the Nazi state," the proclamation said. "We want to purge this community of all those who failed in unconditional obedience and fidelity to the party."

Faith of the masses in Naziism is to be increased, and "the virtue of steadfastness, which is worth more than intellect and talent, will be developed," the proclamation continued. "A strong nerve and an iron determination are the best guarantees for success." The proclamation also assured the country that "there will be no new German revolution for the next 1,000 years."

Nazi infallibility in culture and art was proclaimed in the Appollo theater, decorated for the day in red and gold tinsel cloth. The orchestra in chocolate brown suits with lapels the color of coffee icing played Beethoven.

To Reconcile Religions.

Turning to religion Hitler predicted a "sincere and honorable understanding" with the Roman Catholic church.

"We have endeavored to reconcile the religious professions with the new state. As far as the Protestants are concerned, we are determined to weld them into one great evangelical reich church. If Martin Luther were among us he would pray for a reich church."

Rudolf Hess, deputy leader of the party and minister without portfolio, referred to this, saying: "In sincere comradeship the movement greets the representatives of the defensive force which now stands under the command of Der Fuehrer and their presence here for the first time."

Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, chief of the "Weltanschauung," promised that the squalid center of Berlin would be replaced with artistic parks, while on the outskirts of the town beautiful houses, flowers and trees would spell happiness for the workers. The broadcast was switched on when he made this announcement.

Hitler decried "the stupidity of intellectual dwarfs" who did not believe that Germany saved Europe from bolshevism. "If the foreign press had done its duty conscientiously it would be able to grasp the greatness of the German miracle," he declared. "That Naziism is perfectly thought out is proved by its success.

"A new artistic faith must be found," he asserted. With the eyes of a visionary, Hitler spoke of ideal beauty. "In twenty years the raindrop will be the ideal shape for speed, because it is most efficient."

The audience showered applause on Hitler when he promised that for the great monumental work of art which he is planning, only artists who truly understood the Nazi spirit would receive commissions.

MILLIONAIRE DIES IN SEA; POLICE RESCUE HIS SON

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 5.—(AP)—David McKee Morris Sr., said to be a Pittsburgh, Pa., millionaire, was drowned off Rosarita Beach, Lower California, a resort 17 miles south of the Mexican border, late today and his son, David McKee Morris Jr., almost met a similar fate when he attempted to rescue his father.

The son and father were brought ashore by two Mexican police officers who saw them waging a losing battle with the sea. The son was resuscitated by the policemen, who also worked over the elder Morris, but were unable to revive him.

The Morrises had been at Rosarita Beach for about a month vacationing and were staying at the Club Rustico.

Morris' body tonight was reported en route to Pasadena, Cal. Members of the Morris family are said to be in Chicago.

MOTHER SLAPPED, FATHER SLAIN.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Joe Paterno, 24, shot and killed his father, Tony Paterno, 52, while in the kitchen of their home early today. The elder Paterno was said to have slapped his wife twice.

2 TRUCK LOADS OF UNINSPECTED MILK DUMPED

Six hundred and thirty gallons of milk and cream were dumped into a sewer yesterday by officials of the Chicago board of health, who claimed the dairy products had been brought into Chicago from sources in Wisconsin not under the board of health inspection.

Dr. Henry Becker and Investigators William J. Gearon and Oliver Hunter stopped two trucks at Normandy and Grand avenues. They dumped 185 cans of milk and cream without tags showing inspection.

CHERBOURG, Sept. 5.—This port had striking evidence today of how bad shipping conditions are when the liners Olympic and Empress of Britain docked after crossing the Atlantic. The former landed two first class passengers, fourteen tourist and seventeen third class which, an official of the company stated, was by far the lowest in twenty-five years.

U. OF C. ATHLETE HOME WITH MARK OF NAZI'S FISTS

Barden Tells Experiences on Tour of Germany.

John Barden, University of Chicago athlete, returned yesterday from a two month tour of Germany with a number of bruises incurred when he failed to salute the Nazi flag in Hamburg on Aug. 18.

Barden, who was selected by President Robert M. Hutchins of the university for his athletic and scholastic achievements, and Herbert Blumer, professor of sociology at the university, a former member of the Cardinal professional football team, represented the university on the trip, which was sponsored by the American Professors and Students' organization.

Barden was attacked by a Nazi Storm Trooper while he stood watching a squad of soldiers pass in Hamburg. The trooper rushed at Barden, charged that he had not saluted the flag, and a fist fight ensued. After the fight Baredn was allowed to explain that he was an American, and apologies followed.

Both Jailed in Bremen.

On another occasion Barden and Blumer were jailed for an hour in Bremen for the same offense. They were released with apologies after their passports had been obtained from their hotel by Nazi troopers.

Barden and Blumer arrived in Germany shortly after the executions that followed Hitler's exposure of the Roehm revolt plot. They were in the country during the election which established Hitler's leadership after the death of President von Hindenburg and during the Austrian uprising which culminated in the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss.

They reported that Germany was peaceful on the surface, with no rioting, street fighting, or general dissatisfaction apparent. The support of Hitler in the election grew out of the German understanding that they must choose Hitler or chaos, Barden said.

Denied Entry to Austria.

The party was denied entrance into Austria after the assassination of Dollfuss, in keeping with the order of Hitler that any person would be shot if he tried to cross the border.

"The prisoners in concentration camps seem to be well fed and well treated," said Barden. "Many of them, however, are kept for months in the camps before they learn of what they are accused.

"The newspaper people have a strong suspicion that all telephone and cable lines are tapped by the government. On several occasions governmental denials of stories have reached the United States ahead of the stories themselves."

Pilot and Woman Die When Airplane Falls

Gillette, Wyo., Sept. 5.—(AP)—A pilot and his woman passenger, tentatively identified as Harry Pabst of Ucross, Wyo., and Agnes Nedeff of Sheridan, Wyo., were killed near here tonight when their plane nose dived and burst into flames. Both bodies were burned beyond recognition.

TYPHOON LEAVES MANY HOMELESS IN PHILIPPINES

MANILA, Sept. 6.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—A typhoon, accompanied by heavy rainfall, raged through northern Luzon for two days, leaving thousands of residents homeless and damaging roads and bridges, said reports today to the bureau of public works office here. No loss of life was reported.

Reports late tonight said the storm had moved off to the northwest between Luzon and Formosa. It was said to have struck southern Formosa.

Heavy damage was reported in the provinces of Cagayan and Ilocos Norte, with many bamboo houses destroyed. These mountainous provinces are about 250 miles north of Manila, on the tip of Luzon island. The typhoon was one of a series generally raging about this time of year.

The homes destroyed, mostly flimsy affairs along streams, were toppled or swept away by floods. Their residents had to take refuge with neighbors on higher ground. The rural region of northern Luzon is devoted largely to the growing of rice and tobacco. Laoag, capital of Ilocos Norte, and other towns were dark and without wire communication tonight. Reports from them came over government radio. One town reported 6.17 inches' precipitation in twenty-four hours.

NEW DEALERS ADD TO TROUBLES, DICKINSON SAYS

Warns Young Republicans at Benton Harbor.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—To the rising generation the New Deal means a staggering burden of excessive future taxation, Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa declared here tonight. He spoke before the Young Men's Republican club.

"What does the New Deal mean to the young manhood and womanhood of today?" asked the Iowan, who is western chairman of the Republican senatorial committee.

Puts People on Doles.

"It means a future burden of excessive taxation which you must assume," he declared. "It means a chaotic conglomeration of disorganized industries, brought about by government interference. It means a farm population trusting to government doles rather than self-sustenance as means of support. It means a labor population discontented, distracted, and distrustful.

"As heirs apparent of the 'New Deal,' this will be your heritage from the present Democratic administration.

Experiments Grow Redder.

"If one experiment does not work, try another. The more illogical the scheme and the 'redder' the proponents, the more it is favored. Nothing is too visionary, and the expense to the taxpayer is a matter of no concern.

"To illustrate—we have had some experience with gold. It was contended that we should buy gold abroad. We did. It did not produce the expected results on prices. We have repudiated our gold contracts at home. We have cheapened our dollar and lowered our credit.

"The gold theory has been exploded, and Prof. Warren has returned to his classes in Cornell university and Prof. Rogers has gone on a long journey and will not be asked to return home. And yet we have as secretary of the treasury a very good New York farmer, who probably knows a great deal about cultivating the soil in New York and but very little about the real problems of national finance.

All Pledge U. S. Credit.

"Nearly every proposal of the 'brain trust' starts out by obligating the government for several million dollars. They do not brag about price benefits for the farmer, but they brag about payment benefits. Payments for not doing what should be done. Payments for not raising a food supply which may be needed.

"The 'brain trust' contended they had a remedy for unemployment. They proposed to make the American eagle a Blue Eagle. To contend that the NRA was not workable was unpatriotic. Yet with sixteen months of trial, the number of unemployed is greater than it was a year ago, and the relief rolls in our congested centers are increasing every month.

Factory Pay Rolls Shrink.

"The latest report of the bureau of labor statistics shows that factory employment decreased 3 per cent and pay rolls dropped 6.8 from June to July; that under the New Deal we have had the most serious slump in employment for the month of July since 1919.

"With the disturbance in San Francisco, followed by the strikes in the copper mines in Montana, adding the stockyards strike in Chicago, and last but not least the textile strike of the 600,000 textile workers in the east, it seems that there can be no denying the fact that impetus has been given to labor unrest by the present day influence of government regulation and control."

SON'S SUIT ASKS $86,000 SALARY OF LYTTON FIRM

A suit seeking $86,000 allegedly due for salary was filed yesterday in the Circuit court by Walter Lytton against Henry C. Lytton & Sons, Inc. Lytton is the son of the founder of the company.

The plaintiff says he was employed as secretary of the company from 1922 to 1927 at a salary of $20,000 a year, following his assignment of stock valued at $150,000 to his father.

Lytton charged that during the five years he received only $14,000 in salary and that the balance of $86,000 plus 6 per cent interest is still due him.

LEWIS WASHES HIS HANDS OF UPTON SINCLAIR

It's California's Burden, Says the Senator.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis, chairman of the Democratic senatorial committee, returned to Chicago from a western campaigning tour yesterday with claims that no upsets are in sight in the filling of seats in the United States senate from Rocky mountain and Pacific coast states in the November elections.

On the California primaries, the senator held that Senator Hiram Johnson is now a full fledged Rooseveltian Democrat and is being supported as such by the Democratic committee. Senator Johnson, who was original sponsor of Harold Ickes for the cabinet post of secretary of the interior, both having been Bull Moosers in 1912, cornered the nomination for reëlection from four parties in California, Republican, Democrat, Progressive and Commonwealth.

The Senator Makes Gestures.

As to Upton Sinclair, Socialist novelist who was nominated for governor of California on the Democratic ticket, Senator Lewis performed airy gestures symbolic of washing his hands with invisible soap in imperceptible water.

"There has been no California Democratic nomination for governor," Senator Lewis said. "The nomination was made by Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, Kansas and Nebraska Republicans who had moved to southern California. It was Republicans from these states who nominated Mr. Sinclair, not the Democrats nor the Republicans of California. This gentleman's nomination can be charged to that class of Republicans in Los Angeles as a general protest against conditions.

"Senator Johnson came out for the whole of the Roosevelt policies, and was nominated by all parties. We rank him as a Democrat.

"The policies this gentleman, Mr. Sinclair, supports embrace those of a man the Democrats once elected governor of Illinois, John P. Altgeld, and of a man whom the Republicans made governor of Illinois, Len Small.

Sovereignty and Responsibility.

"Both were against defense against war, one of Sinclair's doctrines, and for encroachments of government upon property and individual rights. Altgeld split with Grover Cleveland over the riot situation, nor did the policy of Small affect Mr. Coolidge, because the theory of our government has to remain that each of the subdivisions we call states is sovereign as to its local issues and nominations. If California chose Mr. Sinclair under the name of Democrat, the responsibility rests entirely with the local government of California.

"President Roosevelt is not being disturbed by any presumption that he is indorsing the individual views of Candidate Sinclair. The President, in fact, expects very shortly before the congressional elections to make an address to America, in which he will express the Roosevelt policy and wherein the real democracy he represents offers remedies which prevent the radicalism of Socialism and the destruction of communism.

"We under the name of democracy can never advocate or endorse a system which appropriates and confiscates honest property, whether it be the wealth of the millionaires or the weekly wages of millions of toilers."

GIRLS ON FOURTH RECORD ATTEMPT FLY TO ST. LOUIS

Jean La Rene and Mary Owens, Texas girl flyers who took off at 6:28 a. m., yesterday, on their fourth attempt to set a new refueling endurance record for women, arrived over St. Louis twelve hours later to escape threatening weather in the vicinity of Chicago. They planned to return to their base at the Curtiss-Reynolds airpart in Glenview today if the weather clears. The record they hope to beat is just under 240 hours.

Robs Liquor Store of $111; Eludes Pursuers' Bulletts

A bandit last night entered the Community Wine and Liquor store at 5303 Lake Park avenue, a few doors west of the Hyde Park police station, and forced the clerk, Charles Haynes, to hand over $111. As the bandit was leaving Thomas Albrecht, manager of the store, came from the rear and fired several shots at him. The man fled east on 53d street, pursued by Policeman Anthony Eckert, who also fired at him. Near the Illinois Central tracks the bandit outdistanced the policeman and escaped.

PHIL LA FOLLETTE HITS TWO PHASES OF THE NEW DEAL

AAA and 'Currycombing the Landscape' Flayed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Shullsburg, Wis., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Two phases of the national administration's recovery program were attacked here late today in a campaign address by former Gov. Philip F. La Follette, who seeks renomination for the governorship on the new radical "Progressive" ticket.

He criticized the AAA reduction program and the kind of work which the federal government has created for idle persons. The AAA hog killing program cuts down the nation's wealth and much of the relief work has been little more than "currycombing the landscape," he said.

"You cannot convince a farmer that there is need for slaughter of five million hogs" said La Follette. "He knows the unemployed on poor relief could eat those hogs for breakfast and be ready for another five million by supper time.

Big Need: More Wealth.

"And you cannot convince the worker there is need for plowing under cotton, destroying wheat and shutting down factories when millions upon millions of human beings are in want for these very things.

"We all need and want more instead of less wealth. We want a richer and happier America and not a poorer one.

"The only solution for unemployment is useful and productive work. The unemployed must make the things they need, such as shoes, shelter and other necessities of life, rather than 'currycombing' the landscape.

"The reactionaries talk about economizing our way out of the depression. They mean they want to starve us out of the crisis. Their talk means cutting wages and salaries, throwing more men out of work and further reducing already inadequate purchasing power.

Approves Job Spending.

"Their program would starve us to death and not out of the depression. They would let nature take its course. They have no right to criticize the Roosevelt administration's policy of spending money to create jobs."

La Follette said that what this country needs is a new political alignment built around policies of the new radical "Progressive" party in Wisconsin.

"Both the Republican and the Democratic party today are hidebound reactionary parties," he said. "If you take Norris, La Follette, Cutting, and a few others out of the Republican party you have the old Hoover organization; and if you take Roosevelt, Costigan, Wheeler, and several others out of the Democratic party, all you have left is the reactionary leadership of the Carter Glass, John W. Davis type.

FINDS CHIMPANZEES' REACTION TIMES ARE SIMILAR TO CHILDREN'S

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Comparative psychological tests of chimpanzees and children at Yale university were reported here today to the American Psychological association at its annual meeting.

The chimpanzees were four of the forty which Yale has bred since 1925 for research. Two children for the tests were provided by faculty members. The experiment consisted in measuring the time required for a young chimpanzee or for a child to respond to a spectacle, a contact, or a sound by pressing down a telegraph key.

The report concluded that "chimpanzee reaction times do not vary significantly nor consistently from those of human children."

Further tests with the Yale chimpanzees to determine how they solved problems in arriving at food concealed in boxes in different arrangements, were reported by Kenneth W. Spence. He found they proceeded not by random choice but by methodical exploration of the situation.

PITTMAN WINS BY BIG MARGIN IN SENATE RACE

Reno, Nev., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Senator Key Pittman, Democrat and chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, was nominated for another term by an overwhelming majority in Tuesday's primary election.

Virtually complete unofficial returns from 212 precincts out of 246 in the state gave Pittman, 11,284; H. R. Cook, Reno attorney, 3,691, and Bob Moore, Las Vegas business man, 894.

State Engineer George W. Malone, former national vice commander of the American Legion, was an easy victor over two opponents for the Republican senatorial nomination. He will oppose Senator Pittman in November.

Richard Kirman Sr., Reno banker, apparently had won a close victory over Harley A. Harmon in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. The vote: Kirman, 5,881; John A. Cooper, 1,195; Archie C. Grant, 1,708; Maurice J. Sullivan, 1,386.

Finishes U. S. Prison Term, Now Must Go to Joliet

Jules Becker was returned to Chicago yesterday after completing a four year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth for counterfeiting. He now must serve a one year to life sentence in the state prison at Joliet for robbery. Before he went to Leavenworth Becker was convicted on the robbery charge. While appealing this conviction he passed counterfeit money to pay for his defense, and was then convicted in federal court.

Find Body of Missing Man in River Branch

The body of George E. Hoerger, 45 years old, 8009 Maryland avenue, was found yesterday in several feet of water in the south branch of the river. A rope was tied about his waist, and the other end was fastened to a piling. Mrs. Irene Vanrick, 4553 South Oakenwald avenue, a niece, had reported him missing Monday.

SET T-N-T RACKET CONSPIRACY CASE TRIAL ON SEPT. 24

CRIMINAL COURT.

Edward Hatfield, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; John Malek, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Stanley Bartosek, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Benjamin Epstein.

Trial of 14 defendants in the racket conspiracy case against the Trucking and Transportation exchange [T-N-T] was set for Sept. 24 yesterday by Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court. Judge William V. Brothers was assigned to hear the case.

The trial date was set over the objections of defense counsel headed by Ben Short, Michael Ahern, and Joseph Harrington, who insisted that the trial be delayed until October or later. Assistant State's Attorneys Robert Donigan and Donald Thompson argued for an early trial.

"We must clear up the calendar," Chief Justice Sullivan told the defense attorneys. "It has been many months since the indictments were returned in this case and the defense should be ready for trial."

Chief among the defendants in the case are John Bransfield, a paving contractor, and John Sheridan, veteran labor leader. William [Three Fingered Jack] White, named a defendant in the indictments, has been slain since the grand jury action. Another defendant, William Cain, never has been apprehended.

FLEES JAIL BY COAL CHUTE.

G. O. P. TO HONOR CONSTITUTION IN HUGE FAIR RALLY

Republicans Plan 500,000 Crowd for Sept. 17.

BY PARKE BROWN.

In a contest of showmanship, which has developed as a sort of preliminary to the real November election campaign in Chicago, Republican leaders asserted yesterday that they will capture first honors by their party demonstration in connection with Constitution day at the World's Fair on Sept. 17.

At the regular weekly luncheon of G. O. P. candidates in the Bismarck hotel yesterday speakers predicted that the attendance at the Fair on that day will break all records for both 1933 and 1934. They set as their goal an attendance of 500,000.

Mayor Proclaims the Day.

Control of the patriotic occasion has been captured by the Republicans. But yesterday Mayor Kelly, a Democrat, stepped into the picture, designating Constitution day "as a day to be set aside for the citizens of this city to commemorate the signing of our constitution to the end that our citizenry shall realize that the constitution contains the vital spark of social justice and, in the words of its framers, still 'secures the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity.'"

Each of the parties is concentrating now on two major demonstrations. In addition to Constitution day, the Republicans are putting on next Sunday the big picnic at Riverview which was postponed from Labor day because of rain.

The Democratic organization is putting all its force into "the Drama of Chicago" which will wind up with a big show in Soldiers' field on Sept. 16, and into their own county convention, which is to be held at the Stadium on Sept. 23.

G. O. P. Coup at Fair.

The Republican activity in connection with Constitution day is admittedly something of a political coup. By arrangements with the Fair management and others, precinct captains throughout the county are now selling for $1 a book of tickets that will give the bearer admission to the Exposition and twenty-two concessions. Early reports indicate a rapid sale, as the regular price for the attractions offered would be $6.

Julius H. Miner, general director for the Constitution day committee headed by Edward L. Ryerson Jr. and consisting of some four score citizens, most of whose names are well known, was the principal speaker at the Bismarck luncheon.

"We are endeavoring to make this demonstration nonpolitical," he said, "but, as I have told several committees, the Republican party is the only vehicle to which we can look for restoration of our constitutional rights.

Hope for National Effect.

"We hope to make it a celebration that will have its effect throughout the nation. If we can bring anything like half a million people to the gates we will send a message to the world that Chicago, Cook county, and Illinois are solidly, enthusiastically, and wholeheartedly for the constitution—that we are still for free government, free speech, and free press; for human rights and property rights."

Miner also urged freedom of the air, saying that Republicans were told their speakers cannot say what they wish over the radio and that the owners of the stations say such freedom of expression would endanger their licenses.

He also charged that the program of Upton Sinclair, Socialist writer who has been nominated by the Democrats for governor of California, is just what the Roosevelt program is, the only difference being that "Sinclair presented his more openly."

A Republican Background.

"This Constitution day," Miner said, "has a Republican background. I'm not apologizing for it. The Democrats wouldn't have anything to do with it."

He pointed to the appearance on the ticket books of the text of the preamble of the constitution as a "reminder that we still have a constitution." He called attention to the language stating that the constitution was established "in order to . . . insure domestic tranquility . . . promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings to ourselves and our posterity."

Republican county headquarters announced that tickets issued for the Labor day picnic will be honored at Riverview next Sunday and that the program of entertainment will be enlarged.

DR. GEORGE CRILE TO GIVE LECTURE AT FAIR TODAY

The effect of the "storm and stress" of modern life on the human body, especially as concerns the control of its functions through the endocrine, or ductless, glands, will be discussed by Dr. George W. Crile, noted Cleveland surgeon, at 5 p. m. today in the south lecture room of the Hall of Science at the World's Fair.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT FAIR TODAY; EXPECT THRONG

U. S. Customs Service to Be Feted on Program.

With fair weather in prospect the combination of Children's day and United States Customs day today is expected to attract additional thousands to the Fair and swell the day's attendance to at least 100,000 as the Exposition swings along into its last two months.

This will be the next to the last children's day on the year's program and special events have been arranged for the entertainment of the youngsters, who have increased the throngs materially on all previous days given over to their special attendance.

Compete in Pie Eating Contest.

One of the big attractions for young Fair goers will be a pie eating contest sponsored by John R. Thompson Jr. Twenty contestants selected by the audience will compete in the Lagoon Theater at 1 p. m. The contestants will consume special blueberry pies and Mr. Thompson will award a trophy to the winner, who will be judged on points of time, technique, and trimness.

Lovers of the novelist Nathaniel Hawthorne's works will have a particular interest in the United States Customs day observance, for the author was a member of the service, and special Hawthorne exercises will be conducted at 3 p. m. by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

In the evening a banquet will be held in the Trustees' lounge of the Hall of Science under the auspices of the local branch of the National Customs Service association. Speakers will include Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair; Edward F. Dunne, United States commissioner to the Fair; United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, Postmaster E. J. Kruetgen, and Congressmen A. J. Sabath and Oscar De Priest.

Near 100,000 Mark Again.

Sunshine during most of the day yesterday served to dispel the rain spells which lasted through the Labor day holiday and the appearance of brighter skies was reflected in attendance. Although showers fell late in the day, a steady flow of late evening and night visitors sent the total figures past the hoped for 85,000 mark and at midnight 88,632 persons had passed through the gates.

Now well into their last sixty days of operation, the Fair managers are striving for a record attendance during the closing days. Again yesterday they emphasized that every building on the grounds will remain intact until the gates are closed for the last time, and every show and concession will continue.

Get Concessionaires' Complaint.

The trustees also considered a letter sent them by Attorney Roy D. Keehn, acting in behalf of a number of concessionaires—including several of the villages—asking that a special meeting of the board be called to hear individual complaints from the concessionaires. The general burden of their plea was that the percentage they pay the Fair be reduced.

After the meeting, Maj. L. R. Lohr, general manager, explained that the trustees concluded that their body was not the proper forum to hear these complaints. They referred them to the executive committee, and the Fair management, and then proceeded to extend a vote of confidence to the management. A report of their action, in the form of a resolution, will be sent to Keehn.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

The American Red Cross will hold its annual national first aid contest in Ford Gardens at the Fair Saturday afternoon. Twelve teams of five men each will compete for the prizes. Entertainment will be provided by the Elmhurst Boy Scout band of thirty pieces. The event will be under the direction of James T. Nicholson, Chicago manager for the American Red Cross, and Dr. H. W. Gentles of the first aid division.

The World's Fair art exhibit in the Art institute will send free of charge a folder of twenty-five illustrations of famous paintings included in the exhibition or a folder describing and illustrating the painting, "Song of the Lark," to any person requesting them by postcard or letter.

Miss Caroline Spike Rankin, an actress, arrived at the Fair yesterday after a thirty-six day journey from California by bicycle.

Preliminaries of the Miss Chicago beauty contest, which were to begin last night, have been postponed until Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week. Postponement of the contest was requested by many communities throughout the city because they have not been able to complete their elimination contests.

Palmer Clark's orchestra will return to the Swift bandshell at 23d street Sunday afternoon following the departure of Chicago Symphony orchestra. The Mormon Tabernacle choir of Salt Lake City, Utah, will replace the Detroit Symphony orchestra in Ford Gardens Monday.

Robert D. Gregg, assistant to the superintendent of Chicago public schools, will speak today on "Leisure for Growth," in the Parent-Teacher program in the Illinois Host House at 2:30 p. m.

William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, yesterday gave an address in the Illinois Host House on "The Relation of Youth to Government." Musical entertainment by J. Parnell Eagen, tenor, followed the address.

Members of the Chicago White Sox and the New York Yankees baseball teams will be the guests of Wilson & Co. today at noon for a dinner before they play in their game. Babe Ruth will be the guest of honor.

The Burlington Zephyr, stream lined Diesel powered train that has been on exhibit at the World's Fair, is leaving to enter the movies, it was announced yesterday. At 8 p. m. today the train will start from Chicago for Hollywood to be "starred" in a feature picture, "The Silver Streak," a romance of new day railroading.

U. S. TO MOVE 100 FARM FAMILIES TO BETTER LAND

Will Conduct Experiment in Southern Illinois.

Illinois is to be the scene of one of the first federal experiments in reclaiming submarginal hill farm lands and transplanting the occupants of farms, the majority of whom are now on relief, to an area where they may hope to support themselves. Details of the plan were disclosed yesterday at a meeting in the Hotel Stevens, at which officials from seven states discussed their rural relief problems with federal emergency relief administration authorities.

Howard O. Hunter, field representative of Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, emphasized that the rural relief problem differs from the care of the urban idle, in that the government has hope of eventually recovering the majority of the funds advanced to farm relief "clients." At present rural residents are going on Illinois relief rolls faster than any other class.

50,000 Families Need Air.

The relief advances to farmers will be handled through the Rural Rehabilitation Corporation of Illinois. It is being capitalized at $1,000 and will operate entirely on funds advanced by the FERA. C. H. Humphreys, director of the rehabilitation corporation, estimated that 50,000 farm families are either on relief already or are potential applicants for aid in Illinois.

The majority of these families, however, do not require the extreme type of aid set up in the reclamation project. Their farm lands are tillable Their principal trouble, especially in the twelve Illinois counties in the area east of St. Louis, which constitute the state's worst drouth area, is lack of working capital, due to crop failures and heavy mortgage and tax burdens.

These farmers will be given loans to purchase stock, seed, and farm equipment that they may continue to work their land. At the same time aid of the federal Farm Credit Administration will be sought in readjusting their debts. The state rehabilitation corporation has asked a federal fund allotment of $350,000 for September.

Expects Money to Be Repaid.

The expenditures will probably increase through the winter, Mr. Humphreys said. He estimated that the average capital advance would be $300, at which rate $15,000,000 would be required for the 50,000 families. Mr. Hunter pointed out, however, that in Alabama, where the rural rehabilitation program has been in active operation for some months, due principally to the necessity for caring for cotton share croppers as the result of federal crop limitation, 4,500 of 5,000 advances have already been repaid.

The other rehabilitation project, that of submarginal land reclamation, is a far more expensive proposition, per capita, and is designed to remove farming families from areas where they wolud have little chance of supporting themselves properly even if agricultural price levels were raised.

The area selected is in one of the far southern counties of Illinois, near the Ohio river. Herbert W. Mumford, dean of the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois, and university farm extension authorities have worked out the project in coöperation with federal authorities. The exact location of the project was withheld yesterday because all of the land purchases in connection with it have not been completed.

The project involves 100 farm families, of whom 65 are now on relief. They occupy hill farms totaling 15,000 acres. It is proposed to move these families to plots of arable bottomlands of a total area of 1,500 acres, or 15 acres to the family.

These farmers will receive little, if any, payment for their present farms, because almost all of them are mortgaged beyond their present value. Arrangements are being made with the mortgage holders to take over the properties. Under the direction of the university extension authorities, it is planned to reclaim these hill acres.

The land is unfit for crop farming on a profitable scale. Much of it is losing what poor topsoil it has through erosion. Erosion protective works will be built, parts of the land will be reforested, and what is left, the better grade, will be turned into a grazing area.

The principal cash outlay will be for the bottom land, to which the 100 families are to be moved, and for new houses and farm buildings for them. The 1,500 acres of bottom land, it is understood, cost in the neighborhood of $30,000. The total appropriation for the project is $180,000, which would leave about $150,000 for improvements on the 100 15-acre farms.

Will Profit by Mistakes.

Mr. Humphreys and the university authorities believe this will be sufficient. The relief officials admitted that they expect to profit by the mistakes made on the subsistence homestead project at Reedsville, W. Va., where inefficient construction methods boosted the cost of comparatively simple cottages on 5 acre plots of ground to nearly $5,000 apiece.

Mr. Humphreys admitted that a 15 acre farm, even of good land, will not be sufficient to support one of the transplanted families. They will get additional income, for the first part of the experiment, by working on reclamation of their old farms. Later, he said, those in charge of the experiment hope to establish some sort of handicraft industry on the farms to supplement crop incomes.

Brazilian Efforts Fail.

Letters telling of Ambassador Morgan having consulted Aubry over a three months' period in an effort to help the Electric Boat company do business also showed that the Brazilian negotiations collapsed.

At one time Electric Boat took some Peruvian notes as part payment for a submarine sale. These notes were marketed in the United States.

Senator Clark and other members of the committee contended that the submarine builders had thereby helped build up the American market for about $90,000,000 Peruvian bonds—most of which later proved worthless.

British Await Report.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The British government was represented today by a well qualified spokesman as welcoming the revelations of the United States senate investigation of a secret armaments pact between Vickers-Armstrong, Ltd., of Great Britain and the Electric Boat company.

A full report of the hearing will be transmitted from the British embassy at Washington for the consideration of government chiefs here. It was said Norman Davis and other American disarmament delegates recently had made it clear they felt much could be done for peace by exposing the tremendous political influence of private armament firms.

The London Herald today quoted Sir Charles Craven, director of Vickers-Armstrong, Ltd., as saying a working agreement with the Electric Boat company was made 35 years ago with the full knowledge of the British government.

Zaharoff Keeps Silent.

"Sir Basil has never given an interview or a statement in his life, and he's not going to begin doing either at the age of 85."

CO-ED FALLS OFF ROCKS AT LAKE'S EDGE; DROWNED

Miss Winifred Miller, 24 years old, 5225 Ellis avenue, a co-ed at the University of Chicago, was drowned yesterday when she fell into Lake Michigan from the rocks at the foot of 53d street. The body was recovered by a crew from the Jackson park coast guard station.

Police believed that Miss Miller, who had been reading a book on the rocks, either fell asleep and rolled into the water or stood up and lost her balance. She was identified by a library card found in the book, which was lying on the rocks next to a pair of sun glasses.

The young woman's aunt, Miss Bertha Norton, with whom she lived, told the police that it was her niece's custom to sit at the water's edge and read.

EVENING SCHOOLS OPEN SEPT. 17 FOR 37,000 STUDENTS

Registration Will Be Next Week.

Nearly 37,000 students are expected to enroll next week in the six evening schools operated by the board of education. Registration will be held on Thursday and Friday and classes will begin on Sept. 17, the date for the general opening of the Chicago schools. The board of education yesterday reëlected principals for the schools, and announced that the previous schedule of four class nights a week will be continued.

Classes in High Schools.

The evening classes will be conducted in the following high school buildings: Austin, 231 Pine avenue; Crane, 2245 Jackson boulevard; Englewood, 6220 Stewart avenue; Fenger, 11220 Wallace street; Lake View, 4015 North Ashland avenue, and Schurz, 3601 Milwaukee avenue.

Opening of the schools will give jobs to 350 unemployed teachers, since the board decided to bar day school teachers from the night work. This policy was recommended last spring by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Teachers applying for the positions must have educational training and a college degree.

Pensions Granted to 29.

Fifteen teachers were granted sabbatical leave yesterday, and 29 were placed on the retired list with pensions. F. O. Washam, new director of the 51 high school lunchrooms, announced he would employ professional lunchroom managers to replace teachers now working part-time in that capacity. Increased efficiency will care for the added cost and leave a lunchroom profit, he said.

Nash Gets $46,000 Check for Liquor Fees in County

Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, yesterday turned over a check for $46,600 to County Treasurer Thomas D. Nash. The money represents fees for 233 liquor licenses issued by Mr. Whealan as liquor control commissioner for the county. Under the law, the money is credited to the county corporate fund.

BOY, 15, JAILED FOR SUFFOCATING HIS TWO SISTERS IN ICE BOX

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Cerivino Paiva, 15, was locked in the county jail tonight and District Attorney Neil McAllister said he would be charged with murder for having placed two of his younger sisters in an icebox, where they suffocated.

The youth told the district attorney his two sisters, Mary, 6, and Mary Ann, 7, had asked him to put them in the family icebox. He told the children to come out and then they insisted, he said, that he close the door. When they refused to get out of the box, he left the house for the hop fields.

When McAllister told Deputy Sherif Charles Ogles to "lock him up and charge him with murder" the boy asked, "How many years?"

U. S. TO GIVE 10 MILLION RELIEF TO PENNSYLVANIA

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Harry Hopkins, relief administrator, announced late today Pennsylvania had been allotted $10,500,000 for its September relief needs.

The allotment was made as a result of Gov. Pinchot's announced intention of calling a special session of the state legislature in response to Hopkins' insistence that the state provide "a fair share" of the relief funds needed.

JUDGE BORRELLI'S SON, 27, KILLED IN WISCONSIN CRASH

Car Hits Bowlder After Collision; Sister Hurt.

Francis Borrelli Jr., 27 years old, 6800 Bennett avenue, son of the Municipal court judge, died yesterday in the Langlade County Memorial hospital in Antigo, Wis., shortly after his automobile, in which his sister, Margaret, 18 years old, was a passenger, collided with another and crashed into a roadside boulder near Birnamwood, on state route 26, 15 miles south of Antigo. The girl was injured, but not seriously.

Fred Trezise of Appleton, Wis., driver of the other car, was uninjured.

Judge Borrelli, notified of the accident, left at noon from the Chicago airport in a chartered plane, but arrived two hours after his son died in the hospital.

Young Borrelli and his sister were en route home after a two weeks' vacation on the summer estate of Louis Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox baseball club, in Eagle River. The youth was a graduate of Michigan university, where he played football. He was to have taken his examination for the bar in November. Besides his father and sister, he is survived by his mother, Katherine; a brother, Bruce, and another sister, Josephine.

Killed in Suburban Crash.

Carl Mielke, 60 years old, 2109 Stave street, was fatally injured yesterday at Harlem avenue and Dempster street, Morton Grove, when his automobile collided with the car driven by the Rev. Frank Wittmer, 6751 North Campbell avenue, pastor of the Bethesda Lutheran church, Niles. Mielke died in the Des Plaines Emergency hospital. Witnesses said he failed to observe a stop sign at Dempster street. Mrs. Matilda Taege, 72 years old, 332 Fremont street, Arlington Heights, the Rev. Wittmer's mother-in-law, sustained cuts and bruises. Her husband, Emil, escaped unhurt.

The body of a man struck and killed Monday at Kolmar and Diversey avenues, by an automobile driven by Paul Linder, 3631 North Artesian avenue, was identified yesterday by a daughter, Frances, as that of Michael Piotrowski, 59 years old, 4506 Wrightwood avenue, a junk man.

Two Women and Man Drown.

Following the drowning early yesterday of two women and a man when their car crashed through a barricade guarding an open drawbridge over the drainage canal in Lockport, Mayor Howard Sontag of Lockport said he plans to introduce a motion at the next council meeting calling upon sanitary district trustees to provide more effective safeguards against similar accidents.

The dead in the accident were Mrs. Elsie Gunthers, 22 years old, 406 North Eastern avenue, Joliet; her sister, Miss Marie Dardini, 21 years old, of the same address, and Thomas Burt, 26 years old, 603 Florence avenue, Joliet, a friend of Miss Dardini.

Mrs. Gunthers' husband, driver of the car, the only survivor of the plunge, managed to smash a window of the car as it sank in eight feet of water and clambered to the top, where he was rescued by Lockport firemen, who also removed the bodies. He was taken to a Joliet hospital suffering from shock and lacerations.

Frank Sobeske, bridge tender, said the warning signals were in operation after he had opened the bridge for the passage of a scow. Gunthers said that he failed to notice until too late that the bridge was open.

POLICE POSTPONE HONEYMOON TILL DAD MEETS GROOM

For several hours yesterday George Schuller, 21 years old, a printer, and his bride of twelve days, the former Anna Fark, 16 years old, of Cleveland, feared their honeymoon would be ended. Following their elopement, Anna's father, the Rev. Michael Fark, asked all police stations to hold the pair because his daughter is under age.

The pastor learned of the couple's presence at Schuller's brother's home, 2115 North Kildare avenue, when Anna wrote a girl chum in Cleveland. The Rev. Mr. Fark arrived yesterday and caused his daughter's detention by juvenile authorities, while he upbraided Schuller for the elopement. But at the end of the conference he had a different view.

"If I had met this young man before I would not have objected so strenuously to their marriage," said the pastor. "Now that I have met him I've decided to let him have Anna."

John Mamowski, 68 years old, 830 North Sangamon street, was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell and fined $1,000 by Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Automobile court yesterday for receiving stolen goods. Mamowski was convicted on the testimony of Roland A. Michaels, 20 years old, and John B. Paczkowski, 19 years old, that they stole automobile parts and sold them to him for small sums.

Assistant State's Attorney Ray Drymalski asked Judge Graber to make an example of Mahowski despite his age. The prosecutor said that if there were no fences there would be no market for the wares of accessory thieves.

Michaels and Paczowski were held to the grand jury by the judge in bonds of $3,000 each on charges of larceny.

SCHOOL OPENING BRINGS NEED FOR DRIVING SAFELY

With the opening of schools there will be many children crossing streets unaccompanied by adults, en route between homes and classrooms. It is an additional obligation upon motorists to keep their automobiles under control.

Tests at THE TRIBUNE's safeey lane, 401 East Ontario street, indicate that about 40 per cent of the automobiles on the streets today are in such a condition that the driver could not cope with an emergency. Thirty-five per cent lack brakes for a quick stop should a child run into trafic from behind a parked car.

Many of these defective automobiles are newer models, merely lacking an adjustment. The owners were unaware of the failing until the tests were made at the safety lane. If you would know the condition of your motor car for safe driving, clip the coupon published herewith. The examination by skilled mechanics with modern equipment is free.

Perhaps to prove that maintenance is more important than age in the safe operating condition of an automobile, an 1896 "tally-ho," manufactured by the Chicago Vehicle company, was driven over the inspection lane yesterday and received an O. K. sticker. The car is part of the stage property of "The Wings of a Century" at the World's Fair, and its brakes, lights, and wheel alignment complied with requirements.

ALLMAN ORDERS ARREST OF AUTO LICENSE DODGERS

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday ordered the Chicago police to arrest drivers with 1933 state license plates or no plates on their automobiles. The order was issued at the request of Secretary of State Hughes, who announced an enforcement campaign throughout the state.

Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court said that violators of the motor license laws will be punished more severely now than those arrested earlier in the year. In most of the cases last spring the trials were continued pending the purchase of licenses and then dismissed if the defendants presented receipts for their registration fees.

The statute provides that no motor vehicle shall be driven after Jan. 1 without a license for the new year. This year, as in other years, enforcement was postponed for months. Today, eight months after Jan. 1, there are few 1933 plates on the streets, although one is still occasionally reported to THE TRIBUNE's automobile department. However, cars without any license plates are common on the streets.

READY TO START STREET WORK ON GAS TAX FUNDS

$2,412,367 Revenue Idle —Plan 11 Projects.

BY HAL FOUST.

Chicago has $2,412,367 in gasoline tax revenue to its credit lying idle in the state treasury at Springfield. The money represents 1 cent of the motor fuel excise collections for the first six months of 1934. It is made available for city street construction after an audit of each month's receipts.

The law giving municipalities one-third of the Illinois gasoline tax was enacted by the 1933 legislature and became effective on Jan. 1, 1934. To date, not one dollar's worth of pavement has been laid from Chicago's allotment.

The council has authorized the expenditure of $1,290,000 from the gasoline fund for an Ashland avenue bridge over the north branch of the Chicago river. This is to be matched with approximately $400,000 of federal "easy money," 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials.

Award Bids Within Week.

Bids for the bridge contract were opened by the board of local improvements a week ago and the award probably will be made within another week. Construction will require approximately a year.

William W. Link, president of the board, announced yesterday that the city will soon advertise for bids on eleven paving jobs to be financed with gasoline tax money. The projects, with unofficial estimates of their costs, are as follows:

ERIE STREET—Chicago river to Orleans street, $35,000.

EWING AVENUE—95th street to Calumet river, $245,000.

VINCENNES AVENUE—107th street to 95th street; 90th street to Halsted street, $260,000 for both sections.

119TH STREET—Halsted street to Wentworth avenue, $106,000.

The total cost of these paving projects will be approximately $1,446,700.

$700,000 Projects Before Jan. 1.

Mr. Link said that if weather is favorable construction projects costing about $700,000 will be completed before Jan. 1. If the winter is late and mild, he hopes to complete the Erie street, Ewing avenue, North avenue, and South Park avenue paving this year.

The paving construction cannot start for at least another month. Ten days are required for advertising for bids. After the bids are received another ten days are required to make the awards. The contractors then need ten days more to assemble labor and equipment to start digging. After Nov. 1, in most years, the weather is too cold to pour concrete for pavements.

Mr. Link estimated that about $500,000 will be spent this year on the Ashland avenue bridge project. With the $700,000 worth of paving, this will make a total of $1,200,000 worth of work this year from the city's estimated $5,000,000 revenue from the gasoline tax in 1934.

Diversion Reduces Total.

From the second six months' revenue, two-thirds of gasoline money is being used to pay teachers' back salaries by legislative agreement. So the 1934 total for street construction is reduced to approximately $3,245,000, more than $2,000,000 of which will not be spent this year.

Interest on paving money idle in the state treasury is not paid to the road fund but goes to the state's general fund.

"From this $2,000,000," said Mr. Fink, "you can subtract $800,000 that must be reserved for the completion of the bridge."

"You'll have 1935 gasoline revenue before the $800,000 is paid out next fall," it was suggested.

"With diversions and with tax reductions being proposed to the 1935 legislature, we can't rely upon future income," he replied.

Diversions have virtually depleted the future gasoline tax income of the Cook county highway department, which in the past has financed the laying of more than twice as much pavement as the state has built in this county.

IDENTIFIED AS ROBBER.

Identified by Charles Gurke, 4545 South Francisco avenue, as one of three youths who robbed him of $4.50 two years ago, Adolph Rzezikiewicz, 22 years old, 3034 West 40th street, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Lambert K. Hayes.

Three Fires in Kankakee Cause $175,000 in Damage

Kankakee, Ill., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Damage estimated at $175,000 was caused here today by three fires that started almost simultaneously. The greatest loss incurred was from the destruction of the J. Lecour & Sons department store in the heart of the business district.

Because of the rapid sequence of the blazes, which taxed the fire departments of Kankakee and surrounding towns, who were called to aid Fire Chief John J. Berg said he would investigate the possibility that they were of incendiary origin. However, the property owners involved scouted that theory.

Discovered by Manager.

The first fire was discovered in the basement of the department store when Paul Lecour, the manager, was opening up for the day. It had apparently started in the vicinity of an elevator motor for it quickly swept up the shaft.

Despite the efforts of firemen and members of the American Legion who were called on as volunteers, the flames completely gutted the three story department store building. Considerable damage from smoke and water was also caused to two adjacent buildings, that of the F. A. Lottinville & Sons shoe store and the John Gregor community market.

Two Fires Follow.

While firemen and citizens were waging a losing battle with this blaze, an alarm was sounded for a fire in the Maillet bakery, on the same street as the first fire but about five blocks away. Equipment and men were dispatched there and soon extinguished that conflagration though a loss of about $3,500 was incurred.

But no sooner had that fire been put out when another was reported in the Yates and Betourne garage, also on the same street with the other two blazes. The damage was nominal there.

2 SLAIN YOUTHS IDENTIFIED BY HOLDUP VICTIMS

The two were Howard Allen, 16 years old, 4702 North Talman avenue, fatally shot Monday during the robbery of a restaurant at 1947 Fullerton avenue, and Harry L. Walder, 19 years old, 4811 North Ashland avenue, slain in a police ambush in a rooming house at 2152 Cleveland avenue Monday night, a few hours after Allen died in the Bridewell hospital.

Bradford Fields, 4422 Magnolia avenue, and Jesse Henrick, 2467 North Clark street, two other alleged members of the gang, are still being sought. They and the slain youths were fugitives from the St. Charles reformatory.

WIFE OBTAINS DIVORCE FROM OLIVER MOROSCO, THEATRICAL PRODUCER

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Oliver Morosco, nationally known theatrical producer, was divorced today by Helen McRuer Morosco, former actress, who charged desertion.

Mrs. Morosco testified "No one person could hope to hold Mr. Morosco, because he has as many facets as a crystal chandelier." She said her husband informed her he had taught her all he could about being a theatrical producer.

"Now that there are two producers in the house, there are too many," Mrs. Morosco said he informed her before he left her July 6, 1933. The couple was married Nov. 21, 1929. It was Morosco's third marriage.

The LAW an Honorable Profession

Emerging as it has from earliest times, the Law has continued to regulate the relations of nations and neighbors down to the present time. And today more than ever, the practice of law is a powerful and fascinating profession to which only well-trained men and women are welcome.

De Paul College of Law, an integral department of the University, has for more than thirty-six years been training students for this profession. The roster of able and respected attorneys who claim this university as their Alma Mater is proof, in part, of De Paul's pre-eminence in this field.

To the prospective lawyer, this college makes available a thorough legal education . . . a grounding in the theory and practice of law which will enable him to employ profitably what he has learned, and to become a respected member of an honorable profession.

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter." —Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

A COALITION OF KERENSKYS.

After his conversation with the President Mr. Upton Sinclair told reporters that he could find no difference between his Epic plan and the New Deal. The Epic plan at the start had been a little ahead of the New Deal, but the New Deal had caught up. It seems fair to conclude that if Mr. Roosevelt saw any material differences he did not stress them in the two hour interview.

Of course there is no essential difference between the two programs. Mr. Roosevelt has been financing his scheme in part by mortgaging the future, but he must be aware by this time that the borrowing power of the government is nearing its limit. Indeed, he showed his appreciation of the situation when he devalued the currency and thereby imposed a 40 per cent capital levy on every citizen who had put anything aside. A few billion dollars more of borrowing and another jolt or two of devaluation and the possibilities in both directions will have been exhausted.

Thus far Mr. Roosevelt has been trying to buy prosperity, but the cost has been staggering, the sources of the slush funds are drying up and today we have less prosperity than we had a few months ago. Mr. Sinclair is now offering to pioneer the next move. As a matter of fact, Mr. Roosevelt has anticipated him in approving Mr. Hopkins' venture in the mattress business. Mr. Sinclair proposes, likewise, to take possession of idle lands and factories and put idle men and women to work. There is something appealing about such a program to intellectual adolescents as the recent primary in California showed. There was also something appealing to them in Mr. Hoover's farm board, in NRA, and in all the other nostrums of recent years, which have created more trouble than they were calculated to cure.

It won't work. The idle factories and idle lands are idle primarily because they are relatively inefficient. This is a staggering handicap to start with. Mr. Sinclair's adventure in the movie business with the Russian, Eisenstein, should have taught him that there is no substitute for sound and experienced management, but apparently he has not learned that lesson. His state-operated farms and factories will have untrained and inexperienced managers directing untrained and inexperienced workmen. They will therefore produce little at high cost. He has insufficiently considered the whole question of transportation and distribution as if they presented no problem at all. He has paid no attention to the long record of experiments which show that, with the fewest exceptions, the cost of supporting the needy is greater when they are thus provided with work.

In the unlikely event that Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Roosevelt succeed where others have failed, their success can be only temporary. Any relief which they are likely to bring to those now out of work will be at the expense of those who now have work and through it are supporting themselves and contributing to the support of the idle. Mr. Sinclair's rosy program, once it is put into operation, will send capital into hiding and out of the country. It will lead to such hoarding of money and goods as this country has not seen. Unemployment will grow and depression will become stagnation.

Nevertheless, Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Roosevelt are going ahead with the Epic plan under that or another name. The danger is that its failure, like the failure of NRA, will not be attributed, as it should be, to the short sight and recklessness of those who conceived it, but rather to the alleged sabotaging of the plan by alleged chiselers. That will open the way for some more ruthless demagog with a still more preposterous program of seizure and spoliation. Mr. Roosevelt now has Mr. Sinclair to assist him in the rôle of Kerensky.

THE GREAT WHITE SOX RUMOR.

Alert readers who depend upon these columns for sporting information probably do not know that the Chicago Cubs have decided not to play a city baseball series with a team called the White Sox, yet such is the case. So as not to hurt the feelings of the team called the White Sox, the Cubs were forced to find an excuse for not playing, and they finally did, though it was palpably manufactured. The Cubs' excuse was that they would be busy in the world series at the time.

The discussion about the city series has caused many persons to ask: What are the White Sox? This is difficult to answer. Old timers with green memories will recall that there used to be a White Sox baseball team on the south side of the city. It was a remarkable team, and many fans still like to talk of the exploits of Shoeless Joe Jackson and Buck Weaver and Happy Felsch and Eddie Cicotte and other almost legendary players. This team was so good, indeed, that it had to be paid extra to lose a game now and then, and in this way it fell out of favor with baseball's rulers and was disbanded.

Since that time there occasionally have been rumors of a team of young men named the White Sox playing some game on the south side, but these have never been verified. It is not even certain that the team was supposed to have been playing baseball, and it might have been soccer or hocky. In fact, it is more likely to have been soccer than hocky, since the rumors have been more persistent in summer than in winter.

It is quite obvious that there has been no regular effort to form a baseball team on the south side this summer, since there are no records of a federal allotment for this purpose. If federal funds have been available for golf and tennis instructors in many Illinois small towns, could the government have reasonably refused the request of the great south side for a few baseball instructors?

The Cubs were quite right in refusing to play the team called the White Sox in any series to determine the city championship. It would be a terrible disgrace to be beaten by a team which presumably hadn't existed.

A MANUFACTURER'S PROBLEM.

Walter J. Kohler, former governor of Wisconsin, whose manufacturing plant and model village have been attacked by rioters, has disclosed information in a labor board hearing that will have a familiar sound to many if not most employers.

Under questioning he told of difficulties he has faced as the head of a large manufacturing enterprise. The story warrants attention by those who see only one side of labor problems. It should have the careful study of politicians who, without responsibility, attempt to profit from class prejudice and by those agitators who in the guise of helpfulness bring dissension and discord between employés and the management which employs them.

In the last four years of the depression, Mr. Kohler said, his company has continued to operate its plant at a loss of more than $4,000,000. It has continually employed from 1,000 to 1,500 more men than it needed. It has filled warehouse after warehouse with manufactured goods for which the ultimate market at best is long deferred.

"I have never faced actual want," Mr. Kohler said in response to an inquiry from counsel for the unions. "I have never been hungry and I have done the best I could to see that none of my employés ever faced hunger.

"There have been days in my business life, however, when I did not know what might happen. There have been days when we all worked desperately, staking all we had. If we had failed I would have been through and I can't say what I might have faced then. We struggled and we made good."

Few manufacturers who have attained success but can recall, with Mr. Kohler, days when they too worked desperately, staking all they had. All, like the Wisconsin manufacturer, struggled and some made good. Some succeeded and many failed. There are no strikes against those who failed.

It has become the fashion these days to disparage those who succeeded. The fancy is to picture them as enemies of humanity and the society they built as a failure and a monstrous thing. The phrase is that they have exploited the labor for which their success provided employment. But the village and the company of Kohler have been conspicuous for the fellowship between management and man. The employers unquestionably could have conserved much of their $4,000,000 loss had they chosen to close their plant when current business no longer justified operating it.

Over the years they have proved an interest in Kohler workmen no agitator nor complacent politician can approach.

The Kohler plant still is closed and whether and when it reopens now seems to depend upon what the national labor board concludes about conditions there. No one ever has charged Walter Kohler with being untruthful. The accuracy of his statement cannot be questioned. It ought to have great weight with the labor board at Washington if not with the men who have been preventing a peaceful reopening of the Kohler plant.

SUICIDE UNDER THE AAA.

". . . nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law."—Article V. of the constitution.

Benjamin Medlock, 48 years old, a tenant farmer of lower Greenville county, South Carolina, had laboriously raised cotton on his farm. It was time for it to be picked. Federal inspectors appeared and measured his land. They ordered him to plow up three acres of his cotton. Medlock retired to his frame house; shot and killed himself.

DOES THE SHOE PINCH?

[Wisconsin State Journal.]

The progressive organ of discontent met the announcement of the formation of the Liberty league, which mainly proposes to defend the constitution, with an indignant attack in which it insinuated an ulterior motive. Of course it declared its own allegiance to the constitution. A congressional spokesman for the President assailed Al Smith and John W. Davis, founders and leading Democrats, in a tirade in which he mentioned Wall street. The radical propagandist's method of attack is to couple his target with something unpopular. The smart Mr. Tugwell says he wants to join, and all Democratic leaders should join, because they all believe in everything the league stands for. And there you have it. They castigate the Liberty league in which they profoundly believe.

There is in this whole matter, affecting the new Liberty league and a score of other organizations having the same purposes, which purposes all revolve around a sort of reassertion of our constitution and a defiance to the incursions and practices of forms of government other than the democracy, a curiously invariable circumstance. These people seldom mention the constitution. We do not recall a case in the last two years in which a significant member of America's radical group has arisen affirmatively to defend it. If any one else does they are disturbed and annoyed, but always they subscribe. They say the constitutional shoe fits them, but it seems to pinch them, just a little.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

EVERYBODY talks about how hard it is to get over a vacation. And it's true. Getting over a vacation is much harder than getting over the measles or winter itch. Or being merry and gay right after you've had your tonsils out out. You keep thinking about the darn thing. And the very idea of working makes the patient scream with anguish. But there's nothing to do about it. The doctors have got cures now for about every ailment that the human race is subject to. All but the after vacation feeling. There science is helpless. You just have to suffer in silence. And show the pictures you took on the trip to your friends. And tell about the fish you caught and the swell time you had. And then your friends suffer, too. And so the dire effects of a vacation spread and spread until the whole neighborhood is infected. It's an annual plague and it doesn't run its course usually until you slip on the pavement after the first snowfall or get chilblains or your pet football team gets licked thirty to nothing. Then your vacation pangs become less and less and finally they're gone altogether. So cheer up; there is hope!

REFLECTIONS

on the Battle of Ivry, Immediately Prior to Which, According to Lord Macaulay, King Henry of Navarre Harangued His Knights as follows:

" * * And if my standard-bearer fall, as fall full well he may—*
For never saw I promise yet of such a bloody fray—
Press where ye see my white plume shine amidst the ranks of war,

I bid ye think on Ivry, and this consider well:
What if the standard-bearer had—O Lindley Murray!—fell;
And what if some miscreant within the ranks of war
Had knocked the gaudy helmet off'n Henry of Navarre?

How then might lusty warriors, fair gentlemen of France,
Would they retreat to stout Rochelle, and with its mourning daughters
Sit down to drown their sorrows in the city's acrid waters?
Or would they ride in circles around the field of war;
Each one an armored question mark: "Where's Henry of Navarre?"

Would then the bearded Bourbon king himself have fled away
To seek Mambrino's basin so he might resume the fray?
Or would he in his stirrups rise, white handkerchief held high,
And holler: "Frenchmen, here I am! Frog-eaters, follow I!"
Perhaps he would have spurred his steed and ridden fast and far
To hand some ancient alibi to Margaret of Navarre.

Would dark Mayenne have run amuck, cavorting through the land,
Would Appenzel's stout infantry and Egmont's Flemish spears
Have greeted Gallic chivalry with catcalls and Bronx cheers?

Would all the brood of false Lorraine have moved on gay Paree,
To each pick out a chic soubrette to help put on a spree?
Would all the legions of the League troop down the boulevards
Would Guelders and Almayne have joined inside some Yankee Bar
To mix Manhattan cocktails in the helmet of Navarre?

The field of Ivry might have had an aftermath bizarre
Had some undaunted Leaguer socked the helmet of Navarre.

"I TALKED," said Upton Sinclair after his interview with the President, "with one of the kindest, most genial, frankest, and most open minded and lovable persons I ever met." And after that any old fashioned Democrat who sneers at Mr. Sinclair must have a cold, hard, supercilious, suspicious, and most deplorable disposition as well as indigestion and gout, ingrowing toenails and a hobnailed liver.

THE HORRIBLE DISCOVERY has been made in Washington that Sec. Wallace hasn't got a flag. Every cabinet member has a flag except the secretary of agriculture. It's revolting; it's simply monstrous. Secretary Wallace certainly ought to have a flag. And a red light and a gong and a siren, and have somebody behind him shooting Roman candles and skyrockets. This matter should be attended to right now. Write to your congressman today!

AND THE GLOOMS may say there are more strikes today than ever and more sagging of stocks and more hopeless conditions abroad, and that everything we need is costing more and more, and there are more signs of a hard winter and what not, but, anyhow, the doctors say there's less hay fever around than a few weeks ago. And that's a lot to be thankful for. Or didn't you ever have hay fever?

DRUGS THAT DESTROY WHITE CELLS.

WE may think of the blood as an important and essential body tissue. It has much to do. The red cells carry oxygen to the tissues and collect waste carbon dioxide and transport it to the lungs, where it is excreted. The white cells have a function to perform in relation to disease—namely: the destruction of bacteria.

The number of red cells in normal health is about five million per cubic millimeter; the number of white cells, about 7,500 per cubic millimeter. There are many varieties of white cells; some are larger than others, and the nuclei of some possess odd shapes. They are easily differentiated under the microscope.

Within the last few years much study has been given to the occurrence of a disease called granulocytopenia. This condition is frequently fatal and is characterized by a decrease in the white cells of the blood to one-fifth or even one-tenth their normal number. Sometimes none can be found in a given sample of blood taken from a sick patient. The disease is quite characteristic, as it is accompanied by ulceration of the mucous membrane of the mouth, the throat, and other parts of the body. There is usually great weakness and prostration which is out of all proportion to the symptoms presented. The temperature at times may be high.

Attention has been called, within the last year or two, to the fact that most of these patients, as far as the record can be traced, have been using for a considerable time fairly regular doses of some one of the barbituric acid drugs. It has been known for a number of years that the white cells of the blood can be destroyed through the action of various coal tar products or by the application of X-ray and radium.

C. H. Watkins reports 32 cases of this disease, 24 of whom had been taking either amidopyrine [pyramidon] or a barbituric acid derivative for varying periods before the onset of the disease. One patient had had twelve attacks of granulocytopenia in the last two and a half years, each attack following the fairly liberal use of pyramidon.

While most observers do not agree that the drug in question is the basic cause of the development of this peculiar blood condition, yet it is thought that it may either accentuate an existing disease or actually bring about a decrease in the blood forming power of the body. However, reports are continuing to pour in relative to the curious relation between the ingestion of barbiturates and the onset and sometimes fatal issue of the disease. One report includes a series of 14 cases of whom 13 did not recover. All had taken certain derivatives of barbituric acids.

Unfortunately for sufferers from pain, particularly the pain caused by arthritis, amidopyrine and the various barbituric acid compounds are most useful. Many a night that would ordinarily have been sleepless has been rendered comfortable through the use of one of these derivatives. There is sufficient evidence, however, to warant the conclusion that pyramidon and the various barbiturates, if taken at all, should be used only under the constant supervision of a skilled physician who will from time to time check the white cell count of the blood. Some authors go so far as to condemn any or all of the coal tar derivatives. This is hardly a safe position when one considers the tremendous quantities of salicylates that are given regularly for the relief of rheumatic infections throughout the world.

POSITIVELY HARMFUL.

E. A. writes: Would it be harmful or beneficial to take capsules containing dinitrophenol for reducing?

REPLY.

Positively harmful. A number of fatalities have been reported from the promiscuous use of dinitrophenol. Under very careful medical supervision, where detailed control can be had, dinitrophenol has occasionally been used by experienced physicians with favorable results. Its disastrous effects, however, are well known.

From Across the Sea

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—In the British house of commons recently Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council and acting prime minister, stated that plans were going forward for the protection of civilians from gas and bomb attacks. The steps which Baldwin mentioned are now being taken.

They include very large orders for gas masks, a scheme for training in gas mask drill, and the preparation of underground shelters in every area to which the civilian population can rush in the event of aerial attack. The plans have been prepared and will be published when the details are officially approved.

The royal defense corps, which was recently established, will take a leading part in carrying out the government's plans. Its members will be instructed thoroughly in all anti-gas duties, including first aid to gas casualties. Specialists, including officers and men of the army, the militia and the royal defense corps, with a large number of civilian experts, will be employed to give lectures on anti-gas measures, to instruct squads in respirator drill, and to give public demonstrations of how to act during gas emergencies.

It is understood that each big city will make its own preparations against gas attacks. The expense will be paid if necessary by loans from the government, but each city will be responsible for providing its own defenses against gas. The financial burden will not fall on army or air ministry funds.

During the present army field training all soldiers will carry respirators. This has not been done in recent army maneuvers, and instructions how to combat gas will form an important part of future military training.

The organized militia has not yet been issued gas masks, but these have now been manufactured, and the complete personnel will be fully equipped with them at once. Up till now the only training in dealing with gas in the country, apart from the military schools, has been that of medical organizations, nurses, and ambulance men. In the future the whole of this instruction will be placed under one organization and one control.

SELF-DELUDED PEOPLES.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 3.—Germany will not believe she lost the war, although always admitting her progressive miseries that for fifteen years have smitten her only because of the war.

France will not believe she would have lost had it not been for Great Britain and ourselves, although she continuously shows herself to be in constant fear of Germany.

Great Britain will not believe she has lost her world trade supremacy, piecemeal, to Japan, ourselves, and others, although she is ever making desperate efforts to recapture it.

We will not believe that the way out of a depression is to work harder, to produce more and better goods to meet local needs and world competition, although we point with pride to a national growth that came only from doing just that. We prefer to believe that a New Deal will show us how to have more by producing less that shall sell for more in terms of a money that is worth less, and still less, until it becomes worthless.

The answer:

Germany had better try to restore, and cease destroying, the good will of the world toward her, in order to get back the customers she needs so desperately.

France had better acknowledge her debts to Britain and ourselves, which she can well afford to pay, if she ever intends to call on us again for aid.

Britain had better attempt to restore her world trade by orthodox methods or not at all, for progressive depreciation of the pound will bring the loss of financial leadership and ultimate empire disintegration.

We had better return to the oft decried but much respected capitalistic system, or we will commit the greatest economic and political suicide in written history.

Let us all face realities and stop dodging them. ALAN D. WHITNEY.

NOISES.

Chicago, Sept. 2.— In your editorial of Aug. 29 on "Noise and Neurosis" you failed to mention one of the most annoying noises in the city. It is the continuous shrill whistling of trains at every crossing. Almost equally irritating is the roar of the heavy passenger and freight trains. H. C. J.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—A TRIBUNE editorial writer has made a discovery! He finds that "perversion and malevolence" are apparent in British press reports upon American conditions. If the gentleman will read some of the franker English historians he will learn that he has but rediscovered an old British custom. Character assassination has always been a favorite weapon in the tight little island. The purveyor of false testimony was an English institution long before newspapers, like Alexander's musician, "could swell the soul to sudden rage," and so on. Titus Oates was not a phenomenon. The rank of some of his intended victims made him more conspicuous than his fellows.

The "lampooners" of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries have their worthy successors in the Fleet street scribblers of today. Where the former maligned Englishmen who were distasteful to them or their employers, the latter engage in wholesale defamation of other nations. Just at present America happens to be their target.

Even allowing for the exigencies of war, was there ever a grosser example of "perversion and malevolence" than the story—vouched for by Englishmen of great prominence—that German soldiers made a practice of nailing little babies to Belgian barn doors?

"Who steals my purse steals trash," wrote a famous Englishman, but went on to indicate that his good name was quite another matter, indeed. England has already stolen our purse. Her inspired slanderers are now working on our reputation. CHARLES E. DOLAN.

DIAGNOSIS.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 1.—Lately I note a tendency for you to wonder what has happened to the character of the American people. You are fighting a losing fight; you are trying to lead a people who have failed and will continue to fail you. And the overwhelming fact of our national existence is never quoted; the people are debauched by automobiles. They do not build homes or character or self-control; they buy excitement, speed, and thrill, and that in increasing quantities, and in so doing bankrupt themselves as individuals financially and mentally and spiritually and finally physically. The car, an accident, has overwhelmed the race; it is a thing to which the race is not adjusted by a million years of evolution. But it is useless to point to the fact; it is easier and pleasanter to rationalize along the lines of economic buncombe. The American people have sold their birthright for a few gallons of gas. ### GOODS SOLD BY DESCRIPTION.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is there any way of compelling an auto dealer, who has advertised cars for sale, to state the correct year of the car? I bought such a car a few days ago through an ad which turned out to be one year older than advertised. However, the bill of sale states that they are not responsible nor will they guarantee the year of the car sold. L. M.

Section 14 of the sales act provides that where goods are sold by description there is an implied warant that they shall comply with the description.

Section 15 [3] provides that if the buyer has examined, there is no implied waranty as regards defects which such an examination ought to have revealed. It is difficult to see how the date is material except for possible bearing on how badly the car is worn, or how much it differs in design from the present models, both of which are points on which, under section 15 [3] the buyer should inform himself if the sale is by inspection as distinguished from description.

On the other hand, it has been held that a seller's affirmation that a car was a 1921 model was a waranty. [226 N. W. 268]. If there is an express waranty, sale of a different model would be a breach. [128 S. E. 289.] TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SUBPENA FIFTEEN TO AID U. S. QUIZ ON BONDHOLDERS

Congress Group Will Open Hearings Today.

Fifteen members of eight leading bondholders' protective committees in Chicago were subpenaed last night to aid in the congressional investigation into the activities of real estate bondholders' committees. The inquiry will open at 10 o'clock this morning in Room 677 of the United States courthouse.

The names of the witnesses summoned were withheld by Congressman Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Chicago], chairman of the investigating committee. He explained that he would not give out the names of those subpenaed because they are not under scrutiny but have been called to help the committee.

Sabath Seeks Foundation.

"It is my wish to avoid a possible misunderstanding," Mr. Sabath said. "The men who are to appear before the committee tomorrow will merely lay the foundation for the investigation proper. They have been called to present in detail a picture of the foreclosure situation. We wish to get advice from them to aid us in the performance of a tremendous task."

Mr. Sabath made his announcement at a conference with an advisory committee of sixteen Chicago attorneys, who have been named to aid the committee in hearings here. Congressman Everett M. Dirksen [Rep., Pekin, Ill.] and Thomas O'Malley [Dem., Milwaukee], members of the committee, attended the conference in the United States courthouse.

E. Jay Comer, chief investigator for the committee, told the attorneys that his staf has gathered information on 2,000 bondholders' committees throughout the country, representing 25,000 bond issues of a total face value of more than 1 billion dollars. This mountain of information will be available for the committee shortly, he said.

Comer Tells of Complaints.

"Our investigation has disclosed that many committees have failed in a sacred trust," he said. "There is not a single congressional district in the country that has not voiced a complaint against the abuses we all know.

"The committee has power to investigate all phases of foreclosure and any one interested in foreclosures. This includes judges, receivers, managers, trustees, protective committees and others. I believe that when the committee is through there will be material for the department of justice to act upon."

Congressman Sabath said he wished to deny reports that the committee would be "called off" before its work would benefit investors in defaulted bond issues. He said that he had pledged himself to carry out the investigation no matter what individuals or corporations might be hit.

Increase Shown

In four years the number of families on relief in Illinois has risen from approximately 6,000 to 281,367, according to a chart made public yesterday by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. The chart shows the number of families on relief in Cook county and downstate during the period from January, 1930, to July, 1934.

The number of families getting relief in Cook county rose from nearly 4,000 in June, 1930, to approximately 120,000 in June this year. The chart shows for downstate that the number of families rose from approximately 3,000 to approximately 160,000 during the same period.

The 281,367 resident families receiving relief during last June represent an increase of 4.1 per cent over May and an increase of 2 per cent over June of last year. The total number of persons, including transients, receiving relief during last June was 1,073,830.

JAPANESE TROOP TRAIN BLASTED; BANDITS ATTACK

Manchukuo Officials Blame Reds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 6 [Thursday].—A military train traveling ahead of an International express of the North Manchuria railway was dynamited near the Siberian border at Pogranichnaya [Suifenho], while traveling to Harbin yesterday, according to reports reaching here today. As a car left the tracks bandits attacked, but were repulsed by troops aboard the train.

Sign River Treaty.

It provides for the improvement of accommodations for the navigation of frontier rivers, and the establishment of a joint technical committee on frontier waterways.

The agreement is between the soviet Amur Steamship company and the Manchurian Harbin Steamship company, which are controled by their governments, and is regarded as far more than a mere business operation.

This technical agreement is expected to remove controversies concerning the alleged infringements of territorial rights by steamers operated by both companies, and charges that crews of some steamers were engaged in espionage.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Sept. 5.—There was no publication here today nor any comment in reference to the Japanese reply to the soviet's earlier protest against the arrest of soviet citizens in Manchukuo in the railway dispute.

Izvestia and Pravda continue to feature prominently reports of alleged Japanese plans for seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway and give far less space and headlines to the signature of a shipping convention between soviet citizens and Manchukuoans on frontier rivers.

A few days ago a statement by a high Japanese official about satisfactory relations between Japan and the soviet in the much vexed question of Siberian fisheries received equally cavalier treatment.

LITHUANIA SETS STRONGER RULES OF CENSORSHIP

Delays Free Press for Indefinite Time.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUNAS, Lithuania, Sept. 5.—Establishment of freedom of the press in Lithuania which has been promised by Dictator-President Antanas Smetona to the publishers of Lithuanian newspapers for several years has again been postponed.

The military governor of Kaunas has issued a new decree instructing Lithuanian newspapers on the kind of news they must and must not print.

Since the capital, Kaunas, is still under martial law and since the government of Lithuania still maintains an unofficial state of war with her neighbor, Poland, the Lithuanian press is censored.

Protects Dictatorship.

The decree warns the editors against the publication of distorted or treasonable reports or any articles which may have such tendencies. All reports, pictures or carricatures casting reflections upon the army, or upon the political and economic interests of the country, or which offend patriotic feeling and undermine the authority of the dictatorship are forbidden.

Crime news is also restricted under the new ruling which forbids the publication of the pictures of criminals, details of crimes and reports of preliminary investigations.

Following the example of the Nazi government in Germany, many of whose principles have already been adopted in Lithuania, the military governor insists that speeches by leading members of the government be published in full in prominent position in the newspapers.

Big Papers Subsidized.

Newspapers which have been closed b. the censorship are also forbidden to appear by changing their names during the period they have been proscribed.

Lithuanian newspapers are small in size and have small circulations. The larger papers are published with the aid of a government subsidy and under state control while the smaller ones are supported by the remnants of the formerly powerful political parties whose opposition to the present rulers is mild.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Finds Many Changes

RETURNING to the experimental farm from my Ontario fishing trip I find many changes in the appearance of the farm and a new kind of activity going on. When I left for the north a few weeks ago the buckwheat was blossoming and attracting honey bees by the hundreds. Now most of the flowers are gone. Many of the plants are filling out their kernels of grain. Fields that were green with growing corn now look rather bare because the boys have cut many acres to fill the silos. This work is still going on, too.

Specimens of the whippoorwill and blacl eye cowpeas along with many other interesting crop samples have gone to Chicago where they are on exhibition in the windows of THE TRIBUNE public service office, 1 South Dearborn street. Pastures that were pretty brown due to the drouth when we last saw the farm now are green and greatly freshened by recent rains. As Clarence Thurow, farm manager, said yesterday: "Our pastures are getting a new start. After being short and scorched by the hot suns now they are coming through with a new growth. It's wonderful for the stock."

When I went down to the woods near the river I had a chance to see how the Herefords revel in this new growth of green grass. How sleek and contented they looked scattered over the pasture where tall oaks and walnuts grow! Clarence has been hauling co from the fields and cutting it up with a silage cutter for the Herefords to supplement their grazing. owever, he remarked yesterday that the grass is so good that the steers have sort of been turning up their noses at the corn.

The barnyards are humming with activity these days because of illing the silos, construction of the big new silo, and the erection of a four foot concrete wall around one end and on side of the barn. T teams and wagons travel all day long between the gravel pit, where the bank swallows nested this summer, and the barnyard, hauling loads of material for the concrete mixer.

I have come back to the farm just in time to help Queen, the handsome little filly born here five months ago, celebrate a big event in her life. She was weaned yesterday, so now she pokes her nose into a feed box and munches oats next to Lady, her mother. One of the amusing things about the relationship between this filly and her mother is the way the latter is willing to give up a bit of food to her offspring. Yesterday I noticed that when Lady was eating some oats, Queen came up and poked her nose into the same feed box. She couldn't have been very hungry, but she made a bluff at wanting the food. Lady didn't hesitate a second. As soon as she saw that Queen wanted the food, she took her nose out of the feed box and kept it out. It was a perfect illustration of the unselfish parent!

BOAT WRECKED IN LAKE STORM; 2 YOUTHS RESCUED

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Two Bristol, Conn., youths, Richard Garrigus and Roy Linden, both 21, were brought here by the steamer H. A. Scandrett today after they were picked up in Lake Huron, thirty miles off Saginaw bay, where their 20 foot schooner was wrecked in a storm Tuesday morning.

The pair started out from their homes July 4. Traveling by way of Long Island sound, Harlem and Hudson rivers, and the Erie barge canal to the Great Lakes, they planned to go to Chicago and thence down the Mississippi to Florida, where they expected to spend the winter.

"We noticed all the steamers were heading in toward Saginaw bay," they said. "We thought we could take it and ride out the storm, and so we kept on. All that night the storm raged and toward morning our ship sprung a leak. Then the motor went dead and our sails let go.

"A Canada Steamship line steamer drew up alongside to see if we wanted help. We told them 'yes,' but the man just walked into the cabin and the steamer swung around and kept going."

Toward morning the Scandrett came up and while Garrigus bailed, Linden stood on top of the small cabin and waived a distress signal. Capt. John McGilvray swung his ship around to windward and got a line to the boat. They were taken aboard and the seamen fitted them out with warm clothing.

GETS 2 YEARS IN MAIL FRAUD.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Robert Hardey, 52, who said he decided to surrender after he "got religion" at a revival meeting in Quincy, Ill., was sentenced today here to two years in the Leavenworth federal prison after he pleaded guilty to using the mails to defraud.

PHYSICIAN TAKES STAND FOR STATE IN CO-ED'S DEATH

Asserts Instrument Used in Abortion Attempt.

Norman, Okla., Sept. 5.—(AP)—State's attorneys, seeking a life sentence for Neal Myers, charged with murder in the death of 19 year old Marian Mills, brought a physician to the stand late today in an effort to convince the jury an attempted instrumental abortion caused the campus beauty queen's death.

Dr. Ben Cooley of Norman, whose testimony came just before adjournment, declared an instrument had been used in an attempt to abort.

Mrs. Hazel Brown, fraternity house cook, earlier today had testified:

"Neal didn't want her to do that to herself. He said he wanted to marry her, but she said her people wouldn't have him."

Girl's Father a Professor.

The girl's father is M. Elbert Mills, a professor here in the University of Oklahoma. Marian Mills and the 20 year old defendant were students at the university.

The cook, at whose home the 19 year old co-ed beauty queen died July 10, became the key witness of both state and defense.

Person Woodall, defense attorney, made Mrs. Brown admit that within an hour before Marian's death the cook and Marian were alone in a room "for five or ten minutes."

"But we just talked," Mrs. Brown insisted tearfully.

"Isn't it a fact," asked Woodall, "that just before you got ready to leave Marian Mills was sick and looked in a dangerous condition?"

"Yes," Mrs. Brown replied.

"And isn't it a fact that Neal asked you to call a doctor and you refused?"

Didn't Want Doctor.

The witness broke down and cried out wildly:

"I told him he couldn't have a doctor in my home; I told him to take her away. I couldn't have anything happen there. I couldn't——"

"Now, did Neal Myers ever lay his hands on that girl while you were there?"

"No. Neal loved her. I know he loved her."

She said Marian, and not herself, had asked the youth to buy an antiseptic.

County Attorney Paul Updegraff then took the witness and asked:

"You don't know what Neal Myers did to Marian Mills after you left that house, if anything, do you?"

"No," was the reply.

Tells of Death Scene.

"You don't know whether Neal Myers did anything to that girl before you came that afternoon, do you?"

"No."

Mrs. Brown had testified she left the house shortly before Miss Mills died, returning to find that a physician, summoned by Myers, had found the girl dead.

By that time Myers had fled. He surrendered three weeks later.

Pennsy Railway Official Leaps to Death at Hospital

New York, Sept. 5.—(AP)—James W. Roberts, 62, an executive of the Pennsylvania railroad and president of the Trafic club of New York, leaped to death from his room on the sixth floor of St. Luke's hospital tonight. His physicians were consulting just outside the door.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Trap Wise

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

WLS and NBC appear to be nearing a parting of the ways. The station this week gave six months' notice of its intention to discontinue the network affiliation. Its present contract expires next March 1 and would have been automatically renewed if this action had not been taken.

WLS is giving NBC ten hours of time a week in payment for the use of the WENR-NBC transmitter. This, station officials argue, is an excessive price to pay. They are arguing for a figure about half the present scale and maintain that if they don't get the reduction they will build their own transmitter.

WLS and WENR divide time on the 870 channel. If WLS cuts loose from NBC the network may face the embarrassing situation of having less than two clear channels in Chicago next spring when KYW moves to Philadelphia.

Stanley Myers—who conducted the studio orchestra at WGR, Buffalo, when Col. Stoopnagle and Budd got their start ad libbing for an hour and a half because the regular performers failed to get to the studio one day—is coming to the Terrace Gardens to replace Clyde Lucas, who goes on a tour before taking over the Edgewater Beach assignment. The Myers orchestra will open Friday, Sept. 14, with local NBC stations as outlets. The Don Carlos marimba unit and Romo Vincent, master of ceremonies, also will be on the air from this spot.

Myers and his orchestra are favorites in the east, where they have been alternating the last season with Dave Rubinoff at the Paramount theaters in New York and Brooklyn. Myers insists that his orchestra is no "brain trust," despite the fact that all but two men have one or more college degrees.

Harry Sosnik, who leaves the Edgewater Beach outlets tonight in favor of Herbie Kay and Alexander Savine, plans to depart from Chicago, where he has been a radio figure since he was a boy pianist with Ted Fiorito, for the west coast. He will go on the air from Rainbow Gardens, Los Angeles, on Sept. 27. Sosnik will play the Palace Sept. 14.

Kate Smith will inaugurate a full hour's matinée at 2 o'clock next Wednesday as the initial step in Columbia's new build-up of its afternoon radio entertainment, a much needed improvement. Kate will have complete charge, selecting the talent and handling the production. Shirley Temple is to be a guest entertainer on the first program, it's reported. Kate also starts a new evening series at 7 p. m. next Thursday.

The group of musicians which was to have been associated with Russ Columbo in a new NBC commercial program will contribute several numbers during his funeral services this afternoon.

Charitable bequests totaling $6,000 are made in the will of Richard Price Evans, retired silk buyer for Marshall Field & Co., who died June 18. The will was filed for probate yesterday, disposing of an estate valued at $75,000.

A daughter, Mrs. Ethel Evans Krull, 5021 Nelson street, is to receive $2,500 and the income from a trust fund made up of most of the estate. Gifts of $1,000 are made to each of five nephews and four nieces.

68 POLICE RIDE AS ESCORTS TO SLAIN COMRADE

Attended by an escort of 68 motorcycle policemen, the body of Policeman Earle Milton Jensen of Oak Park, who was slain Saturday by three hoodlums, was taken yesterday afternoon to Woodlawn cemetery, North Riverside. More than 2,500 persons thronged the funeral chapel at 720 Lake street, Oak Park, and filled the street outside during the funeral services. Mayor Willis McFeely of Oak Park closed all departments yesterday afternoon.

The three gunmen, who killed Jensen as he sought to question them at the end of a chase, were later captured. One of them was wounded in the exchange of gunfire. All are held on murder charges.

DR. F. DETMERS PLANT EXPERT, DIES OF POISON

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Dr. Fredrica Detmers, curator of the herbarium at the University of Southern California, swallowed poison today and died a few hours later. She left a note giving burial instructions but did not explain her act.

Relatives, however, said she has been in ill health since a plant hunting trip several years ago when she suffered injuries. Dr. Detmers' note asked that her body be cremated and her ashes scattered. She asked no casket and no ceremony.

Dr. Detmers, who was noted for her knowledge of native grasses, came here five years ago from Ohio State university, Columbus. She had written many articles and books on her specialty.

Funeral Services Today for J. D. Bowen, Banker

Funeral services for John D. Bowen, assistant treasurer and Chicago correspondent for the Guaranty Trust company of New York, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at St. Ignatius church, 6559 Glenwood avenue. A change in plans was announced yesterday after it had been announced that the service would be held in Loyola university chapel. The body will be shipped to Pelham Manor, N. Y., for burial. Mr. Bowen died Tuesday night in Presbyterian hospital after an illness of three months, following an operation for appendicitis. He was 32 years old. He is survived by his parents, the Oliver M. Bowens, and a brother, Francis.

VEHON HELD SANE BY SIX IN CONTEST OF $1,000,000 WILL

Six witnesses testified in the Lake county Circuit court of Judge Edward Shurtleff yesterday that the late William H. Vehon, one time president of the Royal Tailoring company, was of sound mind when he made his will disposing of more than $1,000,000 in money and property.

Harry Vehon, 5226 Everett avenue, a brother, who was left $500, and Miss Florence Strumpf, 7047 East End avenue, a niece who was bequeathed $1,000, are suing to have the will set aside. The case is being heard by a jury. All except $40,500 of the estate was left to the widow, Mrs. Tillie Goodkind Vehon. The plaintiffs contend the estate is worth more than $2,000,000.

Miss Marion Maurice, 4631 Drexel boulevard, young niece of the Highland Park millionaire who died Sept. 22, 1932, was the first witness. She told of visiting her uncle shortly before his death and of discussing religion, books and paintings. She denied, under the cross-examination of Attorney Samuel Hirsch, that Mrs. Vehon had once ordered her from the house for sitting on Mr. Vehon's knee.

MRS. IRMA LOEB IS FOUND DEAD; POISON BLAMED

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. Irma F. Loeb, 45, former wife of Robert H. Loeb, stock exchange broker, was found dead today in her apartment here.

Dr. Norton Sager Brown said death was due to poison. Robert H. Loeb Jr., 20, who found his mother dead in bed, said she had been taking sleeping tablets for a number of years. Police found an unsigned note which said: "I feel my task is over." Mr. Loeb said he believed a premonition of death had caused his mother to write the message. Mrs. Loeb obtained a divorce in May, 1933, charging her husband with cruelty.

Good Morning!

What a rich library of screened literature this old world will have if the present trend of production keeps up! Nice that Hollywood ran across somebody who reads books.

"The Count of Monte Cristo," famous novel by the elder Dumas, who told Napoleon III. that he had written 1,200 books—said bit of information being thrown out as a hint to producers sleuthing for material—has taken kindly to screen adaptation.

Why shouldn't it? The story has all the elements conducive to stimulation of interest. It has intrigue, suspense, mystery, adventure, romance—AND—hidden treasure, discovered by the right person and used to confound those who had done him wrong. It rouses you to active anger, to stinging pity; assuages your worry with flooding relief and leaves you happy as a grig. I ask you—what more could you ask of any human photoplay?

You remember the story, don't you? Edward Dantes, aged 19 and in love with a charming Mercedes, though he violates no law, finds himself incarcerated in the gloomy Château d'If—a fortress on a bare rock off Marseilles. The year is 1815. After fourteen years he miraculously escapes and, tremendously wealthy, goes back to old haunts, where he lives a life of mystery, splendor, romance, and well directed vengeance. The tale has been quite faithfully reproduced, according to my memory of the book, read a long, long time ago. Scenery, staging, and costumes I thought were swell.

Robert Donat, who played the romantic lead in "Henry VIII.," does excellently by the title rôle. He's enthusiastic and appealing as the young Dantes and rapier keen, swift and to the point as Dantes the avenger—"not of myself but of others wronged by these scoundrels . . ."

O. P. Heggie is believable as the wise, brilliant old abbe who tunnels from his cell to Dantes', instructs the latter in patience and the arts, and through his death . . . when the two have almost tunneled to safety . . . provides Dantes with freedom and the vast fortune that comes in so handy afterward—he having the map which locates the hidden treasure aforementioned.

You will thoroughly approve of Elissa Landi as the devoted Mercedes and growl ominously inside over the horrible machinations of Messrs. Calhern, Blackmer, and Walburn. Good cast all the way through.

"Death is so beautiful!" whispers the dying abbé to his friend. Whereat a band plays and a chorus of voices shrieks loudly:

"AVE MARIA!" Those two words. No more. Just as if the angels reached down quick and grabbed him before he would get away.

THERE is an unknown but not unsung Santa Claus in the town of North Manchester, Ind. He conceived the idea of sending to A Century of Progress all the children of the town between the ages of 12 and 14 who otherwise would not have an opportunity to see the Fair. His name is known only to the superintendent of schools, who furnished him with the list of children, according to a letter telling about the unknown resident's generous act.

Warning—
Comeback.

"Our local bus driver took the children, and one stipulation was that enough loads should go so that the children would not be crowded or uncomfortable," the letter says. "One hundred and twenty-eight children and their caretakers made the trip, leaving early one morning and returning the next morning, and not one accident or unpleasant happening marred their pleasure, which seems to me to come under the man-bites-dog definition of news. The generous donor paid all transportation to the Fair, admission to the grounds, to the towers of the Sky Ride, to Wings of a Century, and I don't know just what other attractions; allowed each child one dollar for each meal, and, as a final thoughtful touch, each child was given a quarter to spend exactly as he pleased.

"I am reporting the story only because of my interest in children and my appreciation of the donor. I do not know the man and do not wish my name mentioned, but I thought you might like a true story of a generous act."

HITCHING on to automobiles and trucks is frequently done by youngsters who want to get to the new beach at the end of Montrose avenue. The other day a large truck went down Montrose and for a distance of several miles boys started to steal a ride, but abandoned it as soon as they got near the truck. The curiosity of some motorists behind the truck was aroused and, stepping on the gas, they drove up to the rear of the truck. They saw a sign attached, printed in small, neat black letters. It read:

"Be Careful! DEATH IS SO PERMANENT."

IT was at the Metropolitan Business school in the loop. One hot, dusty afternoon recently the teacher, Miss Greenough, who believes in individual instruction, was flitting from desk to desk, seating herself each time at the vacant desk next her pupil.

"Don't you object to cleaning off each seat in that fashion?" inquired a flippant pupil.

Designers Present Ravishing Tailored Models.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Enter the velvet nightgown with the usual commotion and buzzing around of excited shoppers! Yes, they wash—which is the first thing that seems to bother the prospective owners—and of course you can, if you wish, wear them for tea gowns, negligees, evening, dance, and dinner dresses. Nightgown designers are anything but dumb about obliging the nightgown collector.

These are ravishing affairs. They come in two models, a tailored sheath effect with double loops at the shoulder line, and a square cut décolletage. There are black numbers in the tailored models that will make grand dance dresses, for they are simple of silhouette with a circular flare at the edge of the floor length hemline. Scarlet velvet as vivid as a poinsettia is fashioned into another heart breaker.

The lovely models trimmed with bister colored cobwebby lace are delights. Narrow straps that cross at the back and a square cut neckline in front are lavishly encrusted with the lace. Rose quartz pink, a gorgeous shade of ash-rose and an azure blue, will make your heart beat faster until they are packed in a box ready for home base. Shimmering bridal white velvet is alluringly beautiful and is trimmed in the deep ivory tinted lace. And last, but not least, the price marks are shockingly low; you can easidly buy two or three without having a guilty conscience.

While you are gloating over these luxurious looking velvet arrivals, look for the grand brocaded silk robes in the same collection. Stunning things in chartreuse green to match any one of the pale green velvet nightgowns are made with a high fitted collar, long sleeves with a long tasseled cord at the waist and frogs and covered buttons racing up the side closing. You can find them in nearly every pastel color imaginable, as well as white.

Simplicity and Balance Are Part of Healthful Diet

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The healthful diet should be a simple one, consisting of meat, vegetables, raw and cooked, fruits, raw and cooked, and dairy products. One should be moderate in the amount of food eaten. We should acquire the habit of drinking plenty of water, six to eight glasses being the required amount. Water may be taken between meals, or with meals if one is careful not to use it for washing down food. When that is done, one is bound to overeat.

It would not be possible to outline a specific diet and say that it would apply in every case, as there are people who suffer with food idiosyncrasies. The vegetarian would not relish including meats in his diet, and no doubt would have the feeling that his digestion would not permit of its use. This might really not be the case at all, as any one with normal digestion may safely eat a little meat, and anyone who likes meat would be doing himself an injustice were he to eliminate it entirely.

Too much sugar and too much meat will have ill effects just as surely as over consumption of starchy foods. We want to strive for a balanced diet. It is a common fault to eat too much starchy foods and, as the digestion of starchy foods begins in the mouth, it is necessary they be well mixed with saliva, otherwise the stomach is overburdened, and disorders of the digestive tract will occur. And we must be careful to masticate our food properly, not only for the sake of our digestion but also because it is essential to exercise the teeth. The use of raw vegetables and fruits, such as cabbage, lettuce, celery and apples is advocated from childhood, as they require a great deal of mastication, and through them one acquires the habit of chewing the food.

Diets made up entirely of vegetables are often found to be of great benefit to those who suffer from constipation, and are similarly recommended for those who seek relief from some disorders resulting from the excessive eating of meat.

I repeat, a balanced diet, consisting of meat, vegetables, and fruits, both cooked and raw, dairy products, with the proper consumption of water daily, is what one wants to strive for, for beauty's sake as well as that of health.

Trophy Dance.

Tennis trophies will be presented at the college informal dance the County Club of Evanston is to have tomorrow evening.

Cradle Benefit Dance Will Be Held October 8

BY JUDITH CASS.

BECAUSE the baby market continues brisk as ever, the Cradle society in Evanston will hold its twelfth annual benefit dinner-dance the evening of Oct. 8, in either the Grand ballroom of the Drake or the Stevens hotel. The earliest formal charity affair to be scheduled thus far for the fall and winter season, it is certain to be not only a welcome home for dozens of society folk, but a parade of the autumn's loveliest creations in evening attire.

At a board meeting yesterday at the Cradle, 2039 Ridge avenue, in Evanston, where almost 2,500 unwanted babies have been cared for since 1923 before their adoption into recommended homes, the date for the party was set and plans discussed for making it an even gayer party than in years gone by.

A number of suggestions were read by Mrs. William B. Walwrath, the managing director of the Cradle, for she was in receipt of communications from Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy, chairman of the ball, and Mrs. Louise De Koven Phelps, co-chairman, who are still vacationing in the east. Mrs. Eddy will be at home the 12th from Cape Cod, to push the arrangements more actively, while Mrs. Phelps will be here tomorrow from Watch Hill. Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, who was the successful chairman of last year's benefit, attended yesterday's meeting.

Ballet Performance Will Be Benefit.

Some time next week there is to be a meeting at the home of Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank to discuss plans for the performance of the celebrated Monte Carlo Ballet Russe, which will benefit the Woman's Trade Union league. Although the ballet opens here Christmas night for its engagement of one week, the trade union league is taking the night of the 26th for its charity, pointing out that families like to remain at home on the holiday. Such leaders as Mrs. Howard Linn and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson are among those who are interesting themselves in the league performance.

Having closed its London season with brilliant acclaim, the ballet is now on its way to open an engagement Sept. 19 in Mexico City. From there the troupe will go to New York City to fill an engagement beginning Oct. 15, but Massine, it is interesting to know, has reserved at least two premières, including Stravinsky's "Fire Bird," for Chicago.

Now that Gertrude Stein has promised to come to the city this winter, more interest than ever is developing in the performance of "Four Saints in Three Acts" the night of Nov. 8 at the Auditorium for the benefit of the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins. Although Miss Stein may not be here until about the 20th for her lecture at the University of Chicago, almost every one wants to see, hear, and try to understand the opera for which she wrote the libretto and which created such a furor last winter in Hartford, Conn., and New York City.

Mrs. Zimmerman Returns Tomorrow.

Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman, who is president of the Vocational society, will be back in town tomorrow from Lake Geneva to get an intensive ticket selling campaign under way for the benefit. Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr. is general chairman.

That very fashionable and important benefit of the fall season, St. Luke's fashion show, scheduled for Oct. 23 this year, will be getting off to an enthusiastic start the third week of this month when the first board meeting of the season is held. Mrs. John W. Gary, president of the board, who has been close at home this summer because of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Thomas R. Lyon, will be setting the exact date of the meeting any day now.

Sad for those patrons of music who always anticipated and enjoyed the Girl Scout concert series, there is to be no such series this winter. Instead the scout board is relying upon its many generous minded friends for voluntary contributions to keep its worthwhile work going.

Service Club Plans Meeting.

Members of the Service club have received cards announcing a meeting of the club on Sept. 14 at the residence of Mrs. Frank S. Sims, 1430 Lake Shore drive. While the debutantes are not invited to this meeting, the time is drawing close for the annual fall tea to which the buds are invited. Mrs. John Dern, the president of the club, returned yesterday from the east.

Miss Howard Holds Variety Is Style Key

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Predicting more variety in fashions than has ever been seen before for the coming winter and spring, Marjorie Howard of Paris, internationally known fashion commentator, summarized the recent collections tonight in New York City.

This is the second year that Miss Howard has held a Paris Fashion Forum for American women under the auspices of the Fashion Group, an organization of outstanding fashion women—creators, writers, store executives, and buyers. Eight hundred persons heard the discussion.

"There is not one type of model before which you can put the article 'the,'" Miss Howard said, unless, she amended later, it may be the tunic which is represented in both day and evening modes. "We have two keynotes to guide us: One, richness and luxury; the other, variety. Interest is concentrated in material, and material, in every case, determines the silhouette."

"In the day clothes we find diversified modes, dark colors, lots of furs, a great number of suits, a tendency toward normal waists and normal sleeves, and attention to collars. Skirt lengths remain practically static and all skirts are slim and very often slit. Tunics are back in the mode again.

"In the evening mode, we find two outstanding types: The slim silhouette with slit skirt in supple materials, and the flared silhouette in stiff materials. But in every case the silhouette is dependent on the fabric."

Whether this promotion of rich materials, deep colors, and lavish furs predict the end of luxury in fashions, or whether it heralds a return to the more elaborate type of clothes, even the Paris designers cannot say, Miss Howard remarked, but they are determined to keep Paris fashions up to the traditional standard. Final crystallization of the coming fashions, she said, will be determined only when the private clientele of the Paris houses return to town and select their own personal wardrobes.

Suits are the outstanding clothes of the daytime mode, she stated, both because of numbers and because of variety. Every length from waist to seven-eighths is represented, both furred and furless. Silhouettes are as varied, with every line from the double breasted jacket to Schiaparelli's flared front basques. Furs on these suits are invariably flat, nutria being the favorite, with the seals following.

Two piece suits—that is, a frock with a jacket, cape, or some sort of wrap—are in high favor. These frocks are invariably "streamline" and, Miss Howard said, "need what used to be called a figure. However, the word figure has to be interpreted in the modern sense, and all is quiet on the Mae West-ern front."

Blouses, naturally, are important with these suits of separate skirt and jacket, and in these velvet is usurped with woolen, flannel, heavy chenille, and tricots taking its place in high collared overblouse types. All-day suits use lamé, crêpes, satins, and some of the more fragile materials for their blouses.

Day coats Miss Howard classified in two types—swagger coats, in longer lengths, of heavy woolens and bold plaids, and ulsters, smart with fur revers, separate scarfs, bibs, or removable fur collars. Many Paris houses, she added, consider blue furs classic now; green fur is the newcomer. In the coat furs fox is added to the flat furs; the shawl collar is the only type missing; and invariably fur collars on coats stand out and away from the face and throat.

A new costume adopted by Paris, but launched some season ago by Patou, is the "evening tailleur," or cocktail suit, that first appeared at the night races at Longchamps. Hats are worn with them, and the materials include such rich fabrics as lamé taffetas and failles.

Of evening gowns, the grander the gown the stiffer the material is the general rule, Miss Howard said. "There are few frills and furbelows left in the mode, but a few designers who use net and lace use these frills around the feet."

Velvet represents 30 per cent of the evening materials and there are a number of new types—changeable velvets that use a base of one color and a pile of another, Angora velvets, Patou's half inch ribbed velvet with a fringe like strips. There are few raised designs and few printed velvets.

Slit skirts, entirely uncovered arms, and less exposed back décolletages are points of the evening mode. Trains are still the pets of Paris designers but not of the women who purchase the gowns.

With these rich evening gowns are wraps as varied in line as the daytime silhouettes. Both the Persian and Russian tunics are seen, some Chinese coats, dolmans, and burnooses. White fox is the new evening fur favorite, rivaling ermine; ostrich is seen at only a few houses.

Variety is also evident in color in the daytime fashions and, though black will remain the Paris favorite, brown is used in surprisingly large variety, especially the darker shades with such colors as purple or yellow. The dark greens with faded casts, as olive; many purples as plum, prune, and amethyst; some orange, very little blue, and no yellow is the color chart. Beige is seen only in sports costumes and gray is a favorite, according to individual houses.

But though red is largely absent in the day modes, it is a high favorite in the evening colors that include many dark, rich shades reminiscent of precious museum fabrics. Following red is mahogany, purples with a brownish cast, many blues either as dark as navy or very, very pale. White is not seen now, but from reports of resort clothes it will return to high favor later in the season.

Tomorrow night Miss Howard will give a second lecture on accessories.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Pine crystals in the water before, a rough wash cloth used during, and a rub with pine spirits after the bath transform the weary woman into a glowing, beauteous creature. The Viennese beauty bath, in pine motif, is a rage of the day.

Would you like to snap your fingers and say "Tish" to all the people you know who went off to the woods this summer or are plotting to do it, while you keep the home fires burning? Then get acquainted with some perfectly divine pine bath trimmings and use them every single day.

They're Viennese, and they're super-elegant. As we've said before, the average pine scent gets in our hair; we sniff and sniff and it's still turpentine.

But these are something special.

The perfect pine bath with these lovely touches has three stages. The pine crystals come first, these to be tossed into the hot water that you run in first. The vapor will thrill you. Then comes enough cold water to make the bath just right. You don't want to court death and blue lips by having it too cold. Get just the temperature that lends itself to lolling. Soak and soak; blues disappear, and so any miscellaneous aches and pains you might have about. [Incidentally this pine bath is nothing to sneer at if you feel a cold coming on or if you're chilled at the end of a wet day]. When you've soaked to your heart's content you reach the second stage of the Viennese beauty bath. Here you get to work with a special washcloth, rough and tough and marvelous for arousing circulation. Until you've used one of these you'll never know what a joy it is.

Then the cold rinse, and as a last touch to your rejuvenation, a body rub with pine spirits. Your skin feels glorious and so do you. It's practically magic.

These three Viennese pine ideas should be kept under lock and key. Men steal them, even the most hemannish of 'em. You can buy all three, the pine crystals, the spirits, and the heavenly washcloth in a couple of shops around town.

BLAZING GUNS

By WILLIAM MacLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Landis inherited the Lazy B ranch from her uncle. It adjoins the Circle 3 T ranch, owned by Chet Radbourne, powerful boss in the county, who is Mary's legal guardian. He has been stealing Mary's cattle and trying to force her to marry him. To escape his tyranny Mary marries Cole Sanborn, fearless young outlaw and suspected train robber, within an hour after meeting him. There is bitter enmity between Cole and the Circle 3 T brand. The marriage is one in name only, giving them both better advantage to fight their common enemy. Jerry Haskell, Radbourne's foreman, brought Mary to the Jonesboro house, where she met Cole. Haskell had given Cole an hour to get out of town. Cole plans to find a home for Mary in the town while he goes to her ranch as foreman, expecting plenty of trouble to break. Mary writes a note to Mrs. Peters, whose husband is a leading citizen of the town. They both call to see her and agree to have her stay with them. Cole goes to the Haven of Rest to find Haskell and call his bluff, followed by his two men. Haskell reneges.

INSTALMENT X.
NEWLYWEDS PARTED.

The Circle 3 T warriors stirred uneasily. They waited for Haskell to give the word, and he did not give it.

"Big business you're in, all of you," Sanborn went on, his voice not raised but biting clear. "Helping that thief Radbourne steal the ranch and cattle from a girl who can't protect herself. Keep your hand away from that gun, Mex, or I'll drill you through. I'm talking, and you'll listen. Tell Chet for me he can't cut in. He's up against a man now, not a kid girl. From now on, as the husband of the owner, I'm running the Lazy B. I'll come up right soon and relieve him of his guardianship of my wife's property."

"If you don't go to the state penitentiary first," Haskell cut in.

The cold, hard gaze of Sanborn swept to the foreman. "Tell your slimy boss, Haskell, that my wife is the guest of Mrs. Peters by her own wish. That's where she is going to live. He's to lay off and not molest her. My orders."

"You talk like you was the Angel Gabriel," jeered Slim. "If I was running this shebang I'd call your bluff right now."

"The showdown's coming," Haskell said, hoarse with anger. "Things have changed since we came to town. It's up to the old man to decide what he wants done. I don't aim to take the play outa his hands. He'll call the turn on this scalawag. Don't worry."

"I'll not worry," Cole said cheerfully. "Come on, Pete—Dave, we'll be drifting." He looked round with cool effrontery. "Unless any one feels hostile and can't wait. Glad to accommodate any urgent gent." His cold, sardonic gaze ranged from one to another of the Circle 3 T men. "No taker? In that case I'll say 'Adios.'"

He turned his back and walked out of the room. It was a risk, but not too big a one. For his companions still faced the enemy. Another moment and the three friends stood together outside.

As they moved toward a hitchrack down the street Cole let out a yell. The three men found their horses and swung to their saddles.

"Wait here a minute," Cole said.

He rode back to the Jonesboro house. A slight figure ran down from the porch to meet him. He leaned down, caught Mary by the arms, and swung her to the saddle in front of him. From the door of the Haven of Rest he saw men pouring as seeds are squirted from a squeezed lemon. The stars were out, and he knew that what he did could be seen by any one watching.

"I'm on my way, girl," he said.

"Bet your life I won't."

He held her warm slight body in his arms and drew her close. When his lips met hers Mary felt herself sinking in waves of emotion. She did not know how long that clamor of the blood lasted. She felt herself being lowered gently to the ground.

Sanborn swung his horse as on a dime. The animal jumped to a gallop and pounded down the street.

The man she had married vanished in a cloud of dust.

The stars were over the flat tops when Bud Calloway reached the Circle 3 T with a message.

"Where's the boss at?" he asked of a puncher who lounged out of the stable to meet him.

"Up to the house. Where are the other boys?"

"Still in town."

Bud did not volunteer any further information. He swung from the saddle, hitched up his chaps, and bowlegged toward the house.

The ranch owner was in the bare little room which served him for an office. Radbourne sat in front of a desk, his heavy rounded shoulders hunched, his huge body slumped in the chair. As usual, he appeared to be doing nothing. When Bud came into the room he looked up, a question in his small black eyes. He knew there must be news. Otherwise Haskell would not have sent a messenger.

Bud did not waste words. "Cole Sanborn was in town when we got there on the porch at the Jonesboro house. Jerry had words with him. He gave Sanborn an hour to leave town, but he posted the boys to prevent a getaway."

Still Radbourne waited, silently. He knew the gist of what Calloway had to tell was still to come.

"He broke through and took her with him? That what you're trying to tell me?" Radbourne asked, a danger signal in the beady eyes.

"No, sir. Jerry has got him penned up. The point is that Miss Landis and Sanborn got married."

"They—what?"

"Sent for Reverent Calvin Brown and he up and married them."

The black eyes of the Circle 3 T boss were pinpoints of fury.

"What was Jerry doing—and the rest of you?"

"We didn't know a thing about it till afterward; then right off Jerry sent me here to tell you. He aims to bump Sanborn off soon as he shows his nose."

A dull color rose in Radbourne's pallid cheeks. "Numskulls and dolts! All of you! Not an ounce of brains anywhere in the lot. Why do I pay wages to such blundering fools?" He finished with venom-dripping oaths.

"Jerry thinks——"

"He never thought in his life. Or he would have known better than to leave the girl and Sanborn alone together. The fool will probably slip up now and let the ruffian get away."

"They're only five to one against him," jeered the fat man. "He can fight his way out, since you're not with the boys."

"I can hold my end up, Mr. Radbourne," the puncher protested mildly. "I don't aim to let Sanborn or any one else run on me."

"Meaning me?" asked the ranchman sulkily.

"No, sir, not meaning you a-tall. You're my boss. I expect to take orders from you. That's what I'm paid for." Calloway spoke hastily.

Radbourne showed his teeth in an evil grin. "Don't forget that," he advised gently.

At his gesture of dismissal Calloway departed. Little beads of perspiration stood on the puncher's forehead. It was not what Chet said but the way he said it that left a fellow's throat dry, Calloway thought. He had not done a thing to be blamed for. Not a thing. Yet it gave him a sick feeling to have those snake eyes fixed on him, always with a veiled threat in their glittering depths.

As Bud was leaving, Radbourne flung an order after him. "Send Jordan to me."

Chet's shapeless body slumped down in the chair. He sat there motionless, absorbed in thought, even the restless jaws clamped.

A man came into the room. "Calloway said you sent for me," he remarked in a voice peculiarly flat.

"Yep." Radbourne barked out the monosyllable and said no more. He stared at the inkstand, but that was not what he saw.

The newcomer slid into a chair and waited. He was in no hurry. Jordan was a man slightly below middle height, hard as nails, tightlipped, with a face leathery and seamed. He had the rippling muscles of an athlete. A manner of perpetual wariness rested on him.

BY MARY MEADE.

Years agone—longer than even our greats-greats can remember—a custard was an open pie. There was a crust, then meat or fruit, and over that was poured a mixture of broth or milk, plus eggs, sweetening, and seasoning.

Then some one took out the meat, the fruit, and the pastry, and fed what remained to an invalid. This started that whole funny idea that custards are only for sick folks. Which is all wrong. So if you've been tucking your custard cups away to be climbed after when some one develops the sniffles, reinstall them on one of the front pews and discover that there are custards for huskies as well as for invalids. A starter will be:

Buttermilk Custard.

½ cup molasses
1 cup fresh bread crumbs
¼ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ cup currants or raisins
2 cups buttermilk

Combine the slightly beaten eggs, molasses, bread crumbs, currants, and sifted soda, salt, and spices. Then stir in the buttermilk and pour into a shallow casserole. Bake in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) for one hour.

Thin cream may be substituted for the milk in a plain custard recipe. The result—baked custard, French style. Or substitute evaporated milk for two tablespoons or so of the milk in a baked custard. The pudding may then be served from a large mold and cut as clean as a whistle:

Baked Tapioca Custard.

2 cups milk, scalded
2 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
⅝ teaspoon vanilla
Sprinkling of grated nutmeg

Cook the tapioca with the milk in the top of a double boiler, stirring frequently until the tapioca is clear. Pour this over the eggs, which have been combined with the other ingredients, and mix well. Turn into a greased baking dish or individual cups. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until set.

Peanut Butter and Raisin Custard.

3 cups milk
1 cup bread crums
4 tablespoons peanut butter
2 tablespoons raisins
¼ teaspoon salt
3 eggs
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind

Scald the milk with the bread crums, peanut butter, and raisins, and beat until smooth. Then pour over the eggs, which have been combined with the other ingredients. Turn into a buttered baking dish, set in a pan of hot water, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until firm, about forty-five minutes.

Danish Custard.

3 eggs
¼ cup white sugar
Pinch of salt
2 cups scalded milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Sift the brown sugar and place it in the bottom of a baking dish. Then beat the eggs and add the white sugar, salt, milk, and vanilla. Pour the custard mixture into the baking dish and place it in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until the custard is firm. Chill. To serve, invert the custard onto a platter. The brown sugar will form a caramel sauce.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

Julius Cæsar was a famous Roman general, statesman, orator and writer. His accounts of the Gallic wars are widely read today. He was five times consul and four times dictator—but he was never emperor. If he had not been murdered by Brutus and his friends he probably would have become emperor. The empire of Rome was not founded till 27 B. C., and Julius Cæsar was assassinated in 44 B. C. For several centuries Rome had been a republic.

The Mae West Monkey Goes Astray Again

BY ROSALIND SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Junior, pet monkey belonging to Beverly West, sister of Mae, had the whole West household by the ears, not to mention all the occupants of the Ravenswood apartments, which include Ida Lupino and several other picture folks. Junior has had every attention since he with his mamma has been guest of Mae West. He has a hand monogrammed yellow sweater; he is given as much candy and other delicacies as are good for a simian tummy and has been petted and fêted considerably.

It seems, however, that a "dark and handsome," who lives on the seventh floor, discovered Junior's weakness for bananas and gave them to Junior on every opportunity. When Junior found a window open there was nothing to it. He simply swung out onto the fire escape and began to make tracks for a good banana handout. The West establishment went wild when Junior escaped. Finally Libby, faithful maid, was dispatched to round up the rascal.

Libby crawled out on the fire escape only to have Junior quickly swing a story higher. By this time the commotion had the entire clientele of the exclusive apartment house hanging out of the windows and making bets on Libby and Junior. He finally was tracked down and lured forth by more bananas. Meanwhile, "dark and handsome" has promised to give up giving Junior bananas and to come up and see him some time, bringing the bananas if he must.

Hubbard Woods, will be the setting tomorrow for the annual picnic of the Chicago Wellesley club and the North Shore Circle. Receiving with Mrs. MacLeish will be her daughter, Mrs. John Dern.

Arrange Parties for Miss Castle.

Because of the confusion of the Labor day holiday, and because so many Chicagoans are still out of town, there will be but few parties for Miss Helen Marie Castle and Charles Y. Freeman Jr. before their marriage next Wednesday, but there will be parties galore upon their return around Sept. 28 from their wedding trip.

Miss Betty Brawley, one of the bridesmaids, is starting the prenuptial entertaining tomorrow evening by taking the bridal party to the Joseph Urban room in the Congress for dancing after dinner. The wedding attendants include, beside Miss Brawley, Miss Nancy Traylor, Miss Lydia Swift, Miss Jean Hyman, Miss Clara Van Schaack of Denver, H. Dodge Freeman, who will serve his brother as best man; Philip B. Hosmer Jr., Goodwin Johnson, Nathan Swift, and George P. Braun.

Mr. Hosmer is giving a cocktail party Sunday afternoon, and that evening the bridegroom's mother, who is returning from her summer home at Biddeford Pool, Me., just in time, will give a supper at the Freeman home on Dearborn parkway. Miss Castle will give the spinster dinner Monday night in the apartment of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. McNally, and Mr. Freeman will give the bachelor dinner at the same time, probably at the Racquet club. Mr. and Mrs. McNally will give the bridal dinner at home Tuesday night and the wedding will take place at 4 o'clock in their apartment the next afternoon with a reception afterwards at the Fortnightly club.

Louise Heuer Guest of Stevens Family.

Miss Louise Heuer of Davenport, Ia., who will be married to John B. Stevens Sept. 29 is in Chicago visiting her fiancé and his family. This afternoon Mr. Stevens' mother, Mrs. Charles G. Stevens, and his sister, Miss Caroline Stevens, are giving a tea for Miss Heuer which will be followed by a family dinner.

Virginia and Margery Preston have decided on Sept. 18 as the date for the dinner dance at which their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Preston of Astor street, will present them to society. The party is to be held at the Saddle and Cycle club.

The season's debutante list is reduced by two with the news that neither Miss Geraldine Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Foster, nor Miss Ethel Husband, whose mother is Mrs. Joseph Husband, will make their bows here this winter. Instead of a whirl of parties Miss Foster has chosen the more serious study of art and music. She will enroll at the Art institute. Miss Foster will probably make a debut next year. It is uncertain whether Miss Husband, who is going back to a finishing school in the east, will make a formal debut in Chicago.

Caroline Bullard to Study in Athens.

A thrilling winter is in store for Miss Caroline Bullard, daughter of the Sellar Bullards of Highland Park, for she is sailing next week on the Rex for Athens, Greece, where she will spend the next nine months in an American school and wrestle with languages and architecture.

There was genuine surprise last night in the dinner party that Mr. and Mrs. Eric Walter Stubbs gave for Mrs. Stubbs' father, Maj. Edgar Bronson Tolman, on the occasion of his 75th birthday. Among those present at the dinner, which was held at Maj. Tolman's home at 5554 Woodlawn avenue, were Silas H. Strawn, Sidney S. Gorham, William H. Sexton, Henry P. Chandler, Francis X. Bush, and Judge Charles S. Cutting.

Mrs. Alan C. Dixon is leaving Chicago today for Santa Fe, N. M., where she will visit friends.

The Stage

The next melodrama to be revived on the showboat Dixiana, in the north branch of the Chicago river at Diversey parkway, will be "The Convict's Daughter" instead of "The Fatal Wedding," as announced last week. This play contains a character that figured in Mary Pickford's career as a juvenile actress in the late 1890s. She was then billed as Little Gladys Smith. The première of "The Convict's Daughter" will take place next Monday night.

The title of the play that will bring Charles [Chic] Sale to the Selwyn theater late in September has been changed from "The Elephant Hunter" to "Elephant on His Hands."

Gain 5 Lbs. In One Week or No Cost

Hosts of thin, pale, rundown folks—and even "Naturally Skinny" men and women—are amazed at this new easy way to put on healthy needed pounds quickly. Gains of 15 to 20 lbs. in one month—5 lbs in a week—are reported regularly.

Kelp-A-Malt, the new mineral concentrate from the sea gets right down to the cause of thin, underweight conditions and adds weight through a "3 ways in one" natural process.

First, its rich supply of easily assimilable minerals nourish the digestive glands which produce the juices that alone enable you to digest the fats and starches, the weight-making elements in your daily diet. Second, Kelp-A-Malt provides an amazingly effective digestive substance which actually digests 4 times its own weight of the flesh-building foods you eat. Third, Kelp-A-Malt's natural FOOD IODINE stimulates and nourishes the internal glands which control assimilation—the process of converting digested food into firm flesh, new strength and energy. Three Kelp-A-Malt tablets contain more iron and copper than a pound of spinach or 7½ lbs. of fresh tomatoes; more calcium than 6 eggs; more phosphorus than 1½ lbs. carrots; more FOOD IODINE than 1600 lbs. of beef.

Try Kelp-A-Malt for a single week and notice the difference—how much better you sleep, how ordinary stomach distress vanishes, how firm flesh appears in place of scrawny hollows and the new energy and strength it brings you! Prescribed and used by physicians. Kelp-A-Malt is fine for children, too—improves their appetites. Remember the name, Kelp-A-Malt, the original and genuine kelp and malt tablets. Nothing like them so don't accept substitutes. Try Kelp-A-Malt today, and if you don't gain at least 5 lbs. of good, firm flesh in 1 week the trial is free. Kelp-A-Malt costs only a few cents a day to use and can be had at all

The bidding having been one no trump, two no trumps, four no trumps, neither partner having a five card suit, let us set down what each partner knows about the other's hand, and what he still may be able to find out, and with what purpose.

Regarding Opening Bidder's Hand.

1. He has three aces.
2. He has not less than five primary tricks.
3. He has less than six primary tricks; his hand was not quite good enough for an opening bid of two no trumps. Consequently he cannot have a natural rebid in terms of primary tricks; at best he can have a spare jack or ten or something of the kind which may help in the play but cannot be rebid as a reserve, value for slam purposes.
4. He must have either 4-4-3-2 or 4-3-3-3 distribution.

Concerning Responding Partner's Hand.

1. He has two and a half primary tricks, for with less he is obliged to pass the four no trump invitation.
2. If he has three primary tricks they do not include an ace and a king-queen, otherwise he should have bid three no trumps over one no trump.

What He Would Like to Know Is.

1. Has the responding hand an ace?
2. Has he a 4-3-3-3 distribution?
3. Has he the right four card suit headed by tops?

It is clear that these three questions must be answered before we can know whether there is any kind of a play for grand slam; while for small slam it is advisable to know the answers to questions two and three in case a suit contract can be reached in which, with four trumps in each hand, the declarer will have additional playing resources which would not be available in no trumps. This may seem to be a remote possibility, but it should be explored, since we risk nothing by doing so.

There Is No Sign-Off After This Rebid.

Once the responder bids over four no trumps, there must be no signing off short of small slam. Even if it has to be played in no trumps, there will usually be a fine play for it, and it should be bid. This proviso permits both partners to get in some more bids without it costing anything, since now neither of them may pass short of slam. Through the information conveyed by these bids, and through the negative inferences to be drawn from the partner's refraining from making certain bids, the correct decision should be reached [a] whether to bid for grand slam, and in what declaration; [b] if that is out of the question, whether to contract for small slam in a suit or in no trumps. In other words: If the bidding goes one no trump, two no trumps, four no trumps, now any bid made by the responding hand is a forcing bid for a small slam. Neither partner may pass any less-than-slam declaration.

Is This Idea Revolutionary?

The Sims system differs from many others in bidding no trumps originally on holdings with which others advise bidding a suit so as to arrive at no trumps by way of one or more so-called "approach" bids. Yet most of these same t' rists, having arrived at a no trump game contract without bidding a suit, would never consider bidding suits in developing a slam beyond the three no trump bid. Nevertheless, that is the best method I have been able to devise up to the present time for discovering the full possibilities of the big hands of the type with which we are now concerned.

Etiquet Backs Boys' Aversion to Public Kiss

BY DORIS BLAKE.

There's some quirk in the feminine makeup that just shrieks for public display of masculine affection. Is it vanity? Anyway, I hear far too much wailing about the deficiences of escorts in this respect.

You girls admit that at home or in a secluded corner the lads come up to expectation in their love making, in their protestations of love, but get them out on a party, or in a group, you fuss and they are as cold as Eskimos and as demonstrative as statues. What is there to take down the hair and weep about? I see nothing wrong with that mode of conduct.

In the first place, you'll have to learn that most men object violently to any public display of emotion. The etiquet books will back them up on that score. Well bred people just don't do their billing and cooing on the middle of a dance floor.

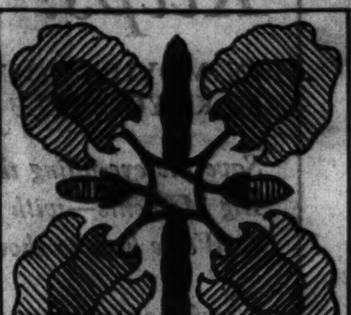
It makes a man feel terribly foolish to have a woman hanging on his neck while he's with friends. He'd just as soon be caught knitting. And it would be a whole lot worse, according to the masculine standard, to be doing any of the neck hanging himself under the curious and sometimes supercilious gaze of his fellow brothers. He lays himself open to too much jibing and fun poking.

To ward off such attacks, to prove that he's still not tied to any one's apron strings, a man will often accord his girl less than a normal amount of attention. This is frequently the case if he has already come in for considerable teasing about a certain young maid. Sometimes he contents himself with being the life of the party, devoting time and interests to seeing that every one except his girl has a good time. Some men are just born to play such rôles, but often they adopt that master of ceremonies attitude just for protection.

In many other cases the men adopt teasing attitudes toward the girls in an effort to prove they hold them in no great awe. They feel that it creates quite a hit with their brothers to belittle feminine charms.

So now that you know what makes the wheels go around, why fuss any more?

Quilt Pattern Is One Appealing to Sense of Artistic



Sweet Peas.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is a quilt block that creates an immediate desire to express one's artistic sense in a beautiful color arrangement. Considering the many lovely colors of the flower, it is possible to have each block different, or to alternate the blocks with three shades of one color. No matter what the color scheme, "Sweet Peas" make one of the most striking quilts known.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress.

If you don't believe Lavena is a miracle facial, then make this simple test. First cleanse your face with soap. Then cleanse it again with cold cream. Then moisten the palms of your hands, blend Lavena to a creamy lotion. Put it on. Wash it off. If your skin doesn't feel softer, more glowing, if it doesn't look cleaner, clearer, than soap or cold cream left it, we'll gladly give your money back.

Competition Often Warps School Sports

Many Children Harmed by Team Play.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

What should be our ideal of athletics in the higher schools? Should our greatest efforts and most of our athletic appropriation be pointed toward the development of a team that will beat the team of another school? Should most school athletics be competitive as between schools or should the greater portion of this work be planned with the aim of the all around physical development of all the students?

This nurturing of the special talents of those few who are "team" material to the neglect or disadvantage of the majority of the students has reached a stage where it is well for us to consider whither we are tending. It may be fine—and fun—for the fortunate few who represent the nucleus of the team, but it distorts its importance and leaves the bulk of the students either without proper athletic training or without proper respect for what they are getting.

Competition plays such a terrific part in adult life that we may well question the advisability of subjecting young men to the great strain of interscholastic sports.

"How's your new athletic teacher?" a mother asked her young first-year high son.

"O, I guess he's all right. You know Mr. B—— used to let us use the apparatus most of the gym period. But with this new guy, when we work on the apparatus he yells at us, 'How do you think you're going to beat another team by spending all your time climbing over bars and up ropes?'"

Competition is a natural expression of many boys, and that is as it should be. To others, it isn't—and that is as it should be, too. To give to each type the kind of physical education it needs without lauding one or the other and without undue emphasis on either is a good goal.

I know one young man who left college because his hands were too small adequately to hold a football. His sense of differentness was too much for him. I know another young boy who was at the "string bean" stage for years and couldn't develop any muscle. He suffered tortures because he didn't have the stamina and the skill to play on a team.

Undue emphasis on interscholastic sports is very unfortunate.

Doran Tells of Campaign to Stop Illicit Rum.

Public sentiment has turned against the bootlegger, and the purveyor of illicit spirits, who was welcomed by tipplers before repeal, is now disliked by the same persons, in the opinion of Dr. James M. Doran, former prohibition head, who now is supervisor of the Distillers' institute.

Dr. Doran voiced his opinion between sessions yesterday at an educational meeting of distilled spirits rectifiers of seven midwestern states in the Stevens hotel. The meeting was called to acquaint the rectifiers with the regulations governing their business, and was attended by over 100 from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Missouri.

Bootlegging Still Extensive.

"The bootlegging problem is still a big one," said Dr. Doran, "as much liquor on which no tax has been paid is finding its way into circulation through racket organizations to the shelves of liquor stores. This bootleg liquor is beautifully packaged, sealed with fake labels and stamps, and looks genuine.

"The public is helpless because it has no way of protecting itself from these racketeers whose products are sold at only a few cents below the prices for genuine liquor. But the bootlegger has ceased to be a pitied person, for the public has taken up the fight to protect itself against fraud and is aiding the government in its campaign against the illicit liquor trafic."

The rectifiers also expressed concern about the bootleggers who are cutting into their business. Ammon McClellan of Washington, executive secretary of group 3, rectifiers code authority, asked the rectifiers to turn in any tips they might have on bootleggers for action by government units.

Plan Drastic Drive to Stop Flow.

"We do not intend," McClellan said, "that this practice should develop into a permanent spy system, but we are prepared to take drastic steps to abolish the illicit liquor trafic for the protection of the public, for the good of the government, which loses in taxes, and for the establishment of the rectifying industry on a solid and honest basis."

While the code regulations were read to the rectifiers, they offered questions seeking to clarify the rules, being spurred on by a warning from Fred A. Caskey of Washington, general counsel for the rectifiers' code authority.

"This meeting was designed," Caskey said, "to stop any rectifier from pleading ignorance of the laws or regulations as an excuse for mistakes or illicit trafic. There are to be no more mistakes or errors, and each departure from the rules or regulations in the violation thereof will be prosecuted."

$2,000,000 IN 1931 TAX COLLECTIONS TO GO OUT TODAY

County Treasurer Nash will distribute approximately $2,000,000 in 1931 tax collections today to the city, sanitary district, forest preserve, schools, and the south parks. The money had been withheld by the treasurer's office to cover protests made by a group of taxpayers against the 1931 tax rates. Distribution was made possible when County Judge Jarecki last week upheld only about $700,000 involved in the protests.

Yesterday the treasurer's office distributed $375,500 in 1932 tax collections. The city received the largest share, which was $250,000.

CLERK VANISHES WITH $236 FROM RELIEF STATION

The police were asked last night to search for Benjamin Fox, 22 years old, a clerk in the relief station at 7 West Harrison street, who disappeared after he had been sent to purchase $200 worth of railroad tickets for relief clients. When he failed to return to his lodging house at 563 West Randolph street investigation disclosed he had purchased the tickets. Further inquiry showed that he had failed to deliver $36 in currency to the Travelers' Aid society, as he had been instructed to do.

MINNESOTA DENTIST FOUND CLUBBED TO DEATH AND ROBBED

Fergus Falls, Minn., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—The body of Dr. John Schacht, 55, moderately wealthy local dentist, who was reported kidnaped last night, was found today concealed on a bank of the Otter Tail river near here.

He had been clubbed to death, presumably by robbers. His pockets were emptied of the collections he was making from patients when last seen by townsfolk about 8:30 p. m. yesterday. However, two diamond rings remained on his fingers.

Police announced that two Fergus Falls men, Robert Palmquist, 28, and Palmer Swenson, 19, were being sought in connection with the slaying. Melvin C. Passolt, chief of the state crime bureau, said the men were seen in the company of the dentist shortly before his disappearance.

Friends of Dr. Schacht said he picked up one of the men in his car as he was making his collections and later encountered the second man.

Civil Courts to Try All Ordinary Cases.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Sept. 5.—Apparently anxious to comply with the promises made to the oppositionists in public declarations yesterday, President Carlos Mendieta today hurriedly summoned the cabinet and state council for extraordinary meetings.

The council, acting in lieu of the deposed congress, tonight modified the constitution by a decree which drastically curtails military encroachment on civil power.

Under this decree "the ordinary jurisdiction (civil) will investigate and handle and try all civil and criminal cases where civilians are involved."

Further, "the military jurisdiction shall only handle cases committed by military men when affecting the military service. When military men and civilians are involved in the same case military jurisdiction shall try the former and ordinary civil courts the latter. Whenever the plaintif is a civilian the case shall be tried by civil courts."

The decree thus reduces interferences by Col. Fulgencio Batista, army chief of staf, in civil affairs, and also eliminates further use of ex-President Machado's tactics by those who, it is claimed, have used the army to eradicate political oppositionists.

Mendieta's cabinet will sanction the amendment to the constitution and it will be effective tomorrow, Carlos de la Torre, chairman of the council, said.

Mendieta also promised to appoint "purifying" committees of revolutionary employés of each governmental department to inspect the pay rolls and point out any existing proof that Machadistas are listed there. Any Machadistas will be dismissed.

"Although the cabinet crisis is temporarily solved, I shall make changes to keep my promise to the nation to govern with a cabinet of rank."

This means that the cabinet shall be composed of the finest and ablest men available. It is expected to result in the appointment of several leaders of opposition parties to cabinet posts.

BANK BANDITS TAKE $100,000, KIDNAP THREE

Two Men and Woman Set Free After Holdup.

Lake City, S. C., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Kidnaping the bank's president, his wife, and the cashier, three armed men robbed the Palmetto bank of Lake City of approximately $100,000 in cash today and escaped in an automobile.

The hostages later were released unharmed. To prevent an alarm the bandits also bound the bank president's two children to their beds.

J. H. Carter, bank president, was preparing to go to his office this morning when the three invaded his home and ordered him and his wife to accompany them to the bank. The gang leader told Carter he was to open the vault when the time lock permitted.

Bandits Empty Vault.

At the bank the raiders found that Fred Stalvey, cashier, had arrived ahead of time and opened the vault.

Cleaning out the vault, the bandits returned to their car, forcing Stalvey and the Carters to accompany them. Mrs. Carter was put out of the machine a short distance from the bank, but the robbers compelled Carter and Stalvey to remain in the car. They were released thirty miles from town.

Gang Takes $20,000.

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Six machine gun bandits held up the North Bergen Trust company in North Bergen, N. J., today and escaped with $20,000 in cash, using the cashier's coat for a money bag. Their equipment and skill resembled that shown in the $427,000 holdup of an armored car in Brooklyn two weeks ago.

A presentable young man, who, under the name of Jack Gruber, had opened an account Aug. 24, entered shortly after the bank opened for business today. He stopped to talk with Walter Williams, bookkeeper, and a moment later the cashier, Herman H. Dieckmann, joined them.

Three Stay in Car.

Then a sedan drew up to the curb and two young men briskly entered the bank. Gruber whipped out a pistol and the other two revealed a sub-machine gun and a sawed off shotgun. Three others remained in the car.

The cashier was forced to lead the way on a tour of the tellers' cages. The bandits scooped up all the cash in sight and stuffed it into a black bag they had brought along. The bag burst and they threw it aside and forced the cashier to take off his coat, tied the sleeves, and used that as a money container.

ROSS RISKS TITLE AGAINST M'LARNIN TONIGHT

Vote Now! Poll to Close Sept. 17.

BY ARCH WARD.

Wrestling fans of Chicago and the middle west are going to name the judges who will officiate at the Londos-Lewis match for the heavyweight championship at Wrigley field the night of Sept. 20.

Since boxing and wrestling were legalized in Illinois in 1926 it has been the practice in mat bouts to have only one official, a referee. The Londos-Lewis match, however, is an extraordinary presentation. And extraordinary measures will be taken to insure a fair deal to the contestants and to the spectators.

If either Londos, the champion, or Lewis, the challenger, wins a fall, the match will be over. There will be a time limit of 90 minutes in case neither succeeds in throwing his opponent. At the end of that period a decision will be rendered by the referee and two judges.

Referee to Be Appointed.

The referee will be appointed by the Illinois athtletic commission, under whose supervision the match will be conducted. The judges, however, will be picked by the fans. The suggestion was made by this department of THE TRIBUNE, which is sponsoring the show for charity, and has been approved by the state commisison.

The first qualification to consider in submitting your votes must be honesty. Any candidate whose integrity can be questioned will go nowhere in this contest. The second qualification is competency. Obviously a judge must have some knowledge of wrestling before he can rule on the winner of a world's title bout.

There are no other restrictions. A candidate may be a lawyer, doctor, baker, broker, an athletic coach or what have you. He may live in Chicago or Mudville, Ark. All you have to do is write the name of two candidates on a slip of paper and mail at once to Wrestling Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The contest closes at midnight Sept. 17.

Two Will Be Picked.

The six leaders will be submitted to the Illinois athletic commission as the fans' choices for this important assignment. From this group the commission will pick two who will be acceptable both to Londos and to Lewis.

This is the first time the fans have been invited to have a part in the conduct of a wrestling match. Until THE TRIBUNE extended the invitation a year ago never had baseball followers had an opportunity to express their opinions on the standout players of the major leagues. And until a few weeks ago it was thought ridiculous to ask the public to pick an all-star football team and an all-star coach. In both instances the fans showed more intelligence than many so-called sports experts. There is no reason why the wrestling contest will not fare as well.

Get Busy at Once.

So get busy today. The match is two weeks from tonight and the polls for judges close three days earlier. There is no time to lose. THE TRIBUNE believes it is presenting the best attraction there is in wrestling. We feel it will be an honest match, otherwise we would have no part in it. You can help us keep it so by choosing your own officials.

All members of the all-star cast except one are on the ground training for the big show. Both Lewis and Londos have opened their camps. King Levinsky, who meets Art Sykes in the windup of the boxing end of the program, is working out daily at Trafton's. Sykes is training at Round Lake, Ill. Both Leo Rodak and Everett Rightmire, who will battle ten rounds at 128 pounds, are getting in shape in Chicago. So are Young Stuhley and Solly Dukelsky, who meet in the eight round opener.

Profits of the show will go to charity.

THE GUMPS—OUCH!

In the WAKE of the NEWS

ROSS AND M'LARNIN.

When Champion Barney Ross met Jimmy McLarnin three months ago in the 15 round bout which transferred the welterweight crown to Ross, local friends were genuinely apprehensive of the result, whether admitting it or not. They feared Barney might be giving away too much weight to an admittedly dangerous antagonist.

Ross justified confidence of his managers by obtaining the decision of one judge and the referee, while another judge gave McLarnin the advantage. In the opinion of most newspaper critics, the Chicagoan won by a comfortable margin.

Two factors contributed to Ross' victory. Low blows by McLarnin in five rounds influenced the tallying, those rounds going to Ross by New York rule whether or not the low blows cause injury. The other factor was Ross' rallies. When it seemed as if McLarnin might be taking a round Ross launched an impetuous attack and the bell found him sending flurries of gloves to his opponent.

So Ross won, but by no means completely outclassed his rival. Now for this return engagement tonight Ross is topheavy favorite. The Wake expects him to win, but we may all be just a trifle too confident. He has more experience and more confidence. McLarnin, on the other hand, does not have to make 145 pounds this time, which was said to have bothered him before. Again, he may keep his blows above the belt line and escape losing any rounds by fouls.

Conservative judgment would seem to be that Ross has no greater chance of winning than before except that he still is on the upgrade while McLarnin possibly has passed his peak. This estimate does not take into consideration the "hunches"—that a champion has not successfully defended his title in the Long Island City bowl, and that a welterweight title holder has not retained the crown in a title bout for several years.

Helping a Friend.

Before the All Star-Bears contest we received a letter from Helper Stanley Lambert, manager of the Shore theater, predicting the outcome. He wished it recorded because of his successful record of previous forecasts which afterward his friends denied having heard him make.

Two years ago Friend Lambert picked the Yanks to win four straight. Last year he gave the Sox four of five from the Cubs, and the Sox took four straight. He liked Cavalcade to win the Kentucky Derby. He fancied New York for the National pennant and Detroit for the American. Well, the football contest is now over, but, just to keep his record intact, we now publish his prediction. It was: Bears, 20; College All-Stars, 0.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 5.—Even the most ardent and optimistic Cub fans and the least understanding Cub players today were obliged to come to the conclusion that the Giants probably will nose out the Chicagoans in the so-called race for the 1934 National league pennant. The thing that really discouraged the faithful was today's game in which the champions, playing like champions, defeated the Cubs, playing like also rans, by a score of 5 to 1.

And so the Cubs dropped eight games back of the New Yorkers, who now have to protect their laurels in only 23 more games. To make matters worse, the Cardinals won, thus shoving the Cubs into third place.

The Giants' five runs gave them a total of one more than they made in all four games they played in Chicago last week. They made seven hits off Guy Bush, and one, a homer by Joe Moore, off Bud Tinning. If they make six hits tomorrow they will equal the grand total of their Chicago series.

Revenge for Schumacher.

Hal Schumacher, who lost a 1 to 0 decision in Chicago a week ago Monday, got even by holding the Cubs to six hits in administering today's spanking for his twenty-first victory of the year. The outcome also gave him an edge in his season affairs with the Cubs, he having now won three while losing two.

Four of the Cubs' six hits came in the first three innings, and half of them were made by Kiki Cuyler. The Cubs produced their run in the second inning on George Stainback's triple and Charley Grimm's single. Bill Jurges made a single in the fifth and Augie Galan made one in the ninth.

Klein Robbed of Triple.

A magnificent catch by Leiber robbed the Cubs of at least one run in the first inning. With two down Cuyler knocked a single to center. Then Klein shot an enormous drive toward the triple corner in far away right center, but Leiber, after a great run, leaped into space and grabbed the ball with one hand.

After the Giants had been retired in order in their opening inning, Stainback launched the Cubs second inning with a triple off the left field wall. Hartnett fanned. Then Grimm singled to center, scoring Stainback. Jurges flied to Moore and Vergez threw out Bush.

Double Plays Stop Cubs.

The Cubs got runners on base in the third, fourth and fifth innings, but none went as far as second base.

A Layman Looks at Rainbow and Loses Lot of His Illusions

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bristol, R. I., Sept. 5.—A couple of boats about forty yards long with enough canvas crowded on them to construct several circus tents are going to race off Newport next week for a bunged-up silver cup and this section of the country is all steamed up about the affair.

The reference of course, is to the America's cup races between the Rainbow, commanded by Harold S Vanderbilt, and the Endeavour, the British challenger, whose skipper is T. O. M. Sopwith, an Englishman who is elected to take up where the late Sir Thomas Lipton left off.

Maybe the East Knows, but——

The eastern papers have been carrying long stories about the coming races and the eastern public is apparently a very yacht conscious public because the stories are crowded with references to spinnakers and jibs'ls and mainstays. It must be confessed that these are just so many words to this correspondent.

When the papers recorded that the Rainbow broke out a quadrilateral jib with two clews and two sets of jib sheets, it meant about as much to this writer as "busted a screaming triple to left" might mean to the average non-American and lurking suspicion persists that the New York subway riders didn't know much more about it, either. However, this may be just a middle western inferiority complex. Maybe the boys from Brooklyn and the Bronx just nodded their heads wisely over that quadrilateral jib.

How to Get Aboard.

In any event, this reporter has inspected the Rainbow with the eyes of one who never saw an international racing yacht before and this article is an attempt to set down some of the surprising impressions received.

Getting aboard the yacht was something of a feat in itself. In the shipyards here, where the sloop [that's a yacht about 126 feet long, the Rainbow length] is undergoing the finishing touches preparatory to the races which begin Sept. 15, there were as many guards as pickets at a textile strike.

Each one of these guards apparently entertained the suspicion that sinister interests planned some dirty work against the Rainbow. Dark looks were cast at the would-be intruder. But at length the professional captain of the Rainbow's crew, George H. Monsell, was persuaded that all was well, and the reporter was admitted to a launch which chugged out into the harbor.

What! That Little Boat?

The Rainbow cost a syndicate of New York men, headed by Mr. Vanderbilt, more than $500,000 to build, and the reporter had his eye fixed on a gleaming white floating palace several hundred yards offshore when the launch stopped near what looked like a large sized rowboat with a tall mast, and the captain remarked, "Jump aboard."

The experts who know all about spinnakers might recognize an America's cup yacht if she crept incognito into Belmont harbor at Chicago, but it is a fairly safe bet that the general public would pass it over in favor of something bigger and more ornate, named the Hopulikit or the Susie T.

Of course this original impression was gained while the Rainbow was stripped of its sails and later glimpse with thousands of yards of canvas aloft made the yacht a beautiful sight. Nevertheless, the Rainbow and also the Endeavour, which is two feet

Keester Rides Five Winning Mounts in Row

BY FRENCH LANE.

Old Seth's Ballot couldn't move his ancient legs fast enough in the last race at Lincoln Fields yesterday so Jocky Paul Keester, sensational young rider from Bellville, Ky., narrowly missed having his name written into the turf hall of fame.

Starting with a victory in the second race Keester rolled on and on until he had ridden five straight winners. His mount in the last was Seth's Ballot, 8 years old, but the favorite and a noted heavy track performer. The Lincoln Fields track was plenty heavy when this struggle was run. Seth's Ballot did fairly well in the early stages. At the turn out of the back stretch he looked like he might be going to drive on with one of his old time stretch rallies, then faltered. Horse after horse passed him. The crowd gasped. Seth's Ballot wound up fourth, beaten by Switch, Cold Steel, and Anita Ormont.

His Second Big Day in Week.

It was the second time within a week Keester has galloped home in one afternoon on five winners, but this was the first time he had hustled five past the finish line in a row.

The world record for an afternoon of riding was established by J. Sylvester at the Ravenna park half mile track in Ohio on Oct. 18, 1930. He rode seven out of eight winners. The longest string of consecutive victories [not on the same day] was hung up by Albert Adams at Marlboro half mile track in Maryland in September of 1930. He rode nine horses to victory before losing a race.

Keester was out of the money in the first race in which he tried to make Softly Come win. Jocky Haas won that struggle on the stoutly backed Playmore.

First Victory on Sherron.

His first winning effort came in the second race, when he was aboard Sherron, a son of Bunting-Queen Errant. Sherron never before had won a race and was outrun in the early stages of this one. Under Keester's riding he got into a running mood in the stretch and was up to win handily from Wanderloo and Small Play. They had been fighting for the lead all through the early stages.

Big Weight Edge with Challenger.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 5.—With prospects of collecting 40 per cent of a $200,000 pot, Barney Ross could well afford to smile and enjoy life today as he waited for his 15 round return fight with Jimmy McLarnin tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden's Long Island bowl. Ross will defend the welterweight championship he took from McLarnin in the same arena three months ago.

Ross apparently has no nerves. As the bout, in which many so-called experts predict he will be knocked out for the first time in his career, approaches the Chicago boy merely talks of baseball, football, and any other topic except the impending fight.

It may be that Ross doesn't need or want the 147 pound title. Certainly for a fighter who can scale 138 or 139 pounds, as he will for McLarnin without effort, the welterweight championship is only a business proposition. But Barney also has a high regard for his record, and having beaten McLarnin once, he sees no reason why he shouldn't whip him again.

Sale Passes $100,000.

But regardless of Ross' attitude toward his second major championship, 40 per cent of $200,000 isn't to be laughed off. The ticket sales today passed the $100,000 mark, according to Mike Jacobs, who has been dealing 'em off the counter for all the important fights since the pre-Rickard era. The price of tickets ranges from $2 to $10 with taxes added. If the gross reaches $200,000, the bout will break one of the axioms of the business that a re-match never equals the original offering.

Last May the Irish-Jew angle, plus prospect of a spirited encounter, drew a gross of $193,000, with a net of $168,000. For that scrap McLarnin received the 40 per cent, which amounted to approximately $55,000, the sum which Barney hopes to get tomorrow night. McLarnin will deal himself the short end of 25 per cent.

Now, what about the result of this fight in which the betting fraternity tonight had made Ross a 6 to 5 favorite?

It is impossible to overlook the fact that McLarnin is a welterweight and Ross a lightweight, the ruler of the 135 pound division. In the first bout an agreement between Pop Foster, McLarnin's manager, and Sam Pian, acting for Ross, McLarnin was forced to weigh no more than 145 pounds or forfeit $10,000. Tomorrow night McLarnin can make any weight up to 147 pounds and has no worries about forfeits.

More Fame If Ross Wins.

If Ross can whip McLarnin at his normal weight, it undoubtedly will make him the outstanding boxer of all time, a fighter to whom future generations of pugilists will look as they now look to Benny Leonard. Incidentally, Leonard, retired undefeated lightweight champion, who lost to McLarnin in his comeback effort, picks Ross as the winner. But Leonard, considering the race angle, couldn't be expected to pick an Irishman.

McLarnin's record in comeback matches is a point in his favor. He never has lost two fights consecutively. Fighters may tie up Jimmy the first time, but he knows the solution when they cross gloves again.

Last time Ross and McLarnin met Jimmy had not fought for a year. Tomorrow night McLarnin is expected to be sharper than ever since he has had a 15 round tuneup match.

Ross Faster in Every Way.

But Ross has considerable rebuttal. He is faster in every way than McLarnin. He has faster footwork, faster hands, and consequently a faster working mind. Or, perhaps his mind should be mentioned first. In short, his reactions are quicker. This perception and action kept him clear of McLarnin's right hand three months ago. It is believed it will do the same tomorrow night while McLarnin is shooting for a finishing blow rather than a decision.

But, if McLarnin should land with his right, Ross still has a gamble that he'll take it and get up. Ross is younger, not so much in years as in service. And in this boxing business youth gets the payoff.

Barney still has the flare for fighting. He gets a thrill out of the game. McLarnin, a veteran, can't have the same keen pleasure, for, after all, under Pop Foster's tutelage he has come to regard the boxing ring as only a means to wealth. He has achieved that, Barney hasn't and the desire for financial security, plus a natural aptitude for the sport, weighs in Barney's favor.

Even Battle Looms.

Balance these details and the championship battle figures to be as nearly even as any encounter can be. Ross is a confident, clever, game kid, who moves with the grace of a dancer, who can hit with power if not with a knockout punch.

If our hunch on this fight is worth anything, we believe that Ross will fight a more open bout. He desires an undisputed verdict. This may lead him into trouble, but regardless, it will be a fight, and that's why 40,000 New Yorkers will gather tomorrow night in the Long Island bowl.

TWO HOME RUNS HELP DIZZY DEAN BEAT DODGERS, 2-1

Victory Gives Cardinals Sole 2d Place Claim.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Two timely home runs hit by Jim Collins and Bill Delancey enabled Jerome [Dizzy] Dean to register his 24th pitching victory of the season today as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 2 to 1, in the opening contest of a four game series. The victory gave the Cards undisputed possession of second place, seven games back of the league leading Giants.

Collins hit his homer in the seventh to tie the score and also to tie Mel Ott for the National league leadership with 32 homers. Delancey came through in the ninth to break the deadlock.

Nipignon River Draws Anglers of Many Nations

BY BOB BECKER.

The Nipigon river, considered by many trout fishermen as the greatest stream of all for brook trout, still is a magnet for anglers from all over the world. This fact was evident when we paid a hurried visit to the river last week after we had camped and fished around St. Ignace Island on the north shore of Lake Superior.

When we were on the Nipigon there was one party from England fishing the river, a Scotchman from Toronto, another party from Indiana, two groups of anglers from Chicagoland and three women from Detroit. They come from all corners of the world to throw lures in the hope that they can land a whopping big trout.

And the amazing thing about this river is that the brook trout, a fish that is rated high in intelligence and craftiness, will fall for the most extraordinary and ridiculous lures thus making it possible for an inexperienced fisherman to land four and five pounders.

The fact that the brook trout in the Nipigon [we mean the big ones] will change their mind about lures so quickly may be the reason why there is such a lure in fishing that stream. On the other hand the fly fisherman finds it rather annoying some days to know that after a day of presenting a variety of fly rod lures to the trout with only fair luck, another party camping just a few feet from him went out at 10 o'clock at night and caught two five pounders in less than 20 minutes on a muskalunge lure that slithers over the surface of the water.

We had just a day and a half on the Nipigon following our trip to St. Ignace Island. Although we had visited the Nipigon ten years ago and had seen the stream from Virgin falls down to the town of Nipigon, we couldn't resist the opportunity to make another visit even if it had to be a short one.

When we were in camp at the lower end of Pine portage listening to the roar of the white water rumbling over the falls, and watching a school of big trout rising to the surface about sundown, it was not difficult to analyze the lure of the Nipigon. It's what the fisherman calls "big stuff." Big water, water that gives you a thrill; big trout that may do anything [or nothing] when a lure is tossed at them.

Tigers Defeat A's, 4-2; Rowe Hurls Victory

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe, star of the Tigers' pitching staf, got revenge today. Facing Johnny Marcum and the Philadelphia Athletics, who snapped his consecutive winning streak at 16 games last week, the sensational schoolboy promptly snuffed out Marcum's winning streak at seven games by hurling the American league leaders to a 4 to 2 victory for his 21st triumph of the season.

Rowe, making his first start since being beaten by the A's, was none too impressive but was given excellent support in the field by his teammates. The Athletics pounded Rowe for 11 hits, two of them doubles, and had men on the bases in every inning with the exception of the first and sixth.

The Tigers made only seven safeties off Marcum, but bunched four of them with a sacrifice to score all of their runs in the fourth inning. The victory increased the Tigers' lead to six full games over the Yankees, who were not scheduled to play. Score:

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

JOE VANCE, a pitcher whom the White Sox recently purchased from Dallas, has been named on the Texas league all-star team, picked annually by sports writers. . . . He was chosen a utility man because he can play the outfield and infield as well as pitch. . . . He is reported to be even faster afoot than Evar Swanson, Sox outfielder, who can outleg most of the boys in the majors. . . . Al Simmons says that he believes the American league ball has been deadened the last few weeks, despite official denials. . . . "You can tell by the sound when you hit it that the ball has been changed," Al explains. . . . The Cincinnati Reds are said to be interested in the baseball talent of Lee Handley, Bradley Tech's all-around athlete. . . . Half of the candidates listed on the Illinois football roster are sophomores. . . .

Lance Richbourg, former National leaguer who now manages the Nashville club, is a Sunday school teacher. . . . When on the road he visits other Sunday schools and usually gives a talk. . . . Professional teams probably will look soft to the Bears after their experience with the College All-Stars. . . . Heinie Meine, Pittsburgh pitcher, and his brother operate a hotel outside the city limits of St. Louis. . . . Tommy Thevenow of the Pirates is 31 years old today. . . . Pat Malone and Bob O'Farrell of the Cubs got their battery experience on the Peoria club of the Three Eye league about the same time Charley Dressen, manager of the Reds, was playing third base for the team. . . . Tony Lazzeri and Ossie Bluege also played with the Peoria club. . . . Dazzy Vance has played with fifteen professional ball clubs. . . . His travels carried him into both major leagues and into all three double A groups. . . .

A new corporation has bought land in San Clemente, midway between Los Angeles and San Diego, and plans to build a Monte Carlo with a race track on the side. . . . The St. George High school eleven of Evanston has been practicing for two weeks on the campus at St. Viator college. . . . Pete Kawal, brother of Ed of the Bears and Al of Northwestern, was considered a fine freshman line prospect at Illinois seven years ago until it was discovered that he had entered the university on somebody else's diploma. . . . Burros used in donkey baseball, which has become popular in the semipro circles, are trained to do particular tricks. . . . If a game becomes boresome an animal that kicks up a lot of trouble is sent in. . . . If a team needs only one run, a donkey that can step around the bases is inserted. . . . Others are trained to scoot within a foot or two of first base and then stop. . . .

Only three members of the Stanford team that won the Pacific Coast conference football title last fall will be missing from this year's squad. . . . They are Bill Corbus, Bob O'Connor, and Al Norgard. . . . Milt Bocek has played in six different leagues this summer. . . . He started with the White Sox, was optioned to Sacramento, and then transferred to Dallas. . . . The latter club sent him to Longview, Tex., which returned him to the Sox. . . . Then he was shipped to Columbus, which in turn placed him with Elmira, N. Y. . . . Mike Malashevich, Michigan junior, is sympathetic toward headline writers. . . . He has had his name changed legally to Mike Savage. . . . Irving K. Pond of Chicago was a member of Michigan's first football team in 1879. . . . The Wolverines played two games that year, a scoreless tie with Toronto and a 1 to 0 win over Racine college. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Wild Bill Mehlhorn won the Western open golf championship with a score of 293. . . . More than 45,000 witnessed the third annual police track and field meet at Soldiers' field. . . . Boxing writers picked Harry Wills to beat Luis Firpo in their bout at Boyles Thirty Acres. . . . Charley Paddock equaled the 100 yard dash and 220 yard run records in the National A. A. U. track and field meet at West Orange, N. J. . . . Babe Ruth recorded his 43d home run of the season against Heimach of the Athletics. . . . Pricemaker won the opening day feature race at the Aurora race track.

PEARCE KEEPS WORLD SCULLING CHAMPIONSHIP

TORONTO, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Bobby Pearce of Hamilton, Ont., successfully defended his world's professional sculling championship today by defeating Bill Miller, Philadelphia challenger, in their three mile title duel on Lake Ontario.

Pearce, who won the title a year ago from Ted Phelps of England and whipped Ted's brother, Eric, to qualify for today's final, completely outclassed the challenger. Rowing easily, Pearce built up a lead of three lengths on the first mile lap, increased it to seven lengths by a spurt at the end of the second mile and finished going away from his rapidly tiring rival.

Pearce covered the three mile route in 19 minutes 52.2 seconds to win by fifteen lengths.

Layman Looks at America's Cup Defender

Some questions developed how half a million dollars had been spent on the boat. Its hull, below the water line, is plated with bronze. Above the water line the hull is of high tension steel. The mast, which towers 165 feet in the air, is of duraluminum, and if you want to realize how particular yacht designers are you may consider the fact that the duraluminum shell of the mast is 340-1,000 inch thick at the base and 140-1,000 inch thick at the tip. Personally, it was too much for the reporter to think about.

Many thousands of dollars went into the designs of the Rainbow before the keel was laid. It seems that in this business of yacht racing the variance of an inch in the slope of the hull may mean the slowing up of the speed just enough to make it a second rater instead of one qualified to represent a nation.

Speed Is Only Relative.

The question was obviously an unorthodox one, but Capt. Monsell finally conjectured that the maximum speed was about 14 miles an hour. Incidentally, he revealed that a yacht goes fastest when the wind is at an angle behind it, not when the wind is directly in the rear.

"But aren't the Rainbow and the Endeavour the fastest yachts afloat?" queried the reporter in some bewilderment.

"They are not," was the answer which destroyed another illusion. "Schooners, bigger and with more sail, can beat the Rainbow and Endeavour. However, they presumably are the fastest in their class."

Weight's in the Keel.

Some more statistics were then forthcoming. The Rainbow is about 21 feet wide at the middle and its draft is about 15 feet, the latter meaning in every day language that it will scrape bottom at that depth. Its tonnage was given as 138, and the greater portion of this weight, or more than 90 tons, is in the keel in the form of lead.

Incidentally, the Rainbow was being consistently beaten by the Yankee, captained by Charles Francis Adams, in the trials for the America's cup until about five tons more of lead were loaded into her keel. With this comforting ballast in its stomach, the Rainbow stepped out and beat the Yankee for the honor of defending the cup. Which fact is now being gravely debated by those fellows who know all about spinnakers.

Why a yacht can't tip over and some explanation of spinnakers, shrouds and booms are revelations reserved for a second article tomorrow.

NEWARK WINS INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE FLAG

Newark, N. J., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Newark Bears clinched the International league pennant today by defeating the Syracuse Chiefs, 4 to 1. A home run by Roy Schalk with two on base and two out in the ninth broke a 1 to 1 tie and enabled the Bears to finish on top of the standing for the third year in succession and win their second league title in that time. They lost the crown in the playoffs last year.

With the second place Rochester Red Wings idle, the Bears increased their lead to five games with only four to go for Newark and five for Rochester. The Wings thus lost their last chance to tie for the flag unless a game with Montreal, which has been washed from the schedule, is played off. That event is not planned unless it is necessary to decide a position in the final standing.

West Wins in Polo Trial; Boeseke Back

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Only the West got in its workout today in preparation for the East-West polo series which starts at the Meadow Brook club on Saturday. Playing against a local team at Mitchel field the West won, 19 to 6. The East found the field at the Piping Rock club too wet for play today and postponed their practice match until tomorrow.

The West players were joined at the start of the game by Elmer Boeseke Jr., who has been out since last Saturday with a bruise from a ball. Boeseke came back to play the first four periods and was relieved in the last four by Lin Howard.

West Takes Early Lead.

The team lined up against Seymour Knox, Bob Bullock, Stewart Iglehart, and Robert E. Strawbridge Jr. Three of these players have been figuring in eastern test matches and the other, Bullock, is a veteran recently raised to six goals on handicap. Although all of these men are experienced players, the West moved out to a safe lead in the first period and held the advantage throughout.

Again one of the most impressive points of the western play was the accuracy of Eric Pedley at No. 1. Pedley scored nine goals, several of them from sharp angles.

The team lined up in the positions in which it is expected they will play on Saturday. Boeseke was behind Pedley, Cecil Smith was at No. 3, and Aidan Roark at back. Boeseke, taking things rather easily on his return to action, teamed nicely with Pedley.

Team Works Smoothly.

The back field was equally impressive. Smith and Roark both kept a barrage of long shots going up forward and between them, scored nine goals. Roark was going through nicely from the back position, well covered by Smith. The game was considered the West's best workout of the season.

| WEST [19]. | | WHITES [6]. |
| Eric Pedley | No. 1 | S. H. Knox |
| E. J. Boeseke Jr. | No. 2 | Robert Bullock |
| Cecil Smith | No. 3 | S. B. Iglehart |
| Aidan Roark | Back | R. E. Strawbridge |

West ..........4 2 2 2 1 2 3 3—19

Cubs Lose to Giants; Trail by 8 Games

Cuyler again singled with two out in the third and died trying to steal second. Klein walked to start the fourth, but went down with Stainback in a double play, after which Hartnett fanned. In the fifth Jurges singled, but went down with Bush in a double play. In the same three innings only ten men faced Bush, the extra one being Leiber, who led off the fifth with his second single. Leiber never advanced past second.

The one-all tie began to dissolve when Critz caromed a single off Billy Herman's glove with one out in the sixth. Before the inning was over the Giants had three runs and Bush was in the showers. Terry followed Critz's hit with a double to left, his first hit in five games against the Cubs. Ott was given an intentional pass, filling the bases.

Jackson Drives in Two.

Jackson then doubled to left center, Critz and Terry scoring. Leiber was given an intentional pass, again filling the bases. O'Doul batted for Mancuso and bounced out to Grimm, Ott scoring. Vergez was given a more or less intentional pass, filling the bases for the third time. Grimm then called in Tinning to pitch to Schumacher. Tinning fanned Schumacher on four pitched balls.

MASS FOR LOCKE WILL BE HELD AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—There will be a mass tomorrow morning in Dillon Hall chapel in memory of Joe Locke, guard with the 1929 Notre Dame national champions, who died in Chicago Tuesday.

There will be another mass for the father of Jack Robinson Jr., Friday morning. Robinson's father died Monday. The prospective varsity center may not be able to return to school. He was varsity center in 1932, but withdrew from school last year because of an eye infection.

WHITE SOX OPEN SERIES AGAINST YANKEES TODAY

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

If the weather man doesn't object the White Sox will go back to work this afternoon, after three successive days of idling. The Yankees, who still have pennant hopes, on which they probably will realize nothing, will furnish the other half of the act at Comiskey park. If the Yanks can win the pennant at the last minute then the Sox can get out of last place, and there isn't much prospect of that.

A perusal of what the Yankees have accomplished while traveling this year provides satisfactory indication of what they can expect between now and the finish. While touring they have won 29 and lost 28, which is far from a pennant winning pace. At home they have taken 51 decisions while dropping 23. On the other hand, the Tigers have captured 44 road games, against 26 defeats, and that explains their present lofty position, if there is anything to the old belief that flags are won away from home. In their own den the Tigers have won 41, against 18 defeats.

Expect Lyons to Pitch.

Ted Lyons probably will operate as a pitcher against the Yanks in the opener this afternoon, although this is a guess because of the inclination of Manager Jim Dykes to remain under cover. Mr. Dykes always is a tough man to locate, but in this instance has an acceptable excuse. Somebody put a piece in the paper about Dykes' plan to give all the kids in town a tryout at Comiskey park.

Dykes now is certain that every kid in town actually heard of the scheme and intends to take a hand in the experiment. For the past couple of days his home phone has been ringing at all hours, even after midnight, so he stood the bombardment as long as possible and then took to the cellar with which he is already familiar.

Yanks Go to St. Louis Next.

After the Yanks finish here Saturday evening they move to St. Louis for five games in four days and after that to Cleveland for four days. Then they are scheduled to invade Detroit for a four game series and endeavor to do something about the situation in the percentage column.

With Bonura back on first base today after his long vacation due to a leg injury, Dykes will move himself to second base in the event Jack Hayes isn't able to appear. The latter has a leg ailment, but it is not considered serious.

MISS HIRSCH IN SEMI-FINALS OF GIRLS' NET MEET

Joining Miss Hirsch in the semifinals were May Hope Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal.; Helen Pederson, Stamford, Conn., and Frances Bancroft, Wilmington, Del. In the semi-finals tomorrow Miss Hirsch will oppose Miss Pederson and Miss Doeg will meet Miss Bancroft.

RAIN POSTPONES CYCLE PROGRAM UNTIL TONIGHT

The second qualifying round for the midwest flat track motorcycle championship will be held tonight at the Logan Square oval, Elston and Kedzie avenues. Rain last night forced a postponement of the program until this evening.

There will be four races tonight, three handicap events and one scratch contest, all at four laps. Among the riders who will attempt to qualify are Ed and Martin Thorsen, Andy Koslow, and Amos Collinske, all of Chicago, and Kenneth Brower of San Diego, Cal., and Otto Waldvogel of St. Louis.

Dusette Throws Curry Twice in Mat Bout

George Dusette, Boston, Mass., light heavyweight wrestler, defeated Bull Curry of Hartford, Conn., last night at Marigold Gardens. A crowd of approximately 1,500 witnessed the show. George pinned his opponent with a body press in 6:40, and after a short rest threw him again in 7:41 with a double nelson. Frank Hart and Les Fishbough wrestled 30 minutes to a draw. Other results:

Dick Gaman threw Casey Jones, 14:21.
Jimmy Demetral and Rudy Kay drew, 30:00.

GEORGE DAWSON, HAMILTON OUT OF U. S. AMATEUR

Don Hamilton of Beverly Country club and George Dawson of Glen Oak last night announced their withdrawal from the national amateur golf tournament next week at Brookline, Mass. Dawson said his business was too pressing to permit him to make the trip, while Hamilton tore a muscle in one of his shoulders while playing in a Labor Day tournament at Beverly.

Next in line, according to their scores in the qualifying round at Oak Park were Robert Bohnen of Midlothian, John R. Hackett of Glen Oak, Al Andereggen of Cherry Hill and Larry Moller of Quincy.

Bohnen is not able to make the trip because of his studies. Hackett and Andereggen are ready to compete. Moller, state amateur champion, could not be located by Chicago District Golf association officials. If they find him in time and he is willing to play the names of Hackett, Andereggen and Moller will be drawn, the first two filling the vacant places. Otherwise, Hackett and Andereggen will go to Brookline.

BEARS BATTLE INDIANA HARBOR IN DRILL TONIGHT

Following the contest the Bears will resume drills at the Lane Tech athletic field for their game with the Chicago Tigers at Normal park, 61st street and Racine avenue, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Cris O'Brien, who piloted the Cardinals in the National league for several years, is in charge of the Tigers. Included on the squad are Lyons and Barckis, De Paul, and Enright, Loyola, ends; Clancy, De Paul; Aspatore, Marquette, and Gottschalk, Northwestern, tackles; Buhr, Washington State; Bluitt and Borelli, De Paul, guards; Gorsky, De Paul, and Waesco, Loyola, centers; Statler, Engle, Flood, Hartman, and Jablonski, De Paul, backs.

The Bears released Charles Brodnicki, a tackle from Villa Nova, who reported for his first season in the National league, to Brooklyn yesterday.

Coach Halas gave considerable attention to Beattie Feathers, University of Tennessee half back, both in running plays and in punting. Way Becker, George Corbett and Ken Westray also spent half an hour kicking. Westray was given a long drill in the back field and Vincent Zizak had a solid workout in the line.

CARDINALS GET MURPHY

Tommy Murphy, star quarter back from the University of Arkansas and the most valuable player in the Southwestern conference last year, has been added to the Chicago Cardinal football team roster and will report for practice at the Loyola stadium at once.

Besides Murphy there are twenty-three newcomers working under Coach Paul Schissler. The latter believes that with these new players the Cardinals will make a strong bid for the National Professional Football league title. The race will open here Sept. 23 with the Cardinals meeting the Cincinnati eleven.

Mike Sebastian, Pittsburgh half back, who was injured in the All-Star-Bears game, will report for practice Monday. At present he is in Pittsburgh.

Along with Sebastian the Cardinals have obtained Bill Smith, Washington end; Mike Mikulak, Oregon State full back; Paul Pardonner, place kicking star from Purdue; Dave Cook of Illinois, and Fred Canrinus of St. Mary's and Pete Mehringer of Kansas.

The first scrimmage of the year will be held Sunday, when the all-star members of the squad meet last year's veterans. The game will be played at Loyola, where the team is holding daily practice.

Jim Expects He Will Weigh 210 Pounds for Title Bout.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

When Jim Londos meets Ed [Strangler] Lewis at Wrigley field on Sept. 20 in a match, the result of which the widespread powers of wrestling will be awaiting with all the expectancy of a national electorate, there will be nigh onto 35 pounds more of Londos in the ring than on the occasion of their last debate.

From his almost puny debut as a 158 pound wrestler who, it appeared, would never grow up, to the biggest match of his life and an anticipated weight of 210 pounds, is verily an achievement. The champion explained the miracle of the transformation yesterday afternoon just before he went into his daily training dance at Renehan's lodge, near Round Lake, Ill. An outdoor ring had been erected for his exercises yesterday, but a chilly young breeze off the waters of the lake caused Londos and his stooges to adjourn indoors.

He Likes to Train.

Jim now weighs 198 pounds, but before the night of the 20th, hopes to have taken on an additional cargo of at least 12 pounds, thus bringing him into the ring at 210. During his previous matches with Lewis, Londos says his weight had never been over 175 pounds. That, of course, was prior to his campaign for weight, so that he might deal more handily with heavier men. As it is, Lewis probably will outweigh him by 35 pounds on the night of the match, but Jim reckons that 210 pounds will do nicely for himself.

Jim Tries Systematic Diet.

Diet will play an important part in gaining this extra poundage, while the training program itself will be gradual. Mention of this brought on the story of how Londos became a self-made heavyweight, a story in which sacrifice and patience were the principal factors.

Londos was a wrestling veteran in 1928 when he first became affiliated with Ed White, the present pilot of his career. He was not only a veteran but a very discouraged one, also, almost to the point of quitting the game. He was weary of going against heavier men, for even in training he realized that they tired him too quickly since he didn't have the strength to cope with their power.

White suggested that he try to take on more weight by following a definite plan, and Londos agreed to try it. For an entire month Jim lived on milk, drinking at least four quarts a day, and abstaining completely from solid foods. The following month he concentrated on boiled meats, stressing lamb and vegetables, while still drinking plenty of milk.

And It's All Muscle.

This rigid program soon began to show a fair profit. Londos, who had begun wrestling at 158 pounds, and had finally matured to about 170, but never much more, began to develop. What was more this was not suet, but muscle which came with the change. By the time he had entered the championship elect, he was weighing in at 190 and 195 consistently.

Jim worked for more than an hour yesterday, alternating with Bobby Bruns, Lou Plummer, Hans Bauer, and Frank Battaglia. Today his training troupe will be reinforced by the presence of Dick Raines, the Texan who has played hob with Lewis in a couple of matches. He will also appear at Renehan's tomorrow night to give an exhibition of holds in a show conducted by young Leslie White, Ed White's son.

Sykes, Levinsky Foe, to Move His Training Quarters

Art Sykes, Elmira, N. Y., heavyweight, tomorrow night will break camp at Round Lake, Ill., where he has been doing preliminary training for a 10 round bout with King Levinsky at Wrigley field on the night of Sept. 20, and return to Chicago. The 21 year old Syrian, who knocked out four opponents in as many Chicago appearances, will open drills at Northwest gymnasium Saturday afternoon.

Sykes will conclude workouts at Round Lake by appearing in an exhibition bout against two opponents on a wrestling card. He will spar six rounds Saturday, two each against Charley Young, Jack Robinson, and Willie Davies. All three are heavyweights.

While Sykes was so busy getting into perfect physical condition Levinsky did not let himself lose any time. He started talking himself into fighting shape, which is not an unusual procedure.

Without any formalities of an introduction the Kingfish would approach anybody and whisper, "I'll knock him out. He can't fight, can he?" The whispering campaign was going full blast at Trafton's gymnasium before and after the Kingfish went four rounds with two sparmates.

Levinsky's plan to throw fear into Sykes will not succeed, according to Eddie Long, manager of the former Duke university and Virginia Tech athlete. Long points to Levinsky's fight with Ace Hudkins to uphold his contention that little fellows give King the most trouble.

Hudkins, weighing only 170 pounds, spotted Levinsky 15 pounds and handed him a terrific beating at Mills stadium. Hudkins embarrassed the Kingfish considerably by bouncing him down several times. The Chicago slugger, who has fought such men as Champion Max Baer and Primo Carnera, has yet to be knocked off his feet by a heavyweight.

A serious training session that saw three training partners suffer under a variety of holds and a jaunt of nearly five miles on the road yesterday, marked the real opening of Ed [Strangler] Lewis' campaign for the world's heavyweight wrestling title. His big chance will come when he gets Jim Londos in the ring at Wrigley field on Sept. 20.

Lewis, with the cold that has bothered him for several days loosening up under treatment, displayed all his old time vigor and his crew of wrestling mates were glad when he completed an hour's drill at Trafton's gymnasium before a crowd of several hundred spectators.

Under the watchful eyes of Lou Talaber, who is in charge of his preparation, Lewis brought out an assortment of grips and clasps with which he expects to subdue Londos, and surprised gymnasium fans with the speed and agility he displayed against his mates.

Plans Body Punishment.

His headlock was on display frequently, but from his work it appeared that Lewis expects to deal out considerable upper body punishment to Londos. It is no secret that Lewis believes Londos will not stand up under severe punishment, and his work yesterday was devoted to a great extent to body crushes and arm strangles.

In his work, especially with Zack Maklov, 185 pounder and about the general height and build of Londos, the challenger used a body press, placing his head beneath Malkov's chin and then with his enormous arms circling Zack's body, pulled forward and pressed his head up.

Against Marin Plestina and Pete Schuh, Lewis used headlocks and the arm strangle, the latter a grip that closes the circulation of blood in the arm. While it is not a pinning hold, it weakens the victim to an extent whereby he becomes an easy prey to any of the orthodox body holds.

Headlock Effective as Ever.

Each of the three men took 20 minutes with Lewis on the mat. Plestina, who has worked with Lewis for many of his big matches, says that the years of wrestling have taken away none of Lewis' strength, and the deadly headlock is fully as effective, if not more so, than ever before.

Plestina should know. He has taken plenty of the headlocks in actual matches and in training with Lewis and speaks with authority when telling of the effectiveness of the grip. Today Lewis will begin work with the dummy, a device shaped like a human head and equipped with powerful springs. It will be a part of his regular training equipment hereafter.

Trainer Talaber has ordered the challenger on the road at 6 o'clock each morning and Lincoln park will be scene of his activities each day at this hour. Nearly five miles were covered by Lewis yesterday and Talaber says this distance will be gradually increased for the next week until the challenger is doing up to 15 miles a day on the road. Road work is a part of the training grind to which Lewis is partial, and he thoroughly enjoys these early morning jaunts.

Interest among the fans apparently is directed at this time toward Lewis' condition. Although usual workouts at Trafton's gymnasium are completed by 3 o'clock in the afternoon, several hundred were on hand at 4 o'clock yesterday to see Lewis in action. He chooses the late hour so that he will be fresh from a long rest after his road work of the morning.

JANESVILLE, WIS., AURORA ENTERED IN C. Y. O. TOURNEY

Aurora, Ill., and Janesville, Wis., have been added to the list of cities which will send championship amateur baseball teams to compete in the second annual national Catholic Youth Organization baseball tournament which opens at Wrigley field on Sept. 12. Word was received at C. Y. O. headquarters yesterday that St. Patrick's parish of Janesville, Wis., and St. Peter's of Aurora, Ill., would enter title winning nines in the five day C. Y. O. meet.

St. Peter's, amateur baseball champions of Aurora for the last two seasons, is entering the national C. Y. O. meet for the second time. Last year the Aurora title holders advanced to the semi-final round of the national meet, losing to St. Adrian, eventual winners.

Sixteen championship baseball teams are expected to compete for the 1934 national C. Y. O. title in the tournament.

MILLER, VAUGHN ARE PAIRED ON DUKELSKY CARD

Jimmy Vaughn, Cleveland welterweight, yesterday was substituted for Young Joe Firpo of Philadelphia for an eight round match against Billy Miller of Milwaukee at Mills stadium tomorrow. Firpo was unable to appear because of the death of his uncle-manager. The balance of the program is intact.

Ten round bouts will present Lou Brouillard against Solly Dukelsky and Hayden [Young] Stuhley against Frank Misko. An additional eight rounder will bring together Tommy Corbett and Battling Gizzy. Eddie Vlk, Cicero Bohemian welterweight, will battle Jack Matthews in the six round opener.

Dukelsky, never a good gymnasium performer, appeared to good advantage during a final three round drill with Southpaw Rocky Davis yesterday. He backed Davis into the ropes and bombarded him with punches to the head and body. After Solly finished, Brouillard went four fast rounds against Bobby Millsap and Freddy Langford. Both Dukelsky and the former welterweight and middleweight champion intend to take a layoff today.

Refusing to take any chances of sustaining cuts or broken hands, Stuhley and Misko did no boxing yesterday. They did loosening up exercises, a procedure which will be repeated this afternoon.

Bus Breese, Manhattan, Kas., and Jackie Sharkey last night were paired for a ten round contest at Marigold Gardens Monday. The weight has been set at 133 pounds. Frank Mirabel and Bobby O'Dowd, bantamweights, will clash in the six round semi-final. Willie Ross will face Young Kid Chocolate in a four round featherweight conflict.

Tony Canzoneri, veteran New York lightweight, may fight Harry Dublinsky of Chicago a third time at New York on Sept. 19 or 26. . . . Mickey Misko, Saginaw, Mich., 160 pounder, has accepted another fray against Tony Zale, Gary, at White City, Sept. 17. . . . St. Philip High school has entered a team in the central A. A. U. boxing tournament at Ashland arena, Sept. 11, 12, and 19.

The amateur boxing show, scheduled at Ashland arena last night was postponed until tonight because of rain. Promoter William [Pep] Kerwin will offer eight bouts.

Al Stillman, St. Louis boxer, has replaced Eddie Simms against Joe Louis in a ten round combat at Detroit, which has been set ahead from next Wednesday to Tuesday. . . . Ability to hold Patrick Henry to a draw prior to the latter's triumphs over Henry Rothier and Tommy Corbett in recent weeks has earned Bob La Monte an eight round battle with Billy Celebron at Western stadium Tuesday. . . . Nestor Bruggman and Rocky Davis are likely to meet in a supporting encounter. . . . Grant Kromenaker, who once prospered as promoter of shows at Northwest stadium, has announced he will have the arena torn down and sell the lumber for kindling. . . . # COLD CASH SETS 3 HEAT WORLD'S HARNESS RECORD

JOCKY KEESTER RIDES 5 STRAIGHT WINNING MOUNTS

ly gave him away to Bryant Ott, trainer of the French Lick Springs stable. He has shown steady improvement under Ott's handling. Still, it was a pretty cheap bunch he conquered.

In the third race Keester drove home War Dimes which paid off at $14.82. He moved up with War Dimes on the turn, conquered the early leader Hamilton and won easily. Hamilton saved second money and Shirley B. third. Keester had completed a daily double which paid $49.28.

Brings Winners from Far Back.

Keester was just started on his daily chores by this time. Next came two of the greatest rides of his youthful career when he brought Single Stripe and South Gallant from far back to snatch victory in the final strides.

Single Stripe had been badly outrun by Our Hobby in the early stages and the task of catching the favorite appeared hopeless at the head of the stretch. It wasn't a hopeless task to Keester, however. He applied the lether and shouted at his mount like a Commanche Indian might yell at his pony. On came Single Stripe and in the final few jumps he wore Our Hobby down to get the decision. Black Miss finished third. Single Stripe was at nearly 4 to 1 in the betting.

Keester's mount was South Gallant. It didn't appear he had a chance with this son of Gallant Fox-Fasnet. Slim Rosie, Sage Girl, and Virginella were having sort of a picnic far out in front of the field while they fought for the lead.

Then came another brilliant Keester finish. South Gallant suddenly started to skim over the heavy course and make up ground. One by one he passed the leaders. He was up in time to nip Virginella by an eyelash with Sage Girl third and Slim Rosie faltering badly in fourth place.

Reminds Fans of Garrison.

Old timers marveled at this ride. It took them back to the days of Garrison, Murphy, and Overton. South Gallant paid off at $9.58 in the mutuels. The only favorite Keester had ridden in these four straight victories had been Sherron.

Keester's mount in the sixth race was Our Admiral. Again Keester trailed in the early stages, Flying Justice and Long Bit having sailed out into a long lead. Keester's magic began to work in the stretch again on Our Admiral. He brought him up far out from the rail and within the shadow of the finish line Our Admiral poked his nose in front. He pulled on away from his rivals and beat Flying Justice 2½ lengths. Ashen finished third.

Five fast sprinters will meet in the Lagoon purse which tops the Lincoln Fields racing program this afternoon. They are Wise Ways, Mr. James, Miss Patience, Cloud d'Or, and Impunity. Unless there is a heavy rain the track should be in good condition by the time the race is run.

Walter E. O'Hara, builder and general manager of Narragansett Park track at Pawtucket, R. I., where the most successful meeting of the year in America just ended, was a visitor at Lincoln Fields yesterday.

Grand Prince, 8 year old in the Nash Brothers stable, a notable performer a few seasons back probably will go on a long vacation soon. He failed his backers in the fourth race yesterday. He has won only one race in eight starts this year.

Frederick, quite a sprinter a few seasons back when he raced for Edward B. McLean of Washington, arrived at Lincoln Fields yesterday from Detroit. He is associating only with the bottom grade platers these days.

Quite a few Chicago players cleaned up yesterday when horses trained by Jack Howard won the first two races at Rockingham park. The winning steeds were Civil War and Mollie Greenock. Howard didn't get lucky at any time during the summer on Chicago tracks. Soon as he shipped east his horses started winning.

STEEL COMPANY DROPS FIGHT ON LEGALITY OF NRA

Reinstates Worker Who Caused Dispute.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—The Worth Steel company of Claymont, Del., has dropped its plan of contesting the constitutionality of section 7A of the NRA "at this time," it was announced today by the steel labor relations board.

The company also agreed, the board said, to reinstate John T. Slater, a member of the Amalgamated Association of Iron Steel and Tin Workers, whose discharge was one of the main points of contention. The agreement followed a hearing yesterday on the union's complaint about Slater's dismissal.

The union had contended that Slater was fired as a result of union activity. The company maintained he was let go because of inefficiency. He is to be reinstated as a finisher in the sheet mill without prejudice to his "future advancement and with no future discrimination against him."

The steel company charged in a brief filed with the relations board at the opening of the hearing that both the labor clause in the recovery act and the resolution under which the steel board was established were both unconstitutional. The company further challenged the right of the body to take official cognizance of the Slater dispute.

Weirton Case Postponed.

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—After permitting the government to file an amended complaint in the case, Federal Judge John P. Nields today postponed the Weirton Steel company hearing from Sept. 7 until Oct. 2 because of the illness of Frank K. Nebeker, chief counsel for the government.

The government is seeking an injunction to restrain the steel company from interfering in an election of its employés, held to determine their representatives for collective bargaining.

Except for the elimination of a previous request that the court order an employés' election at the Weirton plant, the government's amended complaint was generally the same as its original bill. This point was omitted, it was said, because the national steel labor relations board has the authority to order an election by executive order.

No opposition to the filing of the supplemental bill was offered by Earl F. Reed, chief counsel for the company, but he added that his side was ready to begin the hearing today. In granting the postponement, Judge Nields said that the trial must start on Oct. 2.

Cites Indiana Plant.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—In a ruling announced today, the labor relations board held that the Guide Lamp corporation of Anderson, Ind., violated the recovery act in refusing to recognize the Metal Polishers International union as the exclusive representative of its employés for collective bargaining.

The international union had won a plant election from the company employés association, 329 to 286. The board said that the case will be referred to the NRA for Blue Eagle removal if the company fails within the next 10 days to notify the board it recognizes the international union.

REPORT CHANCES FOR REPUBLIC DIVIDEND SLIM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 5.—The Republic Steel corporation, in a further statement amplifying announcements made previously in a letter to stockholders, today called attention to advantages which will accrue from the proposed readjustment of Republic's capital structure, which will be effected through merger into Republic of Corrigan, McKinney Steel company and acquisition by Republic of control of Truscon Steel company.

"Some stockholders may be of the belief that as soon as earnings justify the corporation will pay off the arrears on the preferred stock and eventually resume payment of regular dividends on both the common and preferred stocks," says the company's statement. "Such procedure is not possible under the severely restrictive terms of the present general and refunding mortgage.

The mortgage in question, which was drawn in 1923 and did not allow for Republic's growth and present importance from the industry's standpoint, does not permit the payment of any dividends except out of net earnings after losses, and dividends declared, since the date of the mortgage." This means, the statement adds, that the company would have to earn $29,000,000 before it could pay any preferred dividends.

GRAIN PRICES CLIMB; WHEAT RISES 2 CENTS

Oats Start Advances in All Pits.

Cash markets assumed command of the grain situation yesterday and futures rallied buoyantly, carrying wheat up two cents net and corn and oats more than a cent higher.

There was nothing new in the actual situation, for spot grains have led futures for some time. But growing realization of the woeful condition which drouth left in its wake seemed to grip many speculators at the same time.

Yesterday's market was a case of the tail wagging the dog. Oats, normally third in speculative interest, started the upturn which spread to other pits immediately. With an oats crop less than half of normal the question of future supplies is becoming more important daily. Heavy buying by industrial brokers found a scarcity of offerings and prices moved up without effort.

Same Situation in Wheat.

The same situation prevailed in wheat. Many of the purchases reflected the removal of hedged grain by milling interests against sales of flour moving into consumptive channels. During last week more than five million bushels of speculative holdings have been taken out of the market and wheat was ready to advance on the slightest incentive.

Most of the upturn was registered in the last two hours of trading and volume swelled proportionately as prices rose. Activity at times was large, and traders who early in the day had complained of lack of business found plenty to keep them occupied later.

Prices at Close.

At the close wheat was 2⅛ to 2⅜ cents above the previous session, with the December option selling at $1.06⅛. Corn was ⅝ to 1⅜ cents higher, oats were 1¼ to 1⅜ cents improved, rye ⅞ to 1¾ cents over Tuesday's close, and barley 1½ to 2¾ cents higher. December corn closed at 80¾ cents and December oats at 53⅞ cents.

Liverpool ignored Tuesday's action here and gained only ⅛ to ⅝ cent for the day. Winnipeg advanced ⅝ to 1¼ cents, Rotterdam gained 1 to 1⅛ cents, and Buenos Aires firmed slightly. Kansas City and Minneapolis markets again led the domestic parade, with the September delivery gaining on May in all markets.

Weather news was ignored. Western Canada still had but little moisture and forecasts indicated clear and cool weather. The American belt generally was fair.

Red Wheat Withdrawn.

Considerable apprehension followed a report of the cancellation of warehouse receipts for a quarter million bushels of red wheat for withdrawal from storage in Chicago. As Chicago has but eight million bushels of wheat in store, of which seven million is red, any considerable outward movement might play havoc with the market later on.

Depletion of stocks here would necessitate going to other markets to obtain wheat for delivery on futures contracts. As Chicago prices are well under those of outside markets, an acute situation could develop.

Strength in cash grain was not confined to United States markets. James E. Bennett & Co. reported an excellent demand was shown in Winnipeg for durum wheat by American mills, who accepted all offerings and bid for more. It is said about three million bushels of new crop durum has been sold for shipment to this country.

$75,000,000 MORE GOLD LEAVES SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Federal officials said $75,000,000 in gold, the third shipment from the San Francisco mint to the Denver mint, started tonight aboard a special train. The total value of the gold being removed to Denver is reported to be more than $2,000,000,000.

Second Shipment Arrives.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 5.—(AP)—A second shipment of about $70,000,000 in gold from San Francisco was locked in the Denver mint today.

The first shipment last week attracted throngs of curious to the Union station and necessitated a large force of guards to prevent interference with the handling of the yellow treasure, but last night only a few saw the gold arrive.

Roy D. Chapin Addresses Hudson Auto Dealers

Roy D. Chapin, president of the Hudson Motor Car company and former secretary of commerce, yesterday addressed a convention of Hudson and Terraplane dealers from twenty-one counties of northern Illinois and northwestern Indiana on the immediate outlook of their business in this territory. The meeting, held in the Graemere hotel, was called by Earl Butler, president of Butler Motors, Inc., Mr. Chapin's distributor for this district.

Ward Profit for 6 Months 77c a Share

Sharply increased sales during the first six months of its fiscal year enabled Montgomery Ward & Co. to earn a profit equal to 77 cents a share on the common stock, Sewell L. Avery, president, announced yesterday. In the same period of 1933 the company sustained a loss.

Net income exceeded earlier estimates, amounting to $4,158,695 for the half year ended July 31. Of this amount $316,157 was earned during July. In the 1933 period net loss was $3,478,983.

Profit for the last season, Mr. Avery said, was determined after taking physical inventories of all merchandise on July 31, and is after all charges, including full provision for depreciation of fixed properties, inventory shrinkages, and taxes.

Sales Rise 33.93 Per Cent.

Net sales aggregated $105,983,807, against $77,969,690 for the corresponding half year in 1933, an increase of 35.93 per cent. Sales for July fell behind the average, however, rising only 17.83 per cent.

The company showed a strong financial position on July 31. Current assets were $90,951,056 and current liabilities amounted to $9,731,937, a working capital ratio of 9.35 to 1.

Expand Retail Activities.

Retail activities of Montgomery Ward have been steadily expanded in the last few months. Stores have been opened at scattered points throughout the country, with the result that the concern has developed a formidable chain store organization to supplement its mail order business.

On July 5 it has 17 class A stores, 453 class B, and 19 class C units. On that date 106 stores had been closed, 82 altered, and 40 relocated since the store program was begun.

Much of the sales increase is said to have resulted from cut prices which the firm offered in its midsummer flyer catalog. The flyer contained numerous items, "many below today's wholesale price," taken from the spring and summer general catalog and quoted at reduced prices, together with numerous items purchased especially for the flyer—bought months ago when costs were lower.

CONCERN FIGHTS EFFORT TO MAKE IT RE-EMPLOY 11

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—The question of whether a company can be compelled to re-employ more strikers after a strike settlement than it actually needs to carry on work was presented to the National Labor Relations board today by the International Furniture company of Chicago. The company had been cited to the national labor board by the Chicago Regional board for alleged failure to reemploy 11 men whom the Chicago board on July 19 had ordered to be reinstated.

Philip W. Pelts, president of the company, and Louis M. Fusha, counsel, appeared for the company and stated flatly that they would not rehire five men whose status is still in dispute.

The company held that the agreement which it made with the Chicago board in December, settling a strike started in September, was to rehire strikers as they were needed. This has been done, the company contended. Thirty-nine of the 50 strikers have been returned to the pay roll, the company insisted.

Appearing against the company was the Upholsterers' International union represented by James H. Hatch, national president, and Alfred Rota, business manager of Local No. 18 in Chicago. The labor board took the case under advisement.

HOMESTAKE PAYS $2 EXTRA; GENL. PRINTING INK, 10C

Canadian Celanese, Ltd., declared a dividend of 75 cents a share on the 7 per cent participating preferred on account of accumulations and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on this stock, both payable Sept. 30.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass company declared a dividend of 35 cents on the capital stock, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 10. A similar payment was made three months ago.

The Continental Assurance company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents, payable Sept. 29 to stock of record Sept. 15.

STOCKS ABOUT FACE AFTER 7 DAYS' DECLINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 5.—Thanks to a thoroughly "sold out" condition brought about by seven days of uninterrupted decline, the share market had no difficulty at all in making bullish capital out of the news that President Roosevelt had intervened to speed a settlement of the textile strike. Prices rebounded 1 to 3 points and buying interest broadened out perceptibly. In the late afternoon tapewatchers were edified with the unusual spectacle of a string of 1,000 share blocks coming out at steadily improving price figures.

Turnover for the day continued well under a half million shares, however, making it evident that a large proportion of the orders were for professional account. Evidence of short covering was pronounced in some directions.

Other Favorable Items.

While the improved textile strike situation was the chief factor in the trading community's show of cheerfulness, there were other items in the news to buoy sentiment, one of them being a gain in New York telephone stations for the last week in August, reversing the downward trend that had been apparent most of the summer. Another stimulating influence was the firmer commodity markets featured by a 2 cent gain in wheat.

As to the President's move to settle the textile strike, brokerage house comment indicated a widely held opinion that the tieup, regardless of the immediate effect of the White House step, may not be so disastrous as some alarmists professed to fear at the outset, anyway. In some quarters the view was expressed that the industry itself would not suffer so terribly from at least a partial closing for a few weeks owing to the big inventories in many lines. However, a settlement of the controversy admittedly would be hailed as a constructive factor of tremendous importance to the market.

Mining Shares Set Pace.

Mining shares set the pace in today's recovery movement. U. S. Smelting advanced 3½ points and upturns of from a good sized fraction to a point were registered by American Smelting, Dome, McIntyre, Cerro de Pasco and others. Activity in this group is generally ascribed to a flurry of inflationary sentiment, but there was nothing in the news today on which to base such a revival. Commentators pointed out that the treasury is following an orthodox course in its refinancing activities this month and next, although there is a considerable element in the street who are convinced that inflation is inevitable regardless of the "assurances" coming out of Washington from time to time.

Railroad shares looked up rather smartly, reflecting hopes of fresh government aid and helpful legislation at the forthcoming session of congress. Trafic figures for last week showed some improvement over the preceding week. An exception to the upturn of the carrier group was Norfolk and Western, which dropped three points on the first sale and was never able to regain the loss.

Air Shares Fairly Active.

Trading was moderately active in the new stocks split from United Aircraft. They were admitted on a when issued basis.

Lower oil production figures helped the petroleum stocks slightly, although trading in this section, as usual, was in subdued tempo.

Certain stocks that ordinarily appeal to speculators, such as Western Union and Montgomery Ward, moved up a point or so.

The food issues met with some demand and the utilities held up their end in passable fashion.

PIERCE-ARROW PROBE REFUSED BY U. S. JUDGE

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 5.—(AP)—An investigation of the Pierce-Arrow Motor company was denied today by Federal Judge Knight, in a ruling on a motion by a creditor of the company.

Appointment of a special master to conduct an inquiry into the company had been asked by the Grand Atlantic corporation of Brooklyn, real estate company that leased a metropolitan site to Pierce for $46,500 annually. The lease recently was canceled.

Judge Knight announced his ruling after attorneys for the two concerns had agreed that Grand Atlantic could obtain information on recent transactions. The court also held that a renewal of the request for a special master could be made after the first general meeting of creditors on Sept. 17.

Advances in Commodities Exceed Declines Again

New York, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Extending into the fifth consecutive week in which advances exceeded declines, the weekly tabulation of wholesale prices prepared by Dun & Bradstreet showed 30 commodities quoted higher in the latest period, as against 32 in the preceding week and 28 in the corresponding week last year. Declines in the last week numbered 21, compared with 17 in the preceding week and 27 a year ago.

J. I. Case Directors Vote $1 Dividend on Preferred

Racine, Wis., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—The board of directors of the J. I. Case company today declared a dividend of a dollar a share on preferred stock, payable Oct. 1.

Car and Garage Version of the Business Cycle

Cook county automobile sales of 6,521 units in August were the largest for that month since 1929 and marked the seventh consecutive month to show an increase over the preceding year. During the first eight months of 1934 a total of 45,104 new cars were sold, 11,000 more than in the same 1933 period and exceeding all of last year's total sales. Ford, Chevrolet, and Plymouth lead the field, but several other makes showed healthy increases over 1933.

FDIC Banks 54% Liquid, Says Crowley

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—Banks of this country affiliated with the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, which means more than 90 per cent of the commercial banks, were 54 per cent liquid on June 30, Chairman Leo T. Crowley disclosed today. In making the announcement he declared: "We can't have real recovery unless the banks make more loans. With the progress made in recovery the banks are altogether too liquid."

Crowley said he thought the liquidity of banks could be reduced to 40 per cent without injuring the position of depositors. A condition now pertained where more than half of the deposits of the banks could almost immediately be converted into cash, a situation that probably never existed before in the history of American banking, he said.

Shows Deposit-Cash Ratio.

Deposits in the 13,867 insured banks and trust companies, exclusive of mutual savings banks, amounted on June 30 to $35,766,394,000. Actual cash in the possession of these institution and deposits with other banks totaled $9,364,825,000 and government securities $10,295,709,000.

Crowley said the total interest of the Reconstruction Finance corporation June 30 in banks was 20 per cent. Out of the total capital stock, notes and debentures of insured banks $805,000,000 had been sold to the corporation, including $180,352,000 by state non-member banks of the federal reserve system.

A review of the condition of the banks in the FDIC showed that on Aug. 8 there were 1,164 uninsured commercial banks in the United States with deposits of $550,964,000, representing a small percentage of the deposits of all insured banks.

Twelve Have Most of Total.

"It is interesting to note," Crowley said, "that twelve of these uninsured banks have $216,631,000 of the total. Thus the remaining banks have only $334,333,000 in deposits, indicating that they are relatively small institutions."

Institutions not included were the mutual savings banks, numbering 567, and private banks. Of the mutual savings institutions 71 are affiliated with the FDIC.

Crowley said that this was the first "composite picture" of the commercial banks of the United States and also was "the first tabulation ever made including figures reported direct to Washington by banks which are not members of the federal reserve system."

REORGANIZATION OF REALTY TRUST IS REQUESTED

Reorganization of trust No. 17,400 of the Chicago Title and Trust company under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law was asked in the federal court here yesterday by three creditors—Edith F. Reincke of Evanston, Ross McKinstry of Hinsdale, and Battey & Kipp, Inc., 231 South La Salle street.

The trust was created Oct. 1, 1926. Under the plan the Illinois Merchants Trust company deposited funds with the trust which placed the money in real estate and first mortgages and gave the bank real estate gold bonds in return. Approximately $12,500,000 was deposited in the trust whose securities, according to the plea, are now worth only $10,000,000.

Kimbark Realty trust, owners of a coöperative apartment building at the southeast corner of Kimbark avenue and 62d street, also filed a reorganization plea on its own behalf. Liabilities are placed at $145,000 and the assets consist of an undetermined market value on the building.

117 FIRMS LISTED HERE REGISTER UNDER NEW ACT

The number of firms with securities listed on the Chicago Stock exchange which have sought temporary registration under the securities exchange act of 1934 has been gratifying, according to Michael J. O'Brien, president of the exchange.

"A total of 117 corporations have filed applications and 66 others plan to do so within a few days," he said yesterday. "Only 77 corporations having stocks listed have not responded. Only seven out of 89 corporations with bonds listed on the exchange have filed applications and 12 will do so."

NEW AUBURN HEAD GETS OPTION TO BUY 5,000 SHARES AT $25

Roy H. Faulkner, newly elected president of the Auburn Automobile company, has been given an option to purchase any part of 5,000 shares of common stock in the company at $25 a share, it was learned yesterday. The option may be accepted at any time during his tenure of office.

Should Faulkner take the whole amount it would give him slightly more than a 2 per cent control as 223,342 shares are outstanding.

Faulkner returned to Auburn on Aug. 24 after a short association with the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car company. He succeeded W. H. Beal, who was made vice president of the Cord corporation and assistant to L. B. Manning, who later was named president of Cord, to succeed E. L. Cord.

REPORT PELLEY MAY TAKE NEW RAIL POSITION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 5.—John J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, today was choosing between a post with the administration and the chairmanship of the new organization to be formed by combining the American Railway association and the Association of Railway Executives, according to reports in the financial district.

Belief that he is considering a post in Washington has arisen out of his conference yesterday with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park at which he is known to have gone intensively into the subject of legislation bearing broadly on the future of the railroads.

To questions as to whether he would stay with the New Haven, he replied, "if the directors want to keep me"—a reply made necessary, it is believed, by the probability that he could not admit a change before having an opportunity to tell his own directors about it at their meeting Sept. 12.

CEMENT MAKER CLOSES PLANT; DEMAND SLACK

Universal Atlas Cement company yesterday announced that the Buffington plant has been closed pending improvement in the demand for cement, putting about 350 men out of work. The plant has employed this number during the last several years, but in normal times as many as 1,500 have been employed.

It was stated that operations were continued longer than justified to keep the men at work and with the expectation that increased demand for cement would develop. The failure of this improvement to appear is attributed to slowness in road programs and other construction to get under way. This condition was reported to be common to the industry which in the year ended July 31 showed that it was 74 per cent idle.

INDIANA FIRM GETS OLD CORN PAPER PLANT

Danville, Ill., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Purchase of the plant of the defunct Corn Stalks Products Co., Inc., by the Ball Brothers company, Muncie, Ind., manufacturers of glass jars, was announced today by George A. Ball, vice president. The plant was bought by a Chicago broker for $100,200 at public sale in the federal court last week.

Though plans for operation are incomplete, the Ball company is considering the plant as a unit for utilization of farm waste in making paper, officials said.

Illinois Gasoline Tax Collections Show Gain

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Motor fuel tax collections during August totaled $2,890,190, an increase of $122,426 over the same month last year, the finance department announced today. For the first eight months of the year the gas tax revenue amounted to $19,341,132, an increase of $863,266.

DOLLAR RALLIES, BUT MORE GOLD IS SENT ABROAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 5.—Further gold exports of nearly $4,000,000 were announced today, but the dollar rallied above the gold export price for the first time in over a week. The franc, which had advanced to 6.69¾ cents earlier in the day, fell to 6.68⅛ cents, down 1⅜ points from Tuesday's close and about 1 point below the gold export point. The decline in the franc was helped by renewed discussions in Paris of the advisability of devaluation of the currency.

In exchange circles here it was reported that banks representing the treasury were active sellers of francs. In some quarters it was believed that this move was intended to trap shorts in dollar exchange. It had been understood that a large short interest had developed abroad in expectation of further devaluation of the dollar.

Some Not Impressed.

Some traders, however, were not inclined to attach great importance to the recovery of the dollar today. It was felt that in view of the amount of gold that had been shipped from this country a moderate recovery above the gold point was in order. The rally did not appear of sufficient vigor to preclude expectations of a renewed decline below the gold export point before long.

Sterling failed to continue its recovery of the previous day. In fact it sagged 2 cents to $5. In London the pound closed at 74.84 francs compared with 74.97 francs on Tuesday.

Under the leadership of sterling and the franc all other important currencies cheapened against the dollar.

Destination of Gold.

Gold exports announced today included $499,900 to Holland, and $3,497,200 to France. These exports brought the total outflow for the current movement to $22,611,100. The export to Holland was the first gold shipment to that country on the present movement, previous shipments having gone only to France and Belgium.

The price of gold in the London market declined 4 pence to 140 shillings 6½ pence a fine ounce [equivalent to $35.28], and bars valued at $1,973,351 were sold.

World gold production increased 39,000 ounces in July to 2,229,000 ounces, but was 21,000 ounces less than in May, the American bureau of metal statistics reported today. At $35 an ounce this would be worth $78,015,000. The United States output rose 14,000 ounces to 250,000, worth $8,750,000.

French Expert Gives View.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 5.—The attention of financial circles today was centered chiefly on an article discussing the fall in the pound in L'Information by Charles Rist, advisor to the Bank of France.

M. Rist admits the weakness of sterling is not easy to explain. He rules out the hypothesis of a seasonal drop based upon heavy purchases of raw materials, since it is too early for that. According to him, a more likely explanation is the export of English and foreign capital to obtain gold elsewhere than on the London free market in anticipation of fluctuations of the pound, due to the risk of further depreciation in the dollar. If this is true, it is a grave symptom, says M. Rist, because it would mean the pound's fall is due either to refusal of the British equalization fund to intervene or its inability to do so.

In the former case the world would be up against a monetary warfare in full swing. In the latter case, which M. Rist considers even more serious, it would demonstrate the futility of trying to control exchange rates when a currency's trend is downward.

Silver on Way from Orient.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Silver bullion valued at more than 10 million dollars, en route from the orient to New York, went forward to San Francisco today on board the H. F. Alexander. It was trans-shipped under heavy guard from the President Grant, which arrived yesterday from the far east.

Mint Chief's 'Happy Story' Seems Fishy

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the United States mint, says every mint in the country is operating at top speed producing silver coins. This she interprets as proof that business is reviving.

In an Associated Press dispatch from Cheyenne, Mrs. Ross is quoted as saying:

"It is satisfying to note that in past generations the mint quickly pointed to a resumption of business activity, just as it does now. Accordingly, unless all signs fail, this depression has been beaten. This demand for silver coins, coming from private business, entirely voluntary and indicating business activity, tells a happy, gratifying story, I think."

* *

The official figures on the amounts of the different kinds of money in circulation indicate that there is something fishy about this interpretation. The demand on the mints seems to be only for silver coins. The total amount of all kinds of money in circulation in the United States hasn't changed appreciably since the first of the year. Money of all kinds in circulation on Aug. 29, for example, totaled 5 billion 345 million dollars, compared with 5 billion 354 millions last February.

Why is it if business needs more silver coins it does not also need more paper money? May not the increase in demand for silver coins be the result of hoarding by people who fear further debasement of the currency?

One of the lessons taught by the depression is that an increase in the amount of money in circulation does not necessarily mean an increase in business volume. At the time of the moratorium when business was almost at a standstill there was more money in circulation than before or since, because for every dollar hidden away another had to be issued to meet the ordinary needs of trade.

* *

Long before the President issued his proclamation ordering all silver bullion sold to the treasury in various parts of the country there were reports that small hoarders were stowing away silver dollars, half dollars, quarters and dimes. Most of the reports came from the west coast.

Now silver coins are the only kind of hard money that it is possible for a resident of the United States to get his hands on. All the rest of the currency consists of irredeemable paper money, readily susceptible at any time to further debasement.

Three-fifths of all money outstanding consists of federal reserve notes. Theoretically these notes are backed by at least 40 per cent in gold. Before the United States went off the gold standard the citizen could take a ten dollar reserve note to a bank and exchange it for a ten dollar gold piece. Now he can't even get the 40 per cent in gold which, in theory, secures each reserve note.

Other types of paper money in circulation—treasury notes, United States notes, federal reserve bank notes, and national bank notes—are not even in theory secured by gold. They are backed either by government bonds or other paper, or by the general credit of the United States government.

* *

Silver certificates, it is true, still may be exchanged for silver dollars, but any one going to the trouble of hoarding probably recalls that when the government forbade the holding of gold it also forbade the holding of gold certificates.

This leaves silver dollars, half dollars, quarters, and dimes the only hard money that the citizen can get his hands on and hide in the cookie jar.

Inasmuch as no nation is ever without hoarders, even in good times, it is entirely possible that the pickup that Mrs. Ross notes in the demand for newly minted silver coins is the result of the closing of all other means of hoarding.

At any rate, it seems peculiar that a big increase in the demand for silver coins at a time when there is no more demand for other kinds of money should be offered as a "happy, gratifying story."

TREASURY HOLD STRENGTHENED BY MORGENTHAU

Research Post Goes to Farm Economist.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau's determination to reshape the corps of federal fiscal advisers into closer harmony with the New Deal's financing policies today added another resignation to the list of retiring treasury officials.

W. R. Stark, chief of the section of financial and economic research, a holdover from the Hoover administration, retired from his post. His action brought to three the total of major resignations during the week.

Morgenthau immediately named George C. Haas, deputy governor of the Farm Credit administration, which he himself once headed, to serve as director of a new division of research and statistics. The new bureau will take over and expand that headed by Stark.

Haas Is Farm Economist.

The training of Haas has been chiefly in agricultural economics, although he served for two years in a research capacity with the Detroit Investment corporation. Haas holds a master of arts degree in agricultural economics from the University of Minnesota, and has pursued economic studies in Berlin.

With formidable problems of taxation and financing ahead, today's switch generally was regarded in Washington as part of the general move to place the shaping of treasury policies more closely in the hands of aids of the secretary's own selection who are entirely sympathetic with the President's program.

In his letter of resignation, submitted to Morgenthau Aug. 27, Stark expressed the opinion that the prospective coördinating of treasury research activities into a single unit could be effected more easily by his withdrawal.

Follows Douglas' Action.

His retirement followed by a few days the resignation of Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, and F. W. Lowery, assistant director. Douglas, firm advocate of an early balancing of the budget, continued his silence today concerning his action. He told reporters that any statement would have to come from the White House.

The resignation of E. G. Bennett as a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance board also was announced today by Leo T. Crowley, FDIC chairman. It will become effective at the end of the week. This move was considered without significance, as Bennett had long been desirous of returning to business and banking interests in Utah, where he is associated with Mariner S. Eccles, special assistant to Morgenthau.

Bennett's prospective return to private business, however, again raised speculation concerning the possibility that Eccles would be named to succeed Eugene R. Black, former governor of the federal reserve board.

Opposed Some of New Deal.

Less than a month ago, Black, known as an opponent of some New Deal financial policies, quit the post, but announced he would continue to serve informally as a liaison man between the administration and the banks.

Elevation of Eccles to the federal reserve governorship would be considered in some quarters as a possible indication of increased interest in legislation designed to place the banking system more directly under federal control.

Eccles, a wealthy man with extensive business and financial interests in Utah and elsewhere, does not hesitate to express distinctly advanced ideas on governmental credit and financing. He is favorable to creation of a central bank of issue which has been under consideration by some treasury advisers.

Among those who have been loosened from their treasury moorings during the last year are Dean Acheson, former undersecretary; O. M. W. Sprague, financial adviser; Thomas Hewes, former assistant secretary in charge of fiscal affairs, and E. Barrett Prettyman, former chief counsel of the bureau of internal revenue, who was displaced by Robert Jackson.

ROADS REPORT SHARP ADVANCE IN LOADINGS

Cattle and Coal Shipments Help Business.

Car loadings reported so far for the week ended Sept. 1 show a substantial gain over both the preceding week and the corresponding week of last year. While a rise is usual in the week preceding Labor day, the increase this year may also be attributed to heavy shipments of coal in the east and drouth cattle in the west.

The Rock Island reported the best week since December, 1931, with a total of 24,573 cars, a gain of 3,646 cars, or 17.4 per cent, over a year ago. The total for the preceding week was 22,168 cars. The principal gains were reported as being in wheat, other grains, hay and straw, live stock, and "all other freight."

N. Y. Central Loadings Rise.

New York Central loadings aggregated 95,572 cars, an increase of 7,317 cars over the preceding week, but a drop of 11,011 from a year ago. ## PRICES OF BUTTER AND EGG FUTURES RECOVER LOSSES

Butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange recovered part of the loss yesterday that was sustained in Tuesday's trading despite bearish news. Butter closed ⅛ to ¼ cent higher, while eggs were up a like amount.

New buying and short covering was responsible for the upturn in butter which was in the face of the Land o' Lakes report showing production 2 per cent greater than the previous week and 10 per cent in excess of last year. Movement of eggs from cold storage exceeded that of a year ago by 6,000 cases. Strength in stocks and grain aided both commodities during the day.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Raw sugar was unchanged today, and no sales were reported. The official price for shipment sugars from Cuba to the United States was unchanged at 2.20c cost and freight, as fixed in the decree announced yesterday. This under the new duty is equal to 3.10c delivered, but sugars in store here were offered at 2.90c delivered, with refiners showing interest at 2.86c.

Price changes in futures were small and trading limited, owing to the continued inactivity in the spot market. Final levels were net unchanged to 1 point lower. Sales, 12,550 tons. Prices:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 5.—Persistent selling of United States government long term issues, with resultant losses of 2-32ds to more than a full point, contrasted with generally higher prices for issues of other classifications in the listed bond market today. The volume of trading on the exchange today in the government group was $8,750,000, of a total turnover of $14,170,000.

The treasury guaranteed issues, namely, the Federal Farm Mortgage corporation and Home Owners' Loan corporation obligations, all touched new record lows, with the declines for the day ranging from 22-32s to 21-32ds point.

3 Point Spread in 3s.

The differential between the 3 per cent issues of these corporations and the treasury 3s is now 3 points, whereas a few weeks ago the spread was normally about half a point. The major loss in the treasury list, that of 12-32d point, accrued to the treasury 4¼s of 1952, which dropped below 111.

Bankers and bond men were cheered at the appearance of support for the treasury market in late trading yesterday, but this support was lacking today until around noon when a mild rally occurred. The recovery was cut short, however, and prices descended to new lows in the afternoon.

While offerings were not particularly heavy they were steady and from well diversified sources, according to reports. At the same time there was a scarcity of prospective buyers willing to come into the market at this time in face of uncertainty surrounding the treasury's financing program.

Corporation List Higher.

Domestic corporation bonds moved irregularly higher in quiet dealings, a fair sized list of issues moving up a point or more. Utility bonds, on the average, did slightly better than railroad and industrial issues.

Foreign issues showed considerable irregularity at the close. German loans were generally easier. United Kingdom and French government loans showed minor irregularities, while Italian government and Austrian government issues closed strong. In the Latin-American group the active Argentine loans were firm and Republic of Uruguay issues pointed higher.

Wolff Manufacturing.

Investors' Guide: I own $1,500 of bonds of Wolff Manufacturing corporation and a thousand dollar bond is owned by another member of my family. They have been on ice since January, 1932. I am 85 years of age and would like to see my money again before passing out. I would surely be pleased to hear from you.—W. A. B.

Answer: Funded debt of Wolff Manufacturing corporation totals $1,180,000. The bonds are secured by a first mortgage on the real estate, located in Chicago, and machinery of the company. A substantial portion of the assets is used by Wolff company, which acquired the assets of the issuer in 1928, manufacturer of plumbing products.

Foreclosure proceedings have been instituted. The company has continued to operate, all of the proceeds of operations being turned over to the trustee for the bondholders.

New management supervision, which changed the policies of the company, has been installed. A complete line of enamel ware has been developed and put upon the market. Operations, nevertheless, have been severely handicapped by the stagnant condition of the building industry upon which the sale of products largely depends. Operations resulted in losses for 1932 and 1933. Gross sales for 1933 were $550,588 and loss was $26,000.

Because of unfavorable earnings and the poor outlook a reorganization is not yet practicable, nor has the protective committee been able to consummate foreclosure proceedings. Such action will probably have to await pickup in the building industry. The committee had $1,088,000 of bonds on deposit in April, 1934.

Mortgage Refunding Commission.

Investors' Guide: Is there any set commission for a real estate man who succeeds in getting a Home Owners Loan corporation loan for me through the Chicago office? I live outside of Chicago. What would be a fair price for negotiating a $2,000 loan? We have just been notified that the loan has been granted.—S. J. E.

Answer: If you are the borrower, that is, the owner of the property on which the loan was made, you are under no obligation to pay a real estate broker any commission for negotiating the loan, according to information received by us from Home Owners Loan corporation. We were told that any contract calling for payment of commission on such a transaction is void and, therefore, not binding.

If, however, you were the lender, the holder of the mortgage that was refinanced, the commission you would pay to the real estate man depends on the agreement which you had with him.

COTTON SPURTS ON REPORT U.S. TO ACT IN STRIKE CRISIS

Reports of government intervention into the textile strike was impending combined with reduced estimates on the crop started a buying movement in cotton yesterday which swept prices up sharply. Closing trades were well toward the top with net gains of 15 to 17 points in Chicago and 15 to 21 points in other markets.

There was no material pressure on the market. Houses with continental and English connections were good buyers early and hedging sales were below trade expectations. There was also some buying based on the belief a technical rally was in order. Spot cotton closed 15 to 20 points higher, the latter equal to $1 per bale. New Orleans, Galveston, and Houston were quoted at 13.30 cents and New York at 13.35 cents per pound. Prices:

ADVANCE IN LARD PRICES DUE TO DECREASED STOCKS

A decrease of nearly 30,000,000 pounds in stocks of lard at the seven leading western packing centers and of 43,000,000 pounds of meat during the month of August resulted in a sharp upturn in provision futures yesterday. Closing trades were at the top with net gains of 10 to 15 cents on lard and 5 to 12½ cents on bellies.

According to provision specialists the reduction in stocks was mainly during the last two weeks in August, and owing to the liberal shipping sales already on packers' books, it is expected that a very material decrease in stocks will be shown this month unless there is a big increase in supplies of hogs. Some look for a decrease of over 40,000,000 pounds lard during the current month.

Cash and loose lard was quoted yesterday at $9.50 and leaf at $10.50, while bellies were held at $13.92. Prices follow:

WOOL MARKET

Boston, Mass, Sept. 5.—An occasional woolen manufacturer not affected by the strike is showing a little interest in scoured wools but mills are not taking any substantial quantities. Few worsted manufacturers are even inquiring for wools, regardless of whether they are affected by the strike at the moment. Many manufacturers have stated that they are not interested in buying wool now because of the uncertainty over the labor situation in the textile industry.

The other members of the executive committee are Fred W. Sargent, Philip Armour, Chauncey McCormick, John T. Pirie Sr., D. F. Kelly, Harry A. Wheeler, James Cunningham, Bernard J. Mullaney, Walter E. Olson, George Rossetter, Gerhard Meyne, Raymond Creviston, Lucius Teter, and J. Soule Warterfield.

Have Fund for Drive.

According to Carroll H. Sudler, state director of the northern district of Illinois for the FHA, the new executive committee will provide at least $100,000 to carry out the local community campaign. Under the direction of Mr. White more than $50,000 already has been pledged by industry, finance, and civic organizations, Mr. Sudler stated.

According to Mr. White the contemplated community campaign is to be centered on arousing the interest of the feminine members of home owning families.

"It's the women of a family who usually decide whether the house needs repairs or modernization," he said. "And if Mrs. Jones decides her house needs a new roof or a fresh coat of paint it won't take long for Mrs. Smith, her neighbor, to follow suit and go to a nearby bank and borrow enough to fix up the porch or install a new bathtub."

Citizen Group to Aid.

The executive committee of sixteen will be aided in its work by a citizens' committee of one hundred local civic, industrial, and labor leaders, property owners' organizations, and other leading business men.

Mr. Wilson pointed out that the financing, to be available to property owners under this community campaign, will not be limited to home owners, but may be used to remodel small apartment buildings or turn old houses into kitchenette apartments, put new and modern fronts on stores and additions to industrial buildings, and make other needed improvements.

NAME REALTORS WHO WILL SELECT SLATE FOR 1935

Group of 9 Includes 4 Past Presidents.

BY AL CHASE.

Selection of the nine realtors who will nominate officers for the coming year was announced last night at the first fall meeting of the Chicago Real Estate board by Howard H. Haylett, business manager. Four former presidents and five men from the membership at large, with an alternate for each group, have been selected by the board of directors of the realty organization.

The quartet of past presidents includes John P. Hooker, 1927; George F. Nixon, 1928; Newton C. Farr, 1930, and Henry G. Zander Jr., 1933. Paul Steinbrecher, 1916, is the alternate.

Member Group Named.

The members appointed are Arthur Kruggel, Fred M. Lorish, William C. McLennan, Henry George Slavik, and Leo G. Varty. The alternate is John J. Fischer.

The newly appointed nominating committee will report its slate of officers at the next monthly meeting of the board, Oct. 3. The election will be held Nov. 7 and the installation will take place at the annual meeting Dec. 5.

Following the business session Adam Schantz III. of Dayton, O., chairman of the national committee on state and local taxation of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, discussed tax limitation in several states. He declared it was decried by organizations and individuals upholding the cause of tax spending.

Load on Real Estate.

"I have seen powerful lobbies operate to protect particular interests, even from most reasonable and equitable taxation," he said. "Time after time I have seen such battles carried on until finally legislatures have pushed another load on real estate.

"The time has come when real property must be similarly organized to protect the masses of home, farm, and other real property owners from confiscation. Real property tax justice must spring from the people themselves, in the form of real property constitutional tax limitation. This and this alone will guarantee real property an invulnerable status."

CONTRACTS LET TO RAZE 26 MORE SLUM BUILDINGS

Contracts were let yesterday for the wrecking of 26 buildings in the demolition campaign of the Metropolitan Housing council, Roscoe J. Barrett, assistant secretary of the Illinois State Housing board, announced. Three others, originally listed for demolition by the council, were announced as having been wrecked by the owners instead. One other building was withdrawn at the last moment by the owner when he found a tenant for his house.

Among the buildings on this list is a five story brick structure owned by the Leiter estate south of the loop. Another, on West Grand avenue, built just after the Chicago fire, is claimed by the owner to have been the residence of Mary McVicker, famous child actress, whose father was James H. McVicker, who built the first McVicker theater. Making her debut in 1858 at the age of 10 as Little Eva she played Juliet opposite Edwin Booth in 1868 and became his second wife the following year.

Barrett declared that with these 26 buildings, the total number wrecked now stands around 75, with 44 under contract and an additional 13, which are awaiting the letting of contracts. During the progress of the campaign 146 buildings have been torn down by the owners at their expense.

MAYOR TO GREET FOREIGN HOUSING EXPERTS TODAY

Mayor Kelly yesterday announced his acceptance of the chairmanship of the group of sponsors for the visit of foreign housing experts to Chicago today. Led by Sir Raymond Unwin, the party of five will arrive this morning and will stay four days before proceeding to Milwaukee on a tour of thirty-six American cities.

There are three Europeans in the group: Sir Raymond and Miss A. J. Samuel of England, and Ernst Kahn of Germany. Henry Wright and Ernst Bohn, Americans, are other members of the party.

Mayor Kelly will meet the housing experts at the Medinah club of Chicago and welcome them. This afternoon the guests will be shown Chicago's most densely populated areas. Tomorrow morning will be devoted to round table discussions at the Medinah club. In the afternoon motor trips will be made to slum areas. Saturday will be given over to discussions. A lake cruise will be a feature of Sunday's program.

2 CHICAGOANS GET REDUCTIONS IN INCOME TAXES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Two Chicago petitioners, former stockholders in Marshall Field & Co., obtained reductions in income tax claims assessed against them on sales of the company's stock in stipulation judgments filed today by the board of tax appeals.

Mrs. Jessie McLaren Simpson of 72 West Adams street, who appealed a claim originally totaling $245,937 for 1930 and 1931, was assessed claims respectively of $121,592 and $2,115 for the two years. The Northern Trust company, as trustee for the James Simpson Jr. trust, had a claim of $89,642 for the two years reduced to $26,877.

James Simpson, who appealed a claim of $17,412, was reassessed the same amount. All three charged that the bureau of internal revenue had erroneously overestimated the profits derived from the sale of the stock.

SECURITIES ACT WILL BE TESTED BY OIL OPERATOR

Texan Plans Sale Despite Order Forbidding It.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, Sept. 5.—Aldrich Blake, Texas oil operator, will be the first to test the scope of the securities act. He has written a letter to Baldwin Bane, chief of the securities division of the federal trade commission, announcing that he will sell oil from lands he has leased in Texas, although forbidden to do so by the commission on the ground that he is marketing unregistered securities.

His letter says he will sell oil at his office here tomorrow in order to test in the courts the right of the commission to interfere with his activities.

Under the terms of Mr. Blake's leases, he obtains seven-eighths of the oil, gas, or other minerals found on his property, the other one-eighth being reserved as royalty by those who own the land. According to his procedure, Mr. Blake receives in advance a fixed sum for each barrel of oil contracted for at market price, the oil to be delivered only if a well comes in on his leases, none of which has yet been developed. This advance is used to finance operations.

Statement by Blake.

"It is my understanding," says a memorandum by Mr. Blake, "that the securities department regards my contract as 'an undivided interest in an oil or gas lease.' Such an interest, according to the act, is considered a security.

"I have not sold and do not for the present intend to sell any undivided or other interest in my leases," continues the memorandum. "If I strike oil I may decide to sell all of the lease interests purchased by me to some major company that will complete development on the properties. Of course, whoever purchased the leases from me would have to deliver the number of barrels of oil sold by me to the public.

Pay for Lease in Oil.

"It is not unusual for major companies and others who purchase a lease from the landowner to pay for the lease by contracting to deliver a given number of barrels of oil to the landowner when, as, and if produced.

"Surely a contract for the delivery of pre-discovery oil, given as consideration for the entire lease interest, could not possibly be interpreted as reconveying an 'undivided lease interest' to the landowner who had just passed full and complete title. Under my contract, I am no more selling an undivided interest in my lease than is a major oil company that pays for a lease by giving the landowner a contract for oil, when, as and if produced."

CONGRESSIONAL POWER IS ISSUE IN ALCOHOL SUIT

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Calvin W. Chestnut today overruled a demurrer to the suit filed by the United States government to recover from the United States Industrial Alcohol company $8,140,514. The action was brought several months ago by the internal revenue department.

It was charged that the company withdrew from bond large quantities of distilled spirits from its warehouses under representations that the spirits were to be used for industrial purposes only, but which, the government charges, found their way into beverage channels. Counsel for the alcohol company in their demurrer held that the twenty-first amendment abolishing national prohibition made the previous prohibition law inoperative.

Judge Chestnut held that the question is simply one of congressional power and that in overruling the demurrer he did so without prejudice so that if the defendant's counsel raised further questions they could be given adequate consideration.

BONDHOLDERS GET CHANCE TO 'SAVE' BUILDING

Fifteen hundred bondholders of the fifteen story Aquitania apartment building, 833 Argyle street, yesterday were given forty-five days in which to provide enough cash to pay $245,000 in delinquent taxes. Although the county board has the right to take title for nonpayment of taxes, the finance committee of the board at a meeting held yesterday decided to give the bondholders another chance.

The decision was reached after the bondholders' committee, headed by George W. Rossetter, had made two compromise proposals for retaining possession of the property, both of which were rejected.

On Sept. 7, 1932, the county treasurer auctioned off optional title to the building which had delinquent taxes of $162,388 at that time. The county bid in the property for the amount of the judgment and obtained the customary certificate of sale. The two year period of redemption has now expired. The building is managed by Melvin L. Straus, vice president of the American National bank.

HOGS SAG AGAIN WHEN PRICES OF PORK WEAKEN

Top Kinds Sell Under $10; Cattle Decline.

Further losses were recorded in hogs yesterday as pork prices weakened at some of the leading distributing points. However, the break was not severe, and closing prices yesterday, after a week of gradual decline, were only 40 to 45 cents under the high level of the year established Wednesday of last week. In the last five trading days the general average price of hogs has declined an average of 8 cents daily, whereas the price on the rise during the preceding 15 market days averaged 18 cents daily.

Supplies of slaughter stock still are running below normal for this season, but they are larger than the exceptionally light receipts of a week ago. Eleven of the biggest markets handled a total of 164,000 hogs the first three days this week, an increase of 13 per cent over the first half of last week.

Tops Sell Under $10.

Packers obtained top grades of hogs below the $10 line for the first time in eleven days, yesterday's peak for full carloads standing at $9.85, including the $2.25 tax, leaving $7.60 for the farmer, while odd lots ranged upward to $9.90. The bulk cost packers $8.95 to $9.85, and average was $9.40.

Since the reduction in the freight rates for live stock over many of the roads hauling to Chicago was made on September 1, amounting in some instances to as much as $20 per carload, there has been an improvement in the quality of Chicago hog receipts. Members of the trade believe that the reduced rate is bringing more of the top grades of hogs here that formerly sold through other channels in the west. More long fed hogs were seen here yesterday than at any time in several weeks, including several strings of prime 350 to 500 pound butchers that cost packers $9.15 to $9.65.

Cattle Supply Is Large.

Yesterday's cattle run at 13,500 was augmented by a holdover estimated at 5,000, and prices in most classes dipped again. Actual arrivals on Tuesday totaled 41,497, the largest since 1923, with only one larger since 1918. The record for all time for one day stands at 49,129, established Nov. 16, 1908.

The bulk of yesterday's liberal run of fed steers and yearlings sold weak to 25 cents lower, with some closing sales indicating more loss when it became evident that a good sized holdover would remain in the pens unsold. Buyers obtained the bulk of beef steers within a range of $6.75 to $9.75, paying up to $10.60 for one shipment of 1,287 pound averages. Top yearlings averaged 995 pounds, brought $9.50.

Steady to strong prices were paid for slaughter lambs. Selected lots of natives sold to city butchers up to $7, while packers bought freely around $6.75. Culls cashed at $5 and below, depending on their condition.

Western feeding lambs ruled weak to 25 cents lower, the bulk selling at $5.75, with only a few up to $6. Breeding stock, however, was in good demand at the highest prices since November, 1930, selected lots of yearling ewes ranging up to $6.40.

GRAIN EXPORTS FROM COUNTRY SHOW DECLINE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Grain exports from the United States last week totaled 39,000 bushels against 645,000 bushels in the preceding week and 56,000 bushels during the corresponding week of last year.

Commerce department figures today gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those for the week before: Wheat, 166,000 against 227,000; barley, 70,000 against 409,000; corn, 155,000 against 8,000; oats, none against 1,000; no exports of rye were reported for either week.

Canadian grains exported last week from United States ports totaled 1,425,000 bushels against 661,000, while exports of North American wheat flour were 35,000 barrels against 65,000 barrels.

FOREIGN OATS GIVEN U. S. HELP, DEALER STATES

Competition of foreign oats in the Mississippi valley is being abetted by the government, according to indications.

A cargo of oats from Argentina arrived in New Orleans Aug. 31, Bartlett Frazier company was advised yesterday. While it was not learned whether the shipment had been moved into the interior it was reported the federal barge line cut its bid for hauling the cargo from New Orleans to Memphis from 20 cents, the normal tarif, to 12.4 cents.

"It would seem," comments Bartlett Frazier, "the government, in addition to permitting foreign oats to enter the country for competition with our own crop allows government controlled transportation to further disturb the situation, enabling the oats to be a competing factor in the middle west."

The Blue Eagle and chinch bug appeared at about the same time, a farmer near Hebron, Ind., comments. He asks whether there is any relationship between the two. A local wag believes the Blue Eagle is probably the offspring, as the chinch bug is a summer visitor only.

Strength in Canadian oats was reported yesterday to be due entirely to poor crop prospects and anticipation of excellent demand throughout the winter and summer. The same situation exists in barley. Northern areas were hard hit by frost two weeks ago and poor yields and samples are expected. Malting houses have been heavy buyers of barley, paying premiums of as much as 20 cents over the October future. Oats are commanding good premiums in the country.

Contrary to opinion, recent rains will have a distinctly beneficial effect on corn, says R. I. Mandsfield of Bartlett Frazier. The improvement in pasturage will stop the forced selling of cattle and hogs, which means more corn will be fed later in the season than was originally estimated. Another bullish factor, he adds, is that much of the imperfect corn will be used for immediate consumption.

The open interest in wheat futures at the close Tuesday was 156,220,000 bushels, a drop of 5,335,000 from the same day a week earlier. This decline, says Mitchell Hutchins & Co., may have wrung out weak holdings from the market, the elimination of which was sufficient to tighten up the technical situation.

U. S. TELLS PLAN TO KEEP ANIMAL FEED AVAILABLE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace said today it might be necessary to guarantee the price of corn fodder so as to keep available supplies on farms in the drouth area for relief purposes. A special office is to be set up by the farm administration in Kansas City to make a survey and locate all types of animal feed.

The office also will assist county drouth committees in arranging pools of individual farmers to make purchases. The government will not buy any feed itself for distribution.

Farm administration officials said that in some sections there was a surplus of corn fodder and other feed supplies and they hoped to keep those supplies in their present locations. They feared the owners might ship the feed to other sections for higher prices or place it in silos. For that reason, Secretary Wallace said, it might become necessary to guarantee a price to the holders to keep the feed in its present location so that county agents may know where to find it.

Six regional meetings will be held next week to discuss the live stock feed situation and plans for a referendum among corn-hog contract signers to determine whether they want an adjustment program next year, Chester C. Davis, farm administrator, said today.

The regional conferences will be held at Indianapolis Sept. 10 and 11, Kansas City 12 and 13, St. Paul 14 and 15, Salt Lake City 14, New York 15, and Atlanta 19. Later county meetings will be held throughout the country.

OIL PRODUCTION CUT; REFINERY STOCKS LOWER

New York, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 42,550 barrels in the week ended Sept. 1, totaling 2,422,150 barrels, the American Petroleum institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California decreased 7,950 barrels to 1,961,750 barrels.

Refineries representing 89.7 per cent of estimated total capacity reported daily average runs of crude oil to stills as 2,361,000 barrels, against 2,474,000 barrels in the preceding week.

Finished gasoline stocks at refineries totaled 28,603,000 barrels against 28,549,000. Unfinished gasoline stocks totaled 5,870,000 barrels against 6,044,000 barrels. Daily average cracked gasoline by refineries representing 95.6 per cent of total charging capacity was 510,000 barrels against 475,000 barrels.

CORN ON MANY ILLINOIS FARMS REPORTED SAFE

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Corn on many Illinois farms is now safe from frost and chinch bug damage, while continuing, has been reduced by recent rains, the weather bureau said today in its weekly report. Light frosts were reported in some northwestern lowlands last week.

"Much corn is now safe from frost, though the size, filling and quantity of ears are extremely variable, more favorable weather of recent weeks having come too late to influence earing materially, except the late plantings," the survey said.

Meadows and pastures have improved, a good crop of soy bean hay is being harvested, much fall plowing has been finished and rye is still being planted for pasturage, the weather bureau announced.
